INFLATION PROGRAM MENACED WITH DELAY BY G. O. P. FIGHT; ROBINSON TELLS GOAL SOUGHT

U. S. 30-YEAR CLASS MAY BE RETIRED SOON

Power for Roosevelt to Cancel Big Contracts Also Requested.

OCEAN AND AIRMAIL SYSTEMS FACE CUTS

18,000 Employes Affected in Proposed Economy Over Nation.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

The administration's war on expenditures took a new and surprising tangent yesterday when the Budget Bureau requested authority for the President to cancel contracts, recommended retirement of all 30-year Government employes, and slashed independent offices estimates $468,407,608.

The 30-year retirement recommendation is without optional features persistently urged by employes. Under its terms, 18,000 workers would be automatically retired July 1, unless specifically exempted by the President. They would draw pay under the civil service retirement act. Some 3,000 are located here.

Another sweeping proposal would empower the President to modify or cancel any contract to which the Government is party. In so doing, he could determine compensation due, and parties affected could appeal to the courts. Some $35,000,000 in foreign ocean and air mail contracts, $15,000,000 in domestic airmail contracts and $50,000,000 appropriated last session for public buildings are at stake under the provision.

Curtail Extra Flying Pay.

Other recommendations would permit furloughing of Army officers at half pay by the President, would eliminate the one year's sea pay now allowed Naval Academy graduates who do not receive commissions, and permit the President to curtail extra flying pay for Army, Navy and Marine fliers.

The compulsory retirement proposal was viewed as a forerunner to the major reorganization program—easing the blow of the ax that eventually may fall on Federal personnel. Federal employe groups immediately voiced opposition to the compulsory nature of the plan. Luther C. Steward, president of the National Federation of Federal Employes, will ask the House Appropriations Committee to make the retirement optional with the employe.

Steward said last night the compulsory retirement provision of the economy act already has raised the cost of Government annuities 17 per cent. He estimated the 30-year compulsory retirement proposal would cost the Government $20,000,000.

"Grave Disorganization."

"It is undoubtedly true that substantial numbers of employes who are now within the retirement system, would, if afforded the opportunity, exercise their option for retirement at full annuity," he said, urging

HOUSE PUTS POWER TAX ON PRODUCERS

Republican Effort to Cut Letter Postage Down to 2 Cents Defeated.

(Associated Press.)

The Democratic House broke loose yesterday and forced an amendment into the administration gasoline tax-postage revision bill to compel producers instead of consumers to pay the 3 per cent electric energy tax. It then sent the measure to the Senate.

The vote on passage was 313 to 45.

Republican efforts to reduce the first class postage rate from 3 to 2 cents throughout the country were defeated.

The measure gives President Roosevelt power to decrease the first class three-cent rate to two cents, and to increase second, third and fourth class rates. The rate on local letters is reduced to two cents.

The provision extended the 1-cent gasoline tax for another year, to obtain revenue estimated at $135,000,000 for budget-balancing purposes, was approved without opposition.

Opposition centered on the power given the President to increase rates on second-class matter, affecting newspapers and periodicals. Representative Bacharach (Republican), New Jersey, unsuccessfully sought to strike out this provision on a motion to recommit the bill, but lost, 246 to 120.

Democratic proponents conceded to Republicans that the intent of the provision was to empower the President to wipe out what they termed as an $102,000,000 annual subsidy to newspapers, and which they charged was responsible for the postal deficit, estimated for this year at $150,000,000.

The amendment forcing producers instead of consumers to pay the electric energy tax came as a surprise to Democratic leaders. Offered at the last moment by Representative Whittington (Democrat), Mississippi, supported by Representative Cochran (Democrat), Missouri, and opposed by Ways and Means Committee members, it swept through the House on a standing vote of 138 to 86.

It was around this provision in the $1,000,000,000 tax bill passed a year ago that so much controversy revolved. It was finally agreed by Senate and House conferees to make the consumers pay the levy, after the House had approved putting the tax on electric producers.

Gas Kills Woman; Found After 2 Days

Mrs. Emma I. Kennedy Is Discovered in Home; Stove Broken.

Mrs. Emma I. Kennedy, 63, 730 Eleventh street northwest, was found dead from asphyxiation in her apartment late yesterday. It is believed she had been dead for at least two days.

Still sitting in a chair, her body was found by a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Margaret Kennedy, 1205 Fifteenth street, when she called to see how the woman was getting along. Finding the door locked and smelling escaping gas, the daughter-in-law immediately called the rescue squad. The woman had apparently been asphyxiated by escaping gas from a broken connection in her stove. However, Acting Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald announced last night that an autopsy would be performed at noon today in an effort to definitely establish the cause of death.

Besides her daughter-in-law, she is survived by her son, Thomas F. Kennedy.

D. A. R. GET PERKINS VIEWS ON JOBLESS

Labor Secretary Accorded Standing Ovation by Convention.

By ELISABETH E. POE.

The 12,000,000 or 15,000,000 men and women without work today and without the price to buy food and comforts are a challenge to the citizens of this country so to organize the industrial machinery as to provide a steady flow of work for all, Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins told the forty-second Continental Congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution, meeting in Constitution Hall last night.

When Secretary Perkins appeared on the platform the entire congress stood up in tribute to the first woman Cabinet member in United States history. The president general, Mrs. Russell William Magna, referred to this fact in her introduction of Secretary Perkins.

Secretary Perkins reminded her audience that only through the progress of industry were American women released from domestic cares for such cultural and patriotic pursuits as D. A. R. memberships and gatherings. "Women," she said, "not forced to earn their own livings, often forget the great blessings of industrial devices and the part they are playing in modern civilization. For through the genius of modern industry has come much of the development of modern civilization."

In closing, Secretary Perkins pointed out that the great need today was to recognize that out of the welfare of the wage earner grows the prosperity of the whole community, and that when the purchasing power of a country dries up through unemployment and insufficient wages, there are hard times for all.

Through solving the present economic crisis and problems in an American way and according to American standards of living, lies the real safety of this Nation in the future, she concluded.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the President, who was admitted to

Japanese Deny Plans To Reimburse Missions

Shanghai (Friday), April 21 (A.P.).—A spokesman for the Japanese legation here said today that the Japanese government had not advised the legation that it would pay for damage to American missions in China which had been bombed.

He was commenting upon advices from Peiping that the Japanese legation there had made such an announcement. He added that if any legation official in Peiping had made such a statement, it was an expression of personal opinion only.

Water in Fuel Tank Delays Lindberghs

Motor Stops Dead 200 Feet in Air but Colonel Lands Safely.

Columbus, Ohio, April 20 (A.P.).—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh arrived here at 10:48 p. m. for an overnight stop on their Transcontinental Airways inspection tour. They left Pittsburgh at 9:42 p. m., after being delayed there for several hours by motor trouble caused by water in their gasoline.

The incident of their motor stopping dead 200 feet in the air on the first take-off at Pittsburgh didn't seem to disturb either. As if at an airshow, the colonel turned his ship and made a deadstick landing, without so much as an extra bump.

CHINESE CLAIM FRESH MOVE TO DISSECT NATION

Creation of New Regime South of Wall Laid to Japanese.

CUSTOMS ARE SEIZED AND ROAD IMPERILED

Tientsin Reports Starting of Separatist Intrigues to Discredit Nanking.

Shanghai (Friday), April 21 (A.P.).—Chinese press dispatches today claimed that Japanese and Manchukuoan officials met at Peitaiho yesterday and formed a "Luantung provisional government" allegedly to preserve peace and order between the Great Wall and the Lwan River.

The section between the Great Wall, the Lwan River and the seacoast is the scene of the latest conflict between Chinese troops and the Japanese and Manchukuoan allies.

The messages said that Chinese who allegedly participated in disorders in Tientsin in 1931 as pro-Japanese instigators were the leaders in the Luantung government.

Customs Taken Over.

Other Chinese advices stated that the Japanese had taken over the customs at Chinwangtao, coastal town south of Shanhaikwan. Customs headquarters here, however, said they had not been so advised and it was believed the Chinwangtao customs were functioning normally.

The Chinese also claimed the Japanese had taken over a section of the railway between Shanhaikwan and Changli, using it for the transportation of troops and ammunition inside the Great Wall.

Tientsin, China, (Friday), April 21 (A.P.).—This city now is said to be the center of separatist intrigues, the object of which is the overthrow of the authority of the Nanking government and the establishment of an independent regime at Peiping.

Opponents of the alleged separatist movement vehemently denied that any political turnover is impending, but they have demanded the return of Marshal Chang Hsiao-Liang as the only method of restoring political stability in North China and safeguarding the national government against a threat of separation.

Japanese See Revolt.

Japanese circles here, however, maintain that the outbreak of a rebellion against the national government is imminent. These statements lack confirmation.

In addition to northern politicians who are said to be fostering the separatist movement, there is a substantial Chinese element which feels this is the only method to prevent the extension of the Sino-Japanese hostilities south of the Great Wall and armed occupation of Tientsin and Peiping.

Marshal Chang Hsiao-Liang, former military overlord of north China, resigned several weeks ago and accepted responsibility for the loss of Jehol Province north of the Great Wall of China to Japanese and Manchukuoan troops. After a few days at Shanghai he left, ostensibly for Europe.

Federal Reserve To Lead Credit Expansion.

OPEN MARKET DRIVE IS NEAR

Failure to Lift Prices Will Bring Issue of New Cash.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

President Roosevelt's program for controlled inflation will be administered by the Federal Reserve system in its first experimental phases, Senator Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, said yesterday in a formal public statement outlining the aims and purposes of the new currency measure.

The administration's three-way inflation program was introduced by Senator Elmer Thomas, of Oklahoma, leader of the inflationist bloc on the Democratic side. It contemplates, first, open-market operations by the Federal Reserve system on a much broader scale than has been attempted heretofore. If this venture does not quickly achieve the objective of sustained increases in commodity prices, greenback Treasury notes with a full legal tender status may be issued under the direction of the President.

This currency would be retired on the prevailing gold basis at the rate of 4 per cent a year. Under this plan 25 years would be required to retire the unredeemable currency. Circulation would be achieved by using the new money to discharge Government obligations on maturity, and to meet the Federal budget deficits. The currency would be eligible for legal bank reserves.

Effect of World Parley.

A second provision of the bill would vest the President with broad powers to revalorize the existing gold dollar by increasing or decreasing the metal content by as much as 50 per cent. It was explained by Senator Robinson, however, that this section is desired principally as an authority necessary to the world economic conversations which are to begin tomorrow with Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain.

In high official circles it was stated informally last night that no

Graves' Desecration Is Protested by Turks

Istanbul, Turkey, April 20 (A.P.).—Two thousand Turkish students today paraded before the Bulgarian Consulate here in protest of destruction of tombstones by Bulgarian students in a Turkish cemetery in Rasgrad, Bulgaria. The students then marched to a Bulgarian cemetery on the outskirts of the city and decorated it with flowers.

"We are teaching the Bulgarians that vengeance should be taken on the living and not on the dead," a leader of the students said.

Roosevelt to Dominate Economic Talks Here

Fall of Dollar From Gold Standard Gives the President Powerful Weapon in Parleys Opening With MacDonald Tomorrow.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

The fall of the American dollar from the gold standard will enable President Roosevelt to assume the dominant role in the conversations which will open here tomorrow with the presence in the Capital of the British prime minister, Ramsay MacDonald. Mr. MacDonald and his party are expected to arrive here this afternoon and the program of Anglo-American consultation will be inaugurated tomorrow when the two statesmen have their first meeting.

The action of the President in withdrawing foreign support from the dollar in international exchanges has profoundly altered the course of the Washington conversations. As long as the currency of the United States was on a gold basis, the initiative for agreement on the gold standard had to come from this country. The incentive for agreement was the anxiety of this Government to see the pound sterling back on the established basis. In other words, the United States was going into the conference with a plan which was to be submitted to Great Britain and accepted or rejected by them according to the conditions of the offer. However, the roles are now reversed. While Prime Minister MacDonald was on the ocean the dollar fell off the yellow parity and joined the pound in the nongold basis.

The position of the French is even more painful than that of Great Britain. Other countries left perilously alone on the gold standard, like Holland, are beginning to experience some doubts as to their fiduciary future. The Dutch minister, Mr. Van Royen, gave expression to these fears when he called at the State Department yesterday and said that the American decision had left his country in a very uncomfortable position.

STOCK PRICES RISE TO RECORD FOR 1933

Billions Added to Quoted Values; Commodities Join Upward Sweep.

(Copyright, 1933, by the Associated Press.)

New York, April 20.—Tumultuous buying swept through the financial markets today, carrying the general level of share values to new highs for 1933, in the most frenzied trading experienced in the stock exchange in nearly three years.

Commodities also swept forward along a broad front, and although headlong advance in both shares and staples was interrupted by heavy profit-taking sales, billions were added to quoted values.

The dollar again dropped precipitately in foreign exchange dealings for a time, reaching levels well under the equivalent of 90 cents in gold, as measured by its relation to the French franc, the only major currency still on a gold basis.

The indicated decrease in the value of the dollar spurred a wholesale outpouring of funds into shares and commodities, in a frenzied effort to profit from the increasing prices in terms of dollars.

Funds even came from abroad, as speculators recalled that stocks in London went up relatively more sharply when England suspended gold payment in 1931, than the pound went down. Buying of dollars by foreign speculators to make purchases in American markets finally began to support the American currency, and

White House Beer Held Gallery Play

Bishop Says Delivery Was as to Be Expected From Politician.

Columbus, Ohio, April 20 (A.P.).—Delivery of beer to the White House soon after the 3.2 per cent brew was legalized, was described today in a publicly-addressed opinion by Bishop H. Lester Smith, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, as a "play to the galleries" on the part of President Roosevelt.

The bishop voiced his opinion of the beer delivery to the White House, in a speech at a State-wide prohibition rally here yesterday, and confirmed his remarks today outside the meeting.

The churchman, from Cincinnati, said he was in Washington when the first beer truck went to the White House, and said the incident was "as cheap a thing as you would expect from a ward politician." Bishop Smith is one of the leaders of Ohio prohibition forces.

HERRIOT DISMAYED BY ACTION ON GOLD

Associate Says "We Might as Well Turn Around and Go Home."

S. S. Ile de France, en route to New York, April 20 (A.P.).—American abandonment of the gold standard has seriously disrupted the plans of former Premier Edouard Herriot, who is en route to Washington to represent France in the economic conversations with President Roosevelt.

Consternation was expressed among the French group accompanying him. One of the members exclaimed, "We might as well turn around and go back home."

While M. Herriot was greatly perturbed he took the news with outward calm.

All arrangements for the talks, which had been made with such laborious and meticulous care, now are useless, in the opinion of French officials accompanying M. Herriot.

The former premier immediately went into conference with the experts and advisers accompanying him when word of the American action reached him. The purpose of their conference was to see what must be done to face the new situation.

S. S. Berengaria en route to New York, April 20 (A.P.).—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald and the British experts who are accompanying him to the White House economic conferences, tonight anxiously awaited more complete details of Great Britain's reaction to America's abandonment of the gold standard.

Mr. MacDonald, because of the sparse information at hand, refused to comment on conditions in either country.

The party will disembark tomorrow, and Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British Ambassador to Washington, will meet the prime minister at Quarantine.

Miss Ishbel MacDonald is to address a Women's Press Club luncheon Saturday in Washington.

Bill Is Introduced In Senate by Thomas.

REPUBLICANS' PLANS BARED

Minority Efforts Will Be to Turn Public Against It.

(Associated Press.)

Inflation legislation approved by President Roosevelt was submitted to the Senate late yesterday and immediately ran into such determined opposition in Republican quarters that extensive delay in passage was threatened.

The measure, intended first of all to provide a credit expansion of $3,000,000,000 through the Federal Reserve System, and, that failing to rout the forces of depression, to empower the Chief Executive to expand the currency, was introduced by Senator Thomas (Democrat), Oklahoma, as an amendment to the pending farm relief bill.

In spite of the Republican threat, Democratic leaders were calmly confident of passage, and that soon. Speaking for the Republican regulars, Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, and his party colleagues would discuss the measure thoroughly in an effort to arouse public sentiment against it. Republican tactics, he said, would be to "debate it and let the country understand it, and to show what has happened in other countries that have taken this course."

Reed Sees Poor Menared.

While Democrat and Republican independent support was overwhelming, Republican leaders were emphatic in stating they would try to block its hurried consideration until public opinion had been tested.

Ogden Mills, the Hoover Secretary of the Treasury, conferred with Republican chieftains just before the amendment was offered and soon afterward. Reed said about twenty regular Republicans and a few Democrats were prepared to debate the proposal at length to "make the country see its dangers." He added:

"The poor people, with savings accounts and insurance policies are the ones who will suffer under this proposal. If we can delay it long enough to let the country see that we may stop it yet."

The measure was referred to the Banking Committee after Senator McNary, of Oregon, the Republican leader, had objected to its introduction until Thomas had agreed to send it there. Thomas acquiesced, but McNary said he felt the proposal should be considered as a separate measure and not tacked on the farm bill.

Plans for Farm Relief Bill.

Chairman Fletcher of the Banking Committee called a meeting for today and predicted approval of the amendment by Senate meeting time or shortly thereafter.

Reports circulated that the farm bill, designed to lift commodity

First Lady on Night Ride In Plane of Miss Earhart

Mrs. Roosevelt Thrilled by Flight in Huge Cabin Craft Piloted by Famous Transatlantic Flier in Evening Clothes and White Gloves.

(Associated Press.)

The First Lady of the land and the first woman to fly the ocean went sky-larking together last night in a big Condor plane.

It was eleven months to the night after Amelia Earhart started off across the Atlantic alone that she flew Mrs. Roosevelt almost all the way from Washington to Baltimore without even removing her white evening gloves.

"It's amusing to think of a girl in white evening dress and high-heeled shoes flying a plane," said Mrs. Roosevelt.

As for the President's wife, she got her first taste of high life from a control cabin by sitting up there with Pilot E. H. Parker almost all the way from Baltimore to Washington.

"It was like being on top of the world," she explained.

For a few brief moments up over Baltimore both Miss Earhart and Mrs. Roosevelt were shut away from the bevy of women reporters and lone photographer on the passenger list—and nobody knows what happened then, but it wasn't a crash.

The cloud ceiling which had been low during the early evening, even spluttering rain, and which had displayed just one little, lone star a few minutes before the White House party arrived at the airport, cleared in 20 minutes and gave the two an ideal view of what Mrs. Roosevelt called "Fairyland."

Tall Mrs. Roosevelt, evening-cloaked in brocaded black and gold, was accompanied by her brother, Hall Roosevelt. Tall Amelia Earhart, more willowy than ever in long-lined gown of white with short black coat, was accompanied by her husband, George Palmer Putnam.

The field was just one gigantic mud-puddle, lavishly streaked with water that hadn't soaked in yet.

"Sir Walter on a big scale!" commented Putnam when the movie men threw a large canvas over a mud-puddle for Mrs. Roosevelt and Amelia to walk out under the field lights for photos.

The take-off was so bumpy that even Mrs. Roosevelt admitted she'd like it lots better aloft—

But once up there— Amelia Ear-

D. C. ENTRIES IN LINE FOR FEDERAL POSTS

Wattawa Seen as Cummings Aid and W. D. Jamieson as Patent Chief.

Washington men are being mentioned as Assistant Attorney General and as Patent Commissioner, in addition to the 60 or more who want to be District Commissioners, it was learned yesterday from an informed member of the new regime.

John Wattawa, local attorney and a nephew of the late Senator Thomas J. Walsh, is understood to be a candidate for a post in the Department of Justice and his selection as Assistant Attorney General is well-nigh assured. Mr. Wattawa is a native of Wisconsin, but has been practicing law here for the last eight years.

The leading candidate for Commissioner of Patents is William D. Jamieson, it was learned. Mr. Jamieson, a lawyer, represented Iowa in the House of Representatives from 1909 to 1911, and served the Democratic national committee from 1916 to 1920. He took his law degree at the National University here.

Silent on Commissioners.

Informed sources yesterday were silent on the selection of the District Commissioners from a slate of threescore aspirants. It is understood that the pressure of Government business has held up action and that none will be selected before next week.

James T. Igoe, former representative from Illinois, who has been frequently mentioned as new Public Printer, is said to have lost ground lately to two new candidates who have appeared. It is understood that some objection to Igoe's appointment has been made. The new candidates for the post are Dowell Patterson, of South Carolina, and Andrew J. McDonald, of Boston.

While no decision has been made on a successor to Thomas E. Campbell, president of the Civil Service Commission, Charles Addams, of Arizona, is a likely candidate, it was learned. Alexander Weddell, of Richmond, has the best chance to be new Ambassador to Argentina, it is said.

Woodson Custodian Entry.

Urey Woodson, of Owensboro, Ky., is in the field as an aspirant for the post of alien property custodian, while Ira Nelson Morris, former Minister to Sweden, wants to be Ambassador to Turkey. Ray Baker's chances to be director of the mint are small.

The post of commissioner of industrial alcohol, now held by Dr. James M. Doran, will not necessarily be abolished when his bureau is consolidated with the Prohibition Bureau, it was said yesterday by Attorney General Cummings. Plans for this merger have reached the stage where the Executive order consolidating the bureaus has been drafted, Mr. Cummings said, but it has not definitely been decided to combine them. The Bureau of Narcotics is definitely out of the merger, he added.

None of the Assistant Attorney Generalships now existing in the Department of Justice will be abolished, Attorney General Cummings said yesterday. The elimination of unneeded jobs is going on steadily, he said, although there have not been enough to talk about. Plans for a more drastic reduction of personnel are being studied, he added.

FIRST LADY FLIES WITH MISS EARHART

hart turned out all the lights in the plane, explaining the lights below would look more beautiful that way.

Mrs. Roosevelt and a whole plane full of people sat with their eyes glued upon a Potomac pricked out in sparkles, a monument light-drenched, an opalescent conservatory top and a glowing Capitol dome while Amelia slipped absolutely unnoticed into the control cabin and took charge of the ship.

After awhile the reporters woke up, and one asked Mrs. Roosevelt, "Do you feel just as safe out here, knowing a girl may be flying this ship?"

"Just as safe!" she answered. "I'd give a lot to do it myself!!"

That was when George Palmer Putnam got the idea of arranging for Mrs. Roosevelt to go up there, and right above a jeweled Baltimore she made the shift, Amelia returning to the passenger list.

Almost immediately the plane made a most peculiar serpentine side swing.

"Oh, Mrs. Roosevelt's flying the plane!" laughed Amelia.

But she guessed wrong. When Mrs. Roosevelt returned to her place, just before landing in Washington, she said she didn't have her hand on the controls even once.

"The pilot was just showing me how he did it," was the way she explained that swerve.

And to show she'd learned something up there, she added:

"The board showed 130 miles an hour, but there was a tail wind and we were really going 160. Coming up from Miami the other day, they averaged 167 miles an hour the whole way."

it recovered substantially from its lowest levels of the day.

Bankers explained that the movement thus far was largely due to psychological factors. While the United States had declared itself off the gold standard, it had as yet done nothing to cheapen its currency, and with its normal favorable balance of trade, the demand for dollars might give them a substantial rebound in the foreign exchange markets soon, unless steps are taken to keep it down.

7,200,000 Shares Sold.

News from Washington that a measure was contemplated authorizing the Federal Reserve to buy some $3,000,000,000 in Government obligations in addition to those already held was interpreted in important financial quarters as indicating an aggressive inflationary program through credit expansion, to back up the buoyant psychological reaction to the gold standard announcement.

The upsurge in the stock exchange was more violent than yesterday's, and the upswing for the two days, as indicated by price averages, has added some $3,500,000,000 to aggregate quoted values. Prices surged up about $1 to $9, and while not all of the advance was held, most popular issues were up $1 to more than $5 at the close, and the general level was the best since early October. The turnover of approximately 7,200,000 shares in the stock exchange was the largest since May 5, 1930.

Bullitt, U. S. Mystery Man, Named Assistant to Hull

Breckenridge Long Named Italian Ambassador; Collier Confirmed.

(Associated Press.)

William C. Bullitt, whose activities abroad a few months ago made him an international mystery man, last night was attached officially to the Roosevelt administration as a special assistant to the Secretary of State.

His appointment was made known a few hours after President Roosevelt had sent to the Senate the nomination of Breckenridge Long, an Assistant Secretary of State in the Wilson administration, to be Ambassador to Italy—one of the prize posts in the Diplomatic Service.

Late in the day, the Senate ended threats of a potential dispute by confirming John Collier, of California, as commissioner of Indian affairs. It had been indicated there might be considerable opposition to his appointment.

A smiling but reserved young man, Bullitt took up immediately his work of helping Secretary Hull prepare for the world economic conference in London in June, and the Washington parleys beginning today with the arrival of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain.

It was published word that the Philadelphian had been seen going into No. 10 Downing street in London to see the prime minister that led to a controversy last winter, provoking the report that he was a special representative of President-elect Roosevelt engaging in war debt discussions abroad.

This Roosevelt promptly denied, and the "mystery man" himself, when bombarded by newspapermen, insisted he had only been gathering material for a book. This he reiterated to them at the State Department yesterday.

Long will succeed John W. Garrett, of Baltimore, in the Rome post. He was born in Missouri 52 years ago and was the Democratic nominee for the United States Senate from that State in 1920.

During the Wilson administration he became intimate with Franklin D. Roosevelt, who then was Assistant Secretary of the Navy. He was active in Roosevelt's preconvention and preelection campaign.

French Journalists Depend on Graft for Livelihood

System Is Frankly Understood by Government There, Which Has Assumed Same Practice Exists Here in Planning $1,000,000 Propaganda in U. S.

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

The plan of the French government to woo the United States with a little more than a million dollars' worth of propaganda has been received with some virtuous indignation by the American press, which resents any suggestion that its opinions can be bought or delivered. The idea seems unethical and dishonest, and, according to the American standard of journalism, it is. The French were not dishonest about it, however, because journalism in France is honestly and candidly corrupt and the only mistake was the naive assumption that the American newspapers are conducted in the same spirit.

Your correspondent had an interesting encounter with the French code of journalistic ethics a couple of years ago in connection with the journey of the French amateur boxing team to Chicago to fight the Golden Gloves team. It was taken for granted that the French newspapers would treat this undertaking with enthusiasm and your correspondent was shocked and at first incredulous to hear that the French newspapers would not publish any mention of their own national boxing team in this connection unless the money were laid on the line.

It was explained that a French journalist, like a waiter, receives only a nominal salary, if any, and is dependent on his tips, or graft, for his income. In some cases, in fact, he is expected to split his graft with his employers as a waiter is sometimes required to divide his tips with the head waiter, and the only recognized sin involved in the system is the thoroughly despicable practice of concealing or minimizing the graft with intent to cheat one's city editor, or publisher, of any part of his rightful share. That is something which no honest, self-respecting French journalist would do.

The French newspapers stifled the story of the expedition to Chicago so thoroughly that presently semiofficial steps were taken, as the international journalists would put it, in an effort to unsilence the story. One emissary bored into the government and got the attention of some minister, being, I believe, the minister of education, and another one appealed to Mr. Walter Edge, the American Ambassador. The Golden Gloves did not wish to lay any money on the line, not only because of the expense, which would have been considerable among so many newspapers, but also because this sort of doing has been denounced in the newspaper business in this country many a time.

With the assistance of Mr. Edge, the journalistic reserve of the French press was penetrated on a narrow front. One of the leading newspapers recognized the story as news and gave it some mention, but the principal sport paper remained true to its principles and would not be seduced, even by a promise that $3,000 would be given to a group of mutilated French soldiers known as the Broken Mugs. The Broken Mugs are men who were so horribly wounded about the face that they have been withdrawn from general circulation and colonized in a special hospital of their own. This guarantee to the Broken Mugs was regarded with apparent suspicion as an attempt to use them for the unworthy purpose of violating the standard journalistic practice.

Band Had to Be Paid.

When the French boxing team was finally assembled for the boat-train the band of the Paris Police Department appeared at the station and played them off with the "Star-Spangled Banner" and the "Marseillaise," but not for nothing. It was necessary to pay the police department band and buy the musical gendarmes some wine.

Your correspondent never heard definitely whether the Broken Mugs received their $3,000. The money was paid over for delivery to them, but the last report which your correspondent heard on the subject indicated that other worthy beneficiaries had been declared in on the distribution.

This experience took place just about the time of the revolution in Spain, which brought a Paris newspaper face to face with a terrific ethical problem. It appeared that the royal government of Spain, wishing to drum up some tourist business for the summer and not expecting to be dethroned so quickly, had contracted for a series of flattering news stories depicting political tranquillity and scenic charm beyond the Pyrenees. The series had just begun to run when the revolution broke and King Alfonso went away in great haste. Now the advertising manager of the paper was furious at the editorial department for refusing to suppress or deny the story of the revolution.

The ethics of French journalism being understood, one can hardly challenge the government's decision to spend the million dollars on American good will. And as this would be only a small fraction of the $19,000,000 which France neglected to pay toward the interest on her debt to the American Treasury last December, a successful propaganda would be very cheap at the price, leaving a net profit of about $18,000,000.

A Much Cheaper Approach.

However, a million dollars seems to be not nearly enough, and a cheaper and far more effective way would be to lure a lot of American publishers, writers and teachers to France, feed them, wine them, introduce them to some of the full-dress families and wind up by awarding them the Legion of Honor, which costs only 75 or 80 cents per head. The social approach is much more insidious and effective, as it leaves the subject with a deep sense of personal obligation, and the little red ribbon is an amazingly strong influence for good when it is placed in the proper lapels.

Your correspondent has had a recent experience of this sort and can testify to the persuasive powers of flattering courtesy and attention. Your correspondent visited Havana, where some sort of revolution was supposed to be in progress, and was given an importance which was very beautiful and gratifying. The mayor of the city, Mr. Mesa, took your correspondent out to visit President Machado, and the president was courteous. Mr. Mesa sent your correspondent 50 cigars. Although obviously some sort of unrest was smoldering in the city, discernible in a hundred little ways, it was possible to agree with the president and the mayor that there was absolutely no public disorder beyond such routine pineapplings as mark the daily life of New York and Chicago.

How It Is Done in Cuba.

Your correspondent did not become exactly a propagandist for the Machado government, but did develop friendly feelings toward the president and the mayor and came away with a rather stubborn, though possibly unworthy, feeling that they had hit upon a system of reprisals which might be profitably adopted in dealing with the racketeers who dynamite dry-cleaning establishments in American cities. The opposition was warned that for every bombing and every assassination committed against the Machado government a certain number of revolutionists would be killed.

It is tedious, if not impossible, to obtain strictly legal convictions in such cases, but the government has a fairly complete roster of the opposition, and when the circumstances require, simply picks up three or four revolutionaries indiscriminately and executes them.

The American police departments are equally aware of the general personnel of the rackets and the identity of the bombers, but lack the same freedom of action, which seems unfortunate from the standpoint of net results. Under the Machado system from three to a half dozen hoodlums would be plucked off the streets, taken down the cellar of a police station and blown apart with pump guns by persons unknown within 12 hours after each explosion in a dry-cleaning plant. In a short time this plan might contribute much to the peace and security of the dry-cleaning business.

Although uninformed and unconvinced as to Machado's right to the presidency, your correspondent did see something enviable in the quick, direct sequence of cause and effect. It was not the cigars. Your correspondent does not smoke cigars. It was the importance which was accorded him. The European foreign departments are masters of such flattering attention. That is why a cent's worth of red ribbon sometimes may buy the soul of an American newspaper or magazine which couldn't be bought for the entire French appropriation of a million dollars.

Youth Held on Charge Of Attempted Arson

Chester Reddix, colored, 16 years old, of Ridge avenue, Silver Spring, was arrested yesterday by Takoma Park police on a charge of attempted arson. He was being held without bond last night. The youth is alleged to have set fire to waste paper in a vacant house on Lincoln avenue, Takoma Park. The fire did little damage due to the prompt arrival of the Takoma Park Volunteer Fire Department.

CONNECTICUT RIVER ON FLOOD RAMPAGE

Many Homeless and Factories Forced to Close by High Waters.

Boston, April 20 (A.P.).—The rain-swollen Connecticut River spread its muddy waters across increasing areas of the Connecticut lowlands tonight, driving many persons from their flooded homes.

Meanwhile, the flood waters were subsiding in the northern New England valleys and along the upper reaches of the Connecticut, as far south as Massachusetts. The water also was receding in the Merrimack River, which reached its high mark in Massachusetts during the day—only a little below the peak of the big 1927 flood.

From Hartford, Conn., came reports of miles of land under water, of a hundred or more homes isolated, hen houses and other small buildings submerged, of furniture floating in water-filled streets, with the water lapping the first-floor windows of the houses. The river at Hartford was approximately 10 feet above flood stage.

At Middletown, Conn., additional families were driven from their dwellings as the water rose 16 feet above normal and preparations were made to house the homeless in the State Armory. Boats on the river had difficulty in locating the docks.

At East Hartford fire apparatus was unable to approach a fire in a three-family dwelling, and volunteer crews in boats formed a bucket brigade and extinguished the flames. The rising waters slowed railroad traffic. A trestle at East Hartford was loaded with coal cars in an effort to anchor it.

Men, working with machanical scoops, trucks and tractors, won a battle against the Connecticut River at Holyoke, bolstering with one of stone and gravel a dyke that protected a large residential section.

At Lawrence, Mass., the Merrimack River rose almost to the level of the great flood 5½ years ago and halted operations in 4 manufacturing plants.

In Lowell, 50 homes were entirely surrounded by water and large sections in the north and west parts of the city were flooded.

Officers Chosen at Meeting Held at U. S. Chamber of Commerce.

Leland Harrison was elected president of the board of directors yesterday at the first annual meeting of the National Symphony Orchestra Association at the United States Chamber of Commerce Building. Corcoran Thom was elected vice president, Walter Bruce Howe, secretary, and Robert V. Fleming, treasurer.

Other members elected to the board were Mrs. Walter Bruce Howe, Paul Wilspach, Mrs. Tracy Dows, Mrs. Reeve Lewis, George Hewitt Myers, Col. U. S. Grant 3d, Mrs. Edwin B. Parker, Clarence Aspinwall, Mrs. Henry Alzah Strong.

Six thousand dollars have been added to the subscription fund through the efforts of the women's committee, Mr. Howe, member of the governing board, announced. This reduces to $17,000 the amount needed to complete the fund which will insure the orchestra's existence for another year, Mr. Howe stated.

AIR CHIEF

CAPT. ERNEST J. KING, U. S. N.

CAPT. KING NAMED TO MOFFETT'S POST

Former Assistant Chief to Head Naval Bureau of Aeronautics.

Capt. Ernest J. King, U. S. N., one-time assistant chief of the Naval Bureau of Aeronautics, was yesterday nominated by the President to become chief of the bureau, succeeding the late Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, who lost his life in the Akron disaster early this month. Capt. King was selected for promotion to the grade of Rear Admiral last December and his new assignment will now automatically transfer him to this grade.

The new head of the Navy's aviation branch was born in Lorain, Ohio, November 23, 1878, and was appointed to the Naval Academy from Ohio in 1897. He was promoted through the grades in the Navy and was awarded the Navy Cross in the World War, "for distinguished service in the line of his profession as Assistant to the Chief of Staff of the Commander-in-Chief of the U. S. Atlantic Fleet."

In 1919 Capt. King served as the head of the postgraduate department of the Naval Academy at Annapolis. He later commanded the U. S. S. Bridge, and later the U. S. S. Chewink.

He qualified as a naval aviator in 1927. He commanded the U. S. S. Wright during 1926 and 1927, and in April, 1928, he was appointed commander of the aircrafts squadrons of the scouting fleet. In August, 1928, he became assistant chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics. Later he went to command of the Naval Air Station, Hampton Roads, Va. He assumed command of the U. S. S. Lexington, aircraft carrier, May 10, 1930, and reported for duty at the Naval War College in June, 1932.

Capt. King was in charge of the salvage operations of the submarine S-51, which was sunk off Block Island in September, 1925, and for that service was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal. When the S-4 sank off Provincetown, Mass., in 1927, Capt. King was placed in charge of the salvage operations, and again was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal and presented with a gold star with citation.

Capt. King is now on duty at the Naval War College. He makes his home on Franklin street, Annapolis, Md.

POLICE TO PRESENT SMITH OUSTER MOVE

Suggestion to Reduce Wage of Detective Sergeants Brings Resentment.

A resolution asking the resignation of Capt. Milton D. Smith of the Traffic Bureau from his position as chairman of the legislative committee of the Policemen's Association, passed Wednesday night by detective sergeants as a result of an economy suggestion made to Maj. E. W. Brown, will be presented for adoption at the association's next meeting in about three weeks, it was learned last night.

Members of the plainclothes force at headquarters drew up the resolution at a rather heated session, called when they heard that Capt. Smith, at a meeting of inspectors and captains, had suggested that $200 be deducted from the $600 a year extra compensation received by detective sergeants.

Police Chief Brown called the meeting to discuss economy plans in connection with the proposed reduction of $74,000 in the police appropriation and quite a number of suggestions were presented, none of which, however, were deemed worthy of acceptance. Some will probably be revised and changed so that a definite program can be arranged for effecting economies with the least possible inconvenience to members of the force.

Capt. Smith's plan, however, it was learned, would not be acted upon anyway, as the District of Columbia Code relating to this situation allows no loophole for such a move.

As the situation stands at the present, some 47 policemen over the age of 55 will be required to retire, and it is not expected that any of the vacancies will be filled. This order was issued by Maj. Brown some time ago and is now in process of being carried out.

Final reports from the retiring board have not as yet been made up.

RETIRING OF 30-YEAR WORKERS REQUESTED

the need for amending the provision.

"Striking as it will at many thousands of employes occupying key positions, grave disorganization to the whole Federal personnel structure must inevitably ensue, unless a careful survey is undertaken in each and every Federal establishment, with a view to the issuance of executive orders for retention in the service of employes whose continued service is essential to the proper continuance of efficient operation."

He declared the recommendation "the most sweeping step ever taken in the United States in the establishment of a dismissal wage."

Retirement Compensation.

The President's recommendations prescribe that retired workers be compensated under section 4 of the retirement act. That act provides $30 annual retirement compensation for each year of service, plus such additional annuities as contributions to the retirement fund would purchase.

The far-reaching proposals were included under "certain matters for general legislation." Budget Director Douglas told President Roosevelt, would enable him "more fully to comply with the expressed intent of Congress that the affairs of the executive branch be conducted with the utmost economy."

Including permanent appropriations, the total amount recommended for independent offices was $615,159,926, a reduction of $463,407,608 from the $1,063,567,534 which was carried in the bill which failed to become law last session. Pensions to veterans, reduced $360,000,000, constitute the largest item in the bill. Veterans' Administration costs were reduced $33,000,000, and it was found the provision for loans on adjusted service certificates could be cut by another $50,000,000 and still provide sufficient funds.

Among the offices hard hit were the Interstate Commerce Commission, which receives $5,040,000 as against $7,137,639 allowed in the last budget. Funds for railroad valuation work were slashed $1,313,542.

Vocational education and rehabilitation estimates were cut 15 per cent to conform with the Federal pay cut. The $1,050,000 allowed for the Federal Farm Board includes $650,000 for the board proper, and $400,000 additional for the new Farm Credit Administration. The Shipping Board, believed scheduled for abolition, was cut from $3,202,744 to $310,000. Legislation was proposed transferring the Botanic Garden to the Agricultural Department.

The House Appropriations Deficiencies subcommittee immediately opened hearings on the new estimates, calling in representatives of the bureaus affected. Hearings will continue, today and tomorrow and through the early part of next week, when the bill probably will be reported to the House with totals largely unchanged.

Independent Offices Bill.

The proposed independent offices bill rider automatically retiring 30-year Federal employes reads as follows:

"All employes in the civil service of the United States to whom the civil service retirement act, approved May 29, 1930, applies, who shall have rendered on or after July 1, 1933, at least 30 years of service, computed as prescribed in section 5 of that act, shall be automatically separated from the service and shall be entitled to an annuity as provided in section 4 of said act: Provided that the President may, by Executive order, exempt from the provisions of this section any person when in his judgment the public interest so requires: Provided further, that this section shall not apply to any person named in act of Congress providing for the continuance of such persons in the service: Provided further that should any such annuitant be reemployed in the service of the United States or the District of Columbia, the annuity shall cease during such reemployment."

G. O. P. FIGHTS GIFTS TO STATES FOR AID

Democrats Plan to Put Bill for Huge Relief Grants Before House Today.

(Associated Press.)

A bitter-end Republican fight against the proposal to give $500,000,000 to the States for relief to the jobless developed yesterday, but Democratic leaders nevertheless went ahead with their plans to put the bill before the House today.

The opposition still centered upon the belief that the money carried in the Wagner-Lewis bill should be advanced in the form of loans, instead of gifts. The argument on this point was summarized in a minority report filed by Representative Luce, of Massachusetts, ranking Republican on the Banking Committee, and signed by five other Republican committee members.

"The Reconstruction Corporation," Luce's report said, "was conceived and shaped to be a lending agency, precisely after the fashion of the War Finance Corporation, which repaid to the Treasury all the public funds it had received and more, too. * * * To engraft on it the giving function is illogical and undesirable."

Luce added that the bill also meant, by creating the office of Federal relief administrator, that "another bureau will have been established, destined to the usual mushroom growth * * * and endowed with everlasting life."

"Advocates of this measure think it will incite States and cities to raise more money for relief by reason of the resulting chance to get more Federal funds," Luce continued. "That seems to us a vain hope. Where $3 must be raised in order to get $1 more, no powerful urge develops."

The majority report, filed by Chairman Steagall, insisted that relief costs have increased 1,300 per cent in four years and that "State and local tax systems at their best were not devised to provide for the increase of expenditures in any field" at that rate.

Steagal said 4,000,000 families are on relief rolls and that the total number is rising daily.

Potomac to Surge Over Walls Today

Higher Temperatures Are Forecast Tomorrow to Rout Cold.

A brimming Potomac today will spill its muddy water over the Potomac Park sea walls. Partial inundation of the park area is expected at high tide this morning when Washington will receive the peak of the flood waters caused by general rains in the river basin.

At high tide last night the river was 15 feet above normal at the Highway Bridge, just 7 feet below the bridge level. Progress of the flood waters as reported by the Weather Bureau indicated that highest water would reach Washington today.

Today's weather will be raw and cloudy, the Weather Bureau declared, with no substantial rise in temperature expected until tomorrow. The unseasonable cold is due to a high pressure area over New England, the bureau declared.

134 NEW DESTITUTE CASES PUT ON ROLL

Present Funds Will End in 6 Weeks as Board Cares for 10,183 Families.

A total of 134 new cases were added to the list of those receiving aid from the District emergency relief headquarters during the first four days after the Board of Public Welfare ordered the acceptance of applications again, Leroy A. Halbert, director, reported yesterday to the special committee headed by Sidney F. Taliaferro.

There are now 10,183 families or cases, averaging four persons, on the relief roll, and applications have been made by 20,009, rejections totaling 9,826. During the two-week period April 3 to 15 the relief bureau accepted 40 transfer cases, reopened 49 cases, and closed 589 cases.

Expenditures last week fell to $29,917.08 from $37,146.03 as of the week previous despite the fact that the welfare board authorized the acceptance of new cases and a maximum weekly expenditure of $42,000.

Public welfare officials are still clinging to the hope that the La Follette-Wagner-Costigan bill will be passed within the next few weeks so that the local unemployment relief will not be halted by exhaustion of funds before the end of the fiscal year.

If such money is not forthcoming, existing funds will be depleted within another six or eight weeks, it is predicted.

Levee Threats Believed Ended in Delta Region

Belzoni, Miss., April 20 (A.P.).—Levee disturbances which last night threatened to spread over wide areas of the Mississippi Delta were believed under full control tonight, although troops continued to patrol sectors in Humphreys and Tallahatchie Counties.

The general situation eased sufficiently to permit removal of all except a small detail of guardsmen from the Glendora area, where Tuesday afternoon a band of landowners and share-croppers seeking to relieve water which has stood over their property northeast of Glendora for weeks, dynamited Chute Bridge Levee, permitting the pent-up flood waters to flow into Black Bayou Basin.

D. A. R. APPLAUD MISS PERKINS

membership in the D. A. R., is No. 281,200 in that organization, according to an announcement made yesterday.

Plenty of Credentials.

Mrs. Roosevelt has the following Revolutionary ancestors on which to base her membership: Jacobus Roosevelt, captain; Jacobus J. Roosevelt, soldier in the commissary department; Cornelius Van Schaack, major of the Albany County militia, New York; Daniel Stewart, Georgia soldier; Thomas Potts, deputy to the Provincial Congress, and Archibald Bullock, president and commander in chief of Georgia, 1776-1777, and delegate to the Continental Congress, president of the Provincial Congress.

At last night's session of the Continental Congress Rear Admiral Wat Tyler Cluverius, commander of the Ninth Naval District, Chicago, declared that in the midst of a world tossed and torn by possibilities of warfare "is an America no longer strong and to whom the nations in their economic extremity are looking for help and for release from self-incurred obligations. Our situation is not a pleasant one to contemplate because, obviously, our contribution to world stability is almost negligible."

The admiral stated further that today the United States has dropped to third place among the leading maritime powers.

Among the other speakers last night was the former Assistant Attorney General Seth W. Richardson.

Election Winners.

At the opening of the evening session tellers announced the following candidates had been elected.

Honorary vice presidents general—Mrs. John Laidlaw Buel, of Connecticut, and Mrs. James T. Morris, of Minneapolis, Minn.

Vice presidents general—Miss Helen Harman, District of Columbia; Mrs. James F. Trottman, Wisconsin; Mrs. Howard Bailey, Missouri; Mrs. John Carroll Coulter, South Carolina; Mrs John W. Kirkpatrick, Kansas, Mrs. Victor L. Warren, and Mrs. Lue R Spencer, Nebraska.

The eighth candidate for this office, Mrs. Hoover Hangar, of Paris, formally withdrew yesterday morning.

A flurry came yesterday when Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, of Cincinnati, Ohio, honorary president general, arose on a point of personal privilege When given the floor, Mrs. Hobart emphatically denied she had attended an "insurgency meeting" at the Sulgrave Club Wednesday, as reported in a morning newspaper.

"I have in my hand a copy of this morning's Washington Herald," Mrs. Hobart said, "which states that an insurgency meeting was held at Sulgrave Club at noon yesterday. This is not true. The names of Mrs. Brosseau and I are listed as leading this band. I wish to state for my predecesssor, Mrs. Brosseau, and myself, that we were invited with other daughters from various States as honor guests by the Princess Cantacuzene, to meet the Florida delegation and pages from that State.

Purely Social.

"It was a purely social affair, and Mrs. Brosseau sat on the right of the State regent of Florida and I sat on her left. We left the building at the same time as the State regent. This entire article is both untrue and unfair to your two past presidents general."

Princess Cantacuzene, granddaughter of President Grant, arose to support the attempt of Miss Lottie M. Hull, of Vermont, to read a statement on national defense, but was ruled out of order by Mrs. Russell William Magna, the president general, after consultation with the parliamentarian.

This ended for the day the movement among the delegates to put a resolution through the congress permitting affiliation of the D. A. R. with other organizations supporting national defense. It is expected that the question will come up for final decision today before adjournment.

Schools Supported.

Vigorous support of the public schools and the demand for "complete educational opportunities as the birthright of every American child" were contained in a resolution passed by the congress yesterday. This resolution said "the public schools are facing the greatest crisis in their history because of the serious economic condition of the country." Another resolution which received equal support called for more adequate teaching of history and government in high schools.

Seven American women, whose fathers fought in the American Revolution, have been given a monthly pension by the D. A. R. and become "Real Daughters" of that organization. It was reported by Mrs. Benjamin L. Purcell, chairman, yesterday. These women are Mrs. Miriah Storts Allen, New Lexington, Ohio; Mrs. Angeline Loring Avery, Willimantic, Vt.; Mrs. Annie Knight Gregory, Williamsport, Pa.; Mrs. Caroline P. Randall, Greenfield, Mass.; Mrs. Mary Pool Newsom, Gibson, Ga.; Miss Sarah Pool, Gibson, Ga., sister of Mrs. Newsom, and Mrs. Mary P. Tillman, Berkeley, Calif.

Spry Despite Age.

In her report Mrs. Purcell told of the interest taken by these venerable women in the activities of the D. A. R., and something of the personalities of the women themselves. One Real Daughter loves to ride in automobiles although more than 90 years of age; another one at 94 knits, embroiders and reads the daily papers; another Real Daughter equally aged listened over the radio to the President's inauguration and was "thrilled" by the broadcast, and another one is the champion quilt maker of her community.

Mrs. William A. Becker, chairman of the national defense committee embodying patriotic education, in her annual report pledged the D. A. R. to the continued support of the national defense act of 1920 and to the demand "as long as other nations continue to arm, that our Army be reinforced, our Marines maintained and our Navy built up to treaty strength." The report also stressed legislation for deportation of aliens and anarchists and indorsed the Eslick bill making it a criminal offense to advocate the overthrow of the Government.

Miss McQuown Speaks.

The delegates listened with close attention to a speech by Miss Clara W. McQuown under the auspices of the United States Shipping Board at the morning session, in which she spoke on what "The American Merchant Marine Means to the Women of America." "A campaign is being carried on," Miss MQuown declared, "to have Congress—under the guise of economy—withdraw or greatly reduce the aid given to our merchant marine under these acts. Without this aid our ships can not remain on the seas."

At the afternoon session the Rev. Father Edmund A. Walsh, S. J., vice president of Georgetown University and regent of the school of foreign service, spoke on the topic, "Soviet Russia and the United States." Father Walsh opposed vigorously the movement to recognize Soviet Russia and stated: "It is rumored in Washington that a determined effort will soon be made to win diplomatic recognition for this common enemy of mankind. It is not a party but a national issue."

The place of the Army in the Nation's scheme of defense was outlined by Maj. Gen. Stephen O. Fuqua at last night's session of the Congress.

"The World War," declared the general, "settled the illusion that national defense was sufficiently secured by the maintenance of a small navy and diminutive army, a delusion that was frightfully costly in men and money."

D. C. Relics Presented.

The District of Columbia room of Memorial Continental Hall has received an interesting donation from Little John Boyden Chapter. It is a large scrap book containing pictures and articles of the early history of the District of Columbia.

Another donation to the room has been the Centennial edition of The Washington Post given to Mrs. Harper, Regent of Victory Chapter.

A cut glass vase from Constitution chapter is another gift and the copy of the Peale minature of Marcia Burns will be formally presented by the Marcia Burns Chapter, Mrs. George Palmer, regent, sometime in May.

A note of sadness has been with a great many of the District of Columbia Daughters and members of the House Committee because of the sudden death Monday, of Miss Agnes Virginia Geyer of the Captain Molly Pitcher Chapter, of the District of Columbia. Miss Geyer is the sister of Mrs. Mercer D. Blondell, of the Bridgeport Chapter of Connecticut, and Mrs. Ridgley Stone, of New York.

Historical Significance Of April to Be Topic

The April stated meeting of the Society of the Sons of the American Revolution in the District of Columbia will be held at the Mayflower Hotel at 8 o'clock tonight.

The address will be "April, a Nation's Trust," and will be delivered by Charles Colfax Long, who received the highest recognition from the Federal Bicentennial Commission for 165 consecutive broadcasts upon the subject "The Real George Washington." A buffet supper will be served after the meeting.

DOLLAR PRICE FALLS AS U. S. QUITS GOLD

Exchange Abroad Fluctuates and Other Nations May Leave Standard.

(Associated Press.)

Confusion, wide fluctuations in dollar quotations, and rumors that several other nations might abandon gold as a monetary standard attended receipt of news that the United States had left gold.

London—The British financial and economic world was staggered, but after the situation had been resurveyed, the dollar stopped its downward plunge and improved to $3.855 in dealing at the end of banking hours. Financial commentators awaited further developments before expressing opinions on the meaning of the American action.

Paris—The finance ministry declared there was not the faintest thought of placing an embargo on gold, although the present cabinet recently declared it was inevitable that France should desert gold if America did. Gold supplies of Belgium, Holland and Switzerland, were drifting to Paris, and there was talk that those nations would depart from gold. A Bank of France statement showed a gain in the large gold reserve.

Rome—While the dollar fluctuated between 16½ and 17 lire American tourists sought advice from bankers, and Italian officials viewed the situation calmly

Berlin—German economists said the United States action served to underscore recent demands that normal international monetary transactions be reestablished. Several newspapers condemned the action of the United States.

Vienna—American travelers received 10 per cent less for their dollars than they did a few days ago.

Santiago, Chile—The dollar dropped 8 points, from 50 pesos to 42, in early dealings. Financial commentators said the slump was temporary.

Madrid—Transactions were held to a minimum by officials pending definite news from the United States, and the market was practically paralyzed. The dollar was not officially quoted, but there were some deals, based on London and Paris rates, ranging around 10.25 pesetas to the dollar.

Berne, Switzerland—The dollar opened at 4.70 Swiss francs.

Ottawa—The United States dollar slumped, but security and commodity prices went soaring in Canada. Improvement of domestic conditions in the United States and the obtaining of a better bargaining position for the world economic conference were said to be the purposes of President Roosevelt's action.

Buenos Aires—As against an average of 3.91 since the American banking holiday, the dollar opened at 3.45 pesos, making the highest quotation since the middle of 1931.

Amsterdam—An authoritative source said that Holland would maintain its gold standard and that the Netherlands Bank is fully able to defend the guilder against eventual attack.

Washington Pilot Is Saved by 'Chute

Another Plane Tears Wing Off Lieut. Waterman's Ship in Illinois.

Paxton, Ill., April 20 (A.P.).—The wing of his plane ripped off by the landing gear of another plane, Lieut. Paul Waterman, of Washington, D. C., "bailed out" and landed safely today.

Waterman, Lieuts. Clayton Stiles and Robert D. Cassell, all from Chanute Government Field at Rantoul, Ill., were flying over Paxton in close formation when the accident occurred. The landing gear of Cassell's ship tore through the wing fabric of Waterman's plane just below. As the wing collapsed, Waterman used his parachute. He landed in a field near town unharmed. Cassell made a safe landing.

The three pilots arrived at Chanute Field April 1 to take a course in maintenance engineering. Cassell is from San Antonio, Tex., and Stiles from Walla Walla, Wash.

PRESIDENT TO RULE PARLEY TOMORROW

The French delegation, headed by former Premier Herriot, was dismayed and radio descriptions of their reactions were exceedingly pessimistic.

As statesmen from all the nations of the world are converging on Washington for the most important international conferences since the treaty of Versailles, the program of the White House discussions has suddenly shifted. The most important item heretofore on the schedule had been tariff agreements. The financial section of the program was regarded as of secondary importance. Now, however, financial discussions will be the prime factor in the negotiations. The sudden fall of the dollar and the rapidity with which inflationary legislation has been prepared here to meet the emergency, has brought the financial section of the program into high relief and the President, the British prime minister, and, later, the former French premier, M. Herriot, will try to sketch the future of money in international transactions and the respective fates of their ntaional currency.

President Roosevelt will now be able to press forward for agreement on the tariff problem, as well as on disarmament and the debt problem. The threat of the American dollar freed from the gold standard will constitute an ever-present menace to all other currencies in international trade until such time as a general agreement among all the principal nations is financially settled.

President Roosevelt is no longer the petitioner. He is now in a strategic position to push forward the solution of the outstanding monetary and economic problems in a manner that will be in the spirit of his international program. Great Britain and France and later on Italy will come to Washington to find the situation so basically changed that they will undoubtedly have to revise almost completely their respective programs for the White House discussions.

Two of Commerce's exhibits at Chicago's exposition. One shows a model of the Commerce Building, scaled one-eighth of an inch to a foot, and complete in every detail.. The other, Lighthouse Division's model exhibit.

REGARDLESS of what Secretary Roper does with his Department of Commerce, the department will be represented at the Chicago fair through its ten bureaus as they are now constituted.

Models and exhibits have been prepared and forwarded to the fair. An interesting exhibit is a miniature, made on scale of one-eighth of an inch to a foot, of the entire building, every detail even to the bronze gates and flagpoles hanging at an angle from the third floor. It is the work of Edwin C. Warren.

General preparation of the exhibit has been under direction of Maurice H. Bletz, chief, and J. J. O'Neil, Foreign Trade Commission.

Aeronautics will show its 36-inch double-ended airways rotating beacon light with course lights, mounted on the top section of a standard skeleton tower and other flight appurtenances gathered by Fred R. Neely.

Standards' display, gathered by W. E. Enley, will consist largely of the working type. A small wind tunnel will be in operation showing the method used to measure various load preasures exerted by the wind on different types of surfaces, and the wind resistance of autos, aerial bombs and similar objects. A laboratory for testing clinical thermometers also will be maintained in one part of the exhibit. In the Basic Science Hall a special exhibit made by Standards called a geiger counter shows absorption and deflection of beta and gamma rays.

CENSUS' exhibit is one of the most interesting. E. A. Nelson has had constructed an electric chart and counter showing increase in population with light flashes to show births, deaths, immigration and emigration. At the top a stork is shown with blue lights leading to the center of the map. At the bottom is Father Time with white lights leading to him. At the right green lights lead from a ship to the center of the map. At the left a departing ship is connected to the center by red lights.

The Patent Office will send original models of old patents and display charts of a number of important patents.

Coast and Geodetic Survey has an interesting model, showing all methods used, including wire drags, towers, landmarks and the like made under drecition of Capt. P. C. Whitney.

Fisheries will offer a background panorama showing depletion and restoration of fishery resources, including Alaskan fisheries, biological studies, utilization of fishery products and byproducts, pearl button industry and several small aquaria of tropical fish.

Lighthouses will emphasize progress during the last century and will show the use of lenses, buoys and equipment, light, sound and radio beacon equipment.

Mines' exhibit has been prepared from Pittsburgh, largely. Experimental mining stations, helium plant model, rescue methods will be shown.

Foreign and Domestic Commerce will present charts, graphs and pictures to show Government cooperation with private enterprise.

Navigation and Steamboat Inspection will tell its story with a full-sized model of a forecastle of a sailing ship of 50 years ago in contrast to a full-sized model of a forecastle of a modern ship, in addition to maps and charts.

Of course the Secretary's office will be represented by seals of the department and bureaus.

ON behalf of the National Federation of Federal Employes, Luther C. Steward, president, urges important modification in the sweeping 30-year compulsory retirement provision of the independent offices appropriation bill. President Steward declares that "in the interest of the efficient administration of Federal activities, as well as in the interest of the employes themselves, the recommendation should be modified to the extent of affording the opportunity to employes of 30 years of service of exercising the option of retirement."

It was emphasized that unless the drastic proposal is modified a dual injustice will be perpetrated, namely, upon employes still in mental and physical prime who wish to continue in service to which they have given three decades of faithful and specialized effort, and to the Government, which can not for many years replace the knowledge and experience of these workers.

The point was made that, for example, the division of the Government administering the retirement provision itself would be decimated by its enactment. These workers, in turn, would have to be replaced by persons less fitted by training and experience to handle the complex duties of the office.

Characterizing the present proposal of 30-year compulsory retirement, without reference to the age, as "the most sweeping step ever undertaken in the United States in the establishment of a dismissal wage," President Steward pointed out that the compulsory provision of the economy act of June 30, 1932, already has resulted in a 17 per cent increase in cost to the Government for annuities. The pending proposal will necessitate an additional increase of startling proportions."

$900,000,000 GOLD REMAINS CONCEALED

Hoarders Keep Metal in Face of Presidential Order to Turn It In.

(Associated Press.)

Despite President Roosevelt's anti-gold-hoarding order of April 5, requiring the metal to be deposited with the Government before May 1, approximately $900,000,000 still remains outside the Treasury and Federal Reserve banks.

The Federal Reserve Board's weekly statement yesterday showed that the gold reserves of the 12 institutions amounted to $3,965,598,000, an increase of $681,956,000 since March 8, and of $50,049,000 in the last week.

On April 8, when Secreary Woodin announced $600,000,000 of gold and gold certificates had been returned to the Treasury, officials said there was outstanding at that time $1,000,000,000 in gold and gold certificates.

Since then $81,956,000 in gold has been returned, but the amount received this week was $29,000,000 more than came in the week before.

The report showed that a slightly greater use was being made of the new Federal Reserve Bank notes and that $24,529,000 was in actual circulation on April 19. This was an increase of $4,839,000 in the week. An additional bank began use of the new currency during the week. It was Minneapolis, which issued $20,000. The Boston bank increased its use of the Federal Reserve Bank notes by $70,000 to a total of $1,789,000, while New York increased the amount in circulation from $12,805,000 to $16,987,000; Philadelphia from $4,330,000 to $4,695,000, and Cleveland from $997,000 to $999,000. In the St. Louis district the use of the new currency remained stationary at $89,000.

While there was a slight increase in the use of Federal Reserve Bank notes in actual circulation, the Federal Reserve notes in actual circulation declined $70,497,000, to $3,477,893,000. At the same time the gold back of the Federal Reserve notes increased from $2,664,216,000 a week ago to $2,692,229,000.

Robinson's Statement On Thomas Money Bill

Following is the complete text of Senator Robinson's formal public statement to newspapermen in explanation of the Thomas inflation bill:

The amendment now proposed by the senator from Oklahoma, Mr. Thomas, has two primary purposes: (1) To provide for the controlled but substantial expansion of credit through open market operations by Federal Reserve banks in obligations of the Government or in obligations of corporations in which the Government is the principal stockholder, and through the purchase and holding for an agreed time by such Federal Reserve banks of Treasury bills or other Government obligations in an aggregate amount not to exceed $3,000,000,000.

If the Federal Reserve banks decline to enter into such arrangements, or if the transactions above referred to prove inadequate, Treasury notes which are to be made legal tender may be issued under the direction of the President to meet maturing Federal obligations and to buy United States bonds and other interest-bearing obligations of the Government, provided that there shall be set up a sinking fund of 4 per cent to assure the prompt redemption and retirement of such Treasury notes.

The second purpose of the amendment is to strengthen and support the President in negotiating arrangements for the stabilization of exchange through the readjustment by international agreements pertaining to the content of the gold dollar or the use of an increased amount of silver by the principal commercial nations, or by both such methods.

The intent is to stabilize the price of silver around 50 cents an ounce and to issue silver certificates and so to coin silver bullion into standard dollars as subsidiary coins sufficient in amount to redeem the certificates. It is contemplated that the amount of silver which may be accepted and used in the manner stated shall be limited to $100,000,000, and that the authority of the President to accept silver for such use shall expire at the end of two years from the passage of the act.

The President is in accord with the purposes of the amendment. He recognizes, however, that under the Constitution only the Congress has the power to coin money and to regulate the value thereof, and is desirous that the provision relating to the contents of the gold dollar shall be made to conform to the fundamental law by such limitations and definitions upon his authority as may be necessary.

With respect to the open market operations of Federal Reserve Banks and their purchase and sale of Federal securities, it is recognized that transactions of this character were carried on prior to the beginning of the present administration and that some have questioned the advisability for such transactions, but it is believed they will prove quite advantageous under prevailing conditions.

This amendment relates to very important subjects and is expected to receive such consideration before final action as may be necessary to sound and wholesome decision. At the same time it is hoped it will not delay the disposition of the pending bill (the farm bill) for any very great length of time.

Sampson Flagship Bids Navy Good-By

Cruiser Famous in Spanish War Docks at Manila for Last Time.

(Associated Press.)

The cruiser Rochester, whose guns roared in the Battle of Santiago Harbor, bade farewell to the service today after 42 years of service.

She was christened the New York when she slid down the ways at Philadelphia Navy Yard and later reconstructed and put into service as the U. S. S. Saratoga. The Rochester was the flagship of Rear Admiral William T. Sampson during the Spanish-American War. Her last commander was Capt. W. L. Calhoun. The old cruiser flashed a radio good-by to all her sister ships in the Nation's Navy as she put into Manila, her last port. She will be placed out of commission at the Cavite Bay Navy Yard, Philippine Islands.

"With our last message on the air," the Rochester radioed from Manila, "the captain, officers and crew of Negat Item King Dog (the ship's international call letters) send greetings to all hands."

Text of Executive Order Banning Export of Gold

—The text of President Roosevelt's executive order relating to foreign exchange and the earmarking and export of gold coin or bullion or currency follows:

By virtue of the authority vested in me by section 5 (b) of the act of October 6, 1917, as amended by section 2 of the act of March 9, 1933, entitled "An act to provide relief in the existing national emergency in banking, and for other purposes," in which amendatory act Congress declared that a serious emergency exists, I, Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States of America, do declare that said national emergency still continues to exist and, pursuant to said section and by virtue of all other authority vested in me, do hereby issue the following Executive order:

1. Until further order, the earmarking for foreign account and the export of gold coin, gold bullion or gold certificates from the United States or any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof are hereby prohibited, except that the Secretary of the Treasury, in his discretion and subject to such regulations as he may prescribe, may issue licenses authorizing the export of gold coin and bullion (a) earmarked or held in trust for a recognized foreign government or foreign central bank or the Bank for International Settlements, (b) imported for reexport or gold in reasonable amounts for usual trade requirements of refiners importing gold-bearing materials under agreement to export gold, (c) actually required for the fulfillment of any contract entered into prior to the date of this order, by an applicant who, in obedience to the executive order of April 5, 1933, has delivered gold coin, gold bullion or gold certificates, and (d) with the approval of the President for transactions which he may deem necessary to promote the public interest.

Books May Be Demanded.

2. Until further order, the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized, through any agency that he may designate, to investigate, regulate, or prohibit, under such rules and regulations as he may prescribe, by means of licenses or otherwise, any transactions in foreign exchange, transfers of credit from any banking institution within the United States or any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof to any foreign branch or office of such banking institution or to any foreign bank or banker, and the export or withdrawal of currency from the United States or any place subject to the jurisdiction of the United States by any individual, partnership, association, or corporation within the United States or any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof; and the Secretary of the Treasury may require any individual, partnership, association, or corporation engaged in any transaction referred to herein to furnish under oath, complete information relative thereto, including the production of any books of account, contracts, letters or other papers, in connection therewith in the custody or control of such individual, partnership, association, or corporation either before or after such transaction is completed.

3. The provisions relating to foreign exchange transactions contained in the Executive order of March 10, 1933, shall remain in full force and effect except as amended or supplemented by this order and by regulations issued hereunder.

License Requirements Stated.

4. Applicants who have gold coin, gold bullion or gold certificates in their possession, or who in obedience to the Executive order of April 5, 1933, have delivered gold coin, gold bullion or gold certificates shall be entitled to licenses as provided in section 8 of said Executive order for amounts not exceeding the equivalent of such coin, bullion or certificates held or delivered. The Secretary may in his discretion issue or decline to issue any other licenses under said Executive order, which shall in all other respects remain in full force and effect.

5. Whoever wilfully violates any provision of this Executive order or of any rule, regulation or license issued thereunder may be fined not more than $10,000, or, if a natural person, may be imprisoned for not more than ten years, or both; and any officer, director or agent of any corporation who knowingly participates in any such violation may be punished by a like fine, imprisonment, or both.

This order may be modified or revoked at any time.

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT.

The White House, April 20, 1933.

CURRENCY MEASURE PURPOSE BARED BY SENATOR ROBINSON

decision on the revalorization of the gold dollar would be attempted until the international economic conversations had paved the way for concerted action by all the principal powers looking to universal monetary stabilization on a gold basis.

As a sop to the silverites, the measure also provides for the expansion of silver currency, to the extent of $100,000,000. The President's extraordinary authority in the matter of silver coinage, however, would expire in two years.

Farm Bill Amendment.

The whole measure was offered by Senator Thomas as an amendment to the administration farm bill, which is now before the Senate.

Senator McNary, of Oregon, the Republican leader, objected vigorously to its immediate consideration yesterday and demanded its separation from the farm bill. According to this demand, in part, the Democratic leaders referred the measure to the Senate Banking and Currency Committee, under the tacit promise that a report would be ready by noon today

When this report is before the Senate, a decision will be made whether to attempt passage of the inflation bill as amendment to the farm bill, or as a separate measure.

Stock and commodity prices continued their buoyant upward flight yesterday. Meanwhile, the Treasury formally proclaimed the new terms of the President's gold embargo. The decree vests Secretary Woodin with even more rigid control over foreign exchange transactions than existed under the previous proclamation, and prohibits the future earmarking of foreign gold.

Gold Movement Control.

Export of gold earmarked before last Saturday may be authorized by Treasury license, at the discretion of the Secretary.

The same applies to gold needed for the fulfillment of contracts entered into prior to the embargo regulations, provided the applicant for the export licensee has deposited his own gold holdings in the Federal Reserve System, as required by the President's gold mobilization proclamation of April 5.

Within rather broad limits, the Secretary of the Treasury retains authority to license such gold exports as he may deem necessary from time to time to protect the national interest.

Inflation swept to the center of the stage on Capitol Hill yesterday like a Texas twister. In both House and Senate all else was subordinated to an unreasoning rush for the easy-money counter. Only the most adroit leadership of the wiser heads on both sides of the aisle prevented a headlong plunge into a money experiment which not even its sponsors professed to understand or explain.

Revalorization Bill.

On the House side Representative Goldsborough, of Maryland, the daddy of the expandable dollar formula, formally introduced a bill calling for the revalorization of the gold dollar on the basis of 75 cents new value per unit.

In the Senate, the Thomas plan was preceded by a measure from Senator William Gibbs McAdoo, which would immediately expand the currency by legal tender Treasury notes in unlimited amount.

While Congress expended itself without reserve on ways and means of hastening any and all kinds of unlimited and uncontrollable inflation, the Federal Reserve Board continued in session here with Secretary of the Treasury Woodin and his aids and the governors of the twelve regional Federal Reserve Banks.

From these conferences must come the final decision as to what form of inflation, if any, is to be actually realized. Whatever plan is finally decided upon must, of course, be administered through some banking system. Under the law, the governors of the Federal Reserve Banks have considerable power and authority in the matter of what sort of banking they will conduct. Until all these matters of detail are finally determined, therefore, it will not be possible to know what sort of inflation the Nation is to experience.

Experimental Procedure.

For the immediate present, the matter rests where it has rested since March 8. When, as and if the Thomas bill is finally passed by both houses and signed by the President, the first venture thereunder will be at least one more whirl at extensive open market operations by the Federal Reserve system. If that does not work, the President then will have ample authority to try something else, within the limits of the projected Thomas law. What he decides to do with that authority after it is extended by Congress is subject in a marked degree to the final decisions of the Federal Reserve Board and the twelve governors of the regional banks.

Under the policy outlined by the White House last Wednesday, the upward surge of prices stimulated by the inflationary discussions is to be encouraged in every way possible for some days. Should this upturn give a positive and lasting stimulus to business revival, the drastic inflationary proposals now seriously discussed uptown and down may be avoided.

For the moment, therefore, it is all pretty much of an experiment, with the administration feeling its way cautiously from step to step.

President Roosevelt, himself, has likened the move to a crucial maneuver on the football field, and yesterday a celebrated member of the Republican insurgent group in the Senate likened the new venture to a youngster's experiment with a cannon cracker: "We are sneaking up in the dark to light the fuse. We will then stand back to see what happens before deciding upon the next step."

INFLATION PROGRAM HITS SENATE SNAG

prices the same as the currency proposal, would be abandoned, but Democratic leaders denied this was planned. They pointed out both were not mandatory and either could be employed as the President or Secretary of Agriculture saw fit.

However, it was said if the currency plan were used and had the desired results the price-lifting provisions of the farm bill would not be employed.

Reed denied that he and his group of opponents were planning to filibuster the inflation move, but emphasized that they wanted to give the country time to understand it.

The administration plan to have the Federal Reserve System purchase Government securities in its open market operations and hold them for a specified time was said to have been placed before the Federal Reserve Board and governors of the twelve Federal Reserve Banks yesterday.

Woodin Meets Board.

After the conferences had adjourned neither officials of the board nor Secretary Woodin would comment upon what had been discussed.

Secretary Woodin spent most of the day in conference with the governors of the board. The Secretary had said the day would be devoted to studying means of reopening closed banks, but it was assumed that this question was delayed by the injection of the administration's open market request.

Senator Norris (Republican), Nebraska, sought unsuccessfully to permit more time for committee consideration of the inflation amendment, but withdrew his suggestion for delay after leaders argued against him.

Senator Adams (Democrat), Colorado, who amiliingly called himself "one of the young members of the committee," likewise urged that the committee be given more time, adding:

"It depends on whether the Senate wants the committee to really consider this or just use the committee as a conduit to get it to the floor."

Miners Say Pay Cuts Have Not Aided Industry

Philadelphia, April 20 (A.P.).—Miners' representatives on the committee of twelve which is considering a proposed 35 per cent wage reduction in the anthracite fields today told the operators' group that pay slashes have failed to revive a single industry.

Sessions today, the second of the conference, were recessed until tomorrow afternoon with the issuance of a statement which said no conclusions were reached.

RUSSIA CALLS REDS BACK FROM LONDON

Moscow Counters to Withdrawal of Ambassador by Great Britain.

London, April 20 (A.P.).—The crisis in Anglo-Russian relations was further complicated today by the recall to Moscow of the chiefs of the Soviet trade delegation here.

This action was interpreted in London as a countermove to the recall from Moscow of the British Ambassador, Sir Esmond Ovey, who was ordered home after the Soviet government refused to free six British engineers accused of espionage and sabotage.

Now that these engineers have been tried, and prison sentences have been imposed on two of them, the British foreign office is making no new move aside from the 80 per cent embargo already declared against Russian goods, which becomes effective April 26.

The foreign office hopes that the sentences of the two engineers will be commuted and that the entire Anglo-Russian storm will subside. The greatest satisfaction was expressed in Downing street on the ground that the government's policy in dealing with Moscow had been successful.

With both Britain and the U. S. S. R. opposed to a complete break in relations, it is hoped that settlement soon will be reached and a way opened for resuming negotiations for a new trade agreement to replace the one which expired April 17.

Although the recall of the Soviet trade representatives was interpreted here as a move of retaliation, the explanation offered by the representatives was that they were ordered home "for consultation."

Moscow, April 20 (A.P.).—Three British electrical engineers who were sentenced to expulsion by a Soviet court that tried them on charges of sabotage, bribery and espionage left for home tonight.

The trio, Allen Monkhouse, John Cushny and C. H. Nordwall, were accompanied by their coworker, A. W. Gregory, who was acquitted of the charges; Nordwall's Russian wife and Robert Turner, their English counsel in the trial which ended Tuesday.

COBLENTZ SENTENCE UPSET IN MARYLAND

Court of Appeals Rules His Indictment Faulty in Banking Charges.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., April 20.—The Maryland Court of Appeals in an opinion delivered today upset the conviction and sentence of 18 months in the house of correction imposed upon State Senator Emory L. Coblentz, of Frederick County, president of the Central Trust Co., operating a chain of banks in western Maryland.

He was convicted on a charge of accepting funds for the branch bank in Howard County when he knew it to be insolvent. His trial took place in Allegany County. The Appellate Court, however, ruled that the indictment upon which he was convicted was faulty because of the presence in the grand jury of an attorney who had previously represented plaintiffs in an action against the banking institution. Such a circumstance, the court said, had "the consequence of invalidating the indictment."

Without passing directly on the specific offense charge, the court of appeals, however, ruled that the president of a bank, although he does not actually receive deposits over the counter, yet "if he participated in keeping his bank open for the acceptance of deposits when he knows it to be insolvent, is guilty of the statutory crime."

Coblentz's main defense was that he did not personally receive deposits and could not, therefore, be held guilty. He also contended that some members of the grand jury were hostile to him because they had suffered personal losses in the bank failure. This claim was disallowed.

Coblentz was convicted last fall but pending the result of his appeal he was released on bond. He attended only the first few days of the recent session of the General Assembly.

In reversing the lower court, the case is remanded for further proceedings which means that new indictments are necessary if Coblentz again is to be tried.

Hibbard Deplores College Bossism

Dean Says Students Are Surrounded by Too Many Dont's.

Chicago, April 20 (A.P.).—Too many rules and regulations confront the American college student and his initiative, independence and ingenuity suffer, Dean Addison Hibbard of Northwestern University said today, addressing the annual convention of the American Association of College Registrars. Dean Hibbard said "the alma mater is becoming a stepmother for students."

He advocated removal of rules prohibiting smoking, automobile and canoe rides and regulating dormitory hours and asserted "the laws of the land" should regulate students' conduct.

"The colleges," said Dean Hibbard, "have foolishly assumed the responsibilities of doing what parents should have done."

Asbestos

Pants, Recommended by Mills, Hang as Trophy in Woodin's Home.

Denver, Colo., April 20 (A.P.).—A pair of asbestos breeches G. M. Fiechtner, a Denver Democrat, mailed to Treasury Secretary William Woodin, because Ogden L. Mills said Woodin occupied "the hottest seat in Washington," hang like a trophy, Fiechtner said today, on a wall in the Woodin home.

Fiechtner sent Secretary Woodin the fireproof shorts after Mills, former Treasury Secretary, told Cheyenne (Wyo.) newspapermen during the national bank holiday that Woodin would need "a pair of asbestos pants" before the situation was cleared.

The story Mills told while he was accompanying former President Herbert Hoover in his Palo Alto (Calif.) home found its way into Denver and Feichtner had his mother fashion the breeches for Woodin. Feichner said he had received word the asbestos pants had been received by Secretary Woodin and hung "in an honored place in the Woodin home."

An Appeal to the Common Sense of Motorists!

The gasoline business is suffering from an epidemic of "Name-itis".

Fancy names and advertisements seem to be the rule. All sorts of trick names and statements are being used to insinuate that regular gasolines have premium qualities. It is an insult to your common sense to tell you that.

We believe in selling motor products for exactly what they are.

No amount of "special naming" or sales arguments can make a special motor fuel out of a regular gasoline!

This company has the resources, the organization, the willingness to give you the best value that can be offered. More than this no one can offer. No amount of ballyhoo can change the gasoline itself. That's the real answer! American Oil Company products are honestly described. To follow exaggerated claims is to court disappointment.

● ORANGE AMERICAN GAS is a regular gasoline, and sells at regular gasoline price. It is the finest regular gasoline money can buy.

REVALUING THE DOLLAR.

President Roosevelt's program of inflation has been laid before Congress. It constitutes another amazing request for power to deal with an emergency. If this measure is passed the President and his agents will have almost complete authority to regulate the value of the dollar. Apparently the administration hopes in this way to raise commodity prices and to stimulate industry and business to new activity. In the meantime President Roosevelt will discuss the whole problem of returning to a gold basis, and if a satisfactory agreement can be reached with other nations, the dollar presumably will be revalued in accordance with that agreement.

The terms of the administration's inflation bill are so broad and the problems involved are so tremendous that it is extremely difficult to appraise this program. Only two things seem certain: American money has been cut loose from its gold anchorage, and its value is to be debased with a view to raising commodity prices, assisting debtors to meet their obligations and making it easier for American producers to meet competition from other countries using depreciated currency. Inflation seems to be inescapable, but how far it will go and just what form it will take can not yet be determined.

Probably the most important section of the bill—which is submitted as an amendment to the farm relief measure—is that giving the President authority to revalue the dollar in terms of gold. He would be permitted to fix the gold content of the dollar "at an amount that he finds is necessary from his investigation to protect the foreign commerce of the United States against the adverse effect of depreciated foreign currencies." Here is authority to engage in an international contest of depreciating currencies to gain trade advantages. Furthermore, the President would be authorized to negotiate with other countries for restoration of the gold standard, and to fix the gold content of the dollar so as to maintain the international ratio agreed upon.

This section of the bill may be challenged as unconstitutional. The fundamental law specifically gives Congress authority to coin money and regulate the value thereof, and the Supreme Court has held time and again that Congress may not delegate its purely legislative powers to any official or agency. A concession to the Constitution is made in the provision that no change in the gold content of the dollar shall exceed 50 per cent. Yet the whole discretion as to what the value of the dollar should be, within that range, would be transferred to the President.

Immediate importance attaches to that section of the bill which would authorize the President to print greenbacks with nothing but the credit of the Government behind them. It is understood that this power would not be used until after another attempt has been made to bring about inflation through open market operations by the Federal Reserve Board. During the Hoover administration open market operations filled the banks with money, but not much of that cash passed into actual business and industry, because public confidence was lacking. With the value of the dollar fluctuating wildly, confidence may be even more shy. Indications are that the attempted manipulation of credit will be disappointing, and that fiat money will then be used to pay the obligations of the United States and to buy Government bonds in an amount not to exceed $3,000,000,000.

The silver provision in the bill is insignificant from the viewpoint of inflation. Apparently the permit to purchase $100,000,000 worth of the white metal is merely a sop to the silverites in Congress and to foreign countries owing debts to the United States.

On the whole this program means that the dollar is to be debased in an experimental effort to cure maladjustments in the economic system. The administration is pausing in its fight against the elementary causes of deflation to give the patient a shot in the arm that may seriously weaken his resistance and complicate his disease. Any one who is familiar with the distress of the post-Civil War period shudders at the thought of $8,000,000,000 in greenbacks with no gold behind them. Business men who wish to go forward will be handicapped by not knowing what the value of the dollar will be.

Chaos is inevitable when the monetary system undergoes an overhauling. The wild advance of stock and commodity prices does not represent a return of confidence, but fear that money is less stable than stocks and commodities. Congress may well take sufficient time in consideration of this measure to make certain that in trying to relieve a desperate situation it does not plunge deeper into chaos.

THE DISTRICT BUDGET.

An impressive appeal for fair and intelligent treatment of the District budget has been presented to the Senate subcommittee on appropriations. This group has shown a disposition to consider the District's needs, and it is hoped that it may bring forth a bill which will be more in keeping with those needs than the measure passed by the House. Drastic economies are, of course, to be expected, but there is no indication that the Senate or its committees will approve the scheme to make the District a hoarder of taxpayers' money while employes are deprived of their jobs, school children punished with inadequate housing and the Capital denied sufficient police protection.

If it makes no other changes in the District supply bill, the Senate should use surplus funds by allowing normal repairs, improvements and additions to the municipal plant during this period of slack employment. It is estimated that as the bill now stands it would leave the District with a surplus of nearly $5,000,000, even after a reasonable reduction has been made in the tax on real estate. This surplus may be swelled by revenue from the tax on beer. It would be a major fiscal blunder to allow such a surplus to accumulate while depriving the District of much needed improvements.

The people of Washington have no desire to maintain expenditures at a high level. Every genuine economy that Congress can make in the budget will be highly appreciated. But there is no economy in allowing surplus tax money to accumulate while urgent improvements and repair work remain undone and the District spends a vast sum to support the unemployed. It is to be hoped that the Senate will disregard the attempt of the Budget Bureau to make an economy record on the local budget and that it will restore to the bill funds which are urgently needed to maintain the efficiency of the municipal government.

FORCED RETIREMENT.

A provision in the independent offices appropriation bill automatically retiring all civil service employes who have rendered at least 30 years of service to the Government is unusually severe. Apparently this is an attempt to force thousands of Government workers into retirement as an alternative to the dismissal of many employes in the process of reorganizing the departments. The application of such a rule would work grave injustice in individual cases and deprive the Government of many valuable employes.

Provision is made whereby the President might, by executive order, retain any individual employe when he considers such action essential to the public welfare. Exceptions might be made in rare cases, but the great majority of employes who have served the Government for more than 30 years would be left without any claim to their jobs. It seems highly questionable whether the general welfare of the Government and its employes can best be served by a provision of this kind.

If an employe entered the service of Uncle Sam at the age of 18 and has served for 30 years, he would be forced to retire at the age of 48. Thousands of the Government's most competent workers are older than that. At present the 30-year provision in the retirement act is designed to allow employes who entered the Government service later in life and others who are in poor health to be relieved of further service. If 30 years are to become the maximum period in which any employe may serve the Government, the attractiveness of the civil service will be substantially diminished, and thousands of men and women will be forced into inactivity in the prime of their efficiency.

Congress should consider seriously the consequences of such a provision before adopting it. The Government can not afford to be put in the position of deciding by law that men and women reach the end of their economic usefulness at ages ranging as low as 48 years. Private industry is already accused of discarding men when they reach middle age. Surely the Government ought not to encourage such a practice.

The question of justice to the employes is a vital one. Should a competent division chief be retired at 50 merely because he may have served the Government for 30 years, in order to retain on the pay roll a young man in his twenties who has been in the service only a few months? Congress may be expected drastically to revise this provision if it is accepted at all. The need is for greater flexibility of retirement provisions, not an arbitrary reduction of the maximum years that an employe may serve.

FRENCH SECURITY.

Whatever world opinion may think of recent events in Germany, and whether or not foreign reactions to the display of Hitlerism may be detrimental to interests of the Reich, there can be no question that public opinion in France has been profoundly stirred and solidified. No greater evidence of this could be offered than the prompt passage of the budget which has been under fire for months in the chamber of deputies. Socialists who joined the extreme left in demanding sharp reductions in military expenditures capitulated and united almost unanimously in the overwhelming majority which adopted the government's financial estimates by a vote of 514 to 67.

German hopes of arms equality and treaty revision have received a decided setback from the display of Nazi ferocity during recent weeks. Premier Daladier has renewed the insistent demand of France for security first of all. In his stirring plea to the chamber before obtaining the overwhelming passage of the much-discussed finance program, he won support when he made the assertion that in the Europe of today "France is the last trench of liberty."

Not only in France, but Poland and the countries of the Little Entente have had their fears of Hitler's militarism and his demands for treaty revision aroused by the ruthless methods of the Nazis in the treatment of German subjects. The visits of Vice-Chancellor von Papen and Captain Goering to Rome strengthens the belief that a very definite understanding has been reached between Germany, Italy and Hungary, with apprehension growing that Austrian Nazis may attempt a coup at any time to secure control at Vienna as the first step toward union with Germany.

Hitler has accomplished a remarkable feat in reviving the nationalistic spirit in Germany, securing not only absolute general authority, but gaining peaceful control of all state and local governments. His political triumphs would not have been so alarming to his neighbors, nor have caused such unfavorable repercussions throughout the world, if they had not been accompanied by a simultaneous campaign that trampled upon the civil rights and individual guarantees of elements of the German population, which engendered universal distrust of the eventual course of a government dominated by such an intemperate and intolerant leader.

Now let's see which visiting envoy can display the biggest lot of troubles in his old kit bag. We'll bet on Ramsay.

AUTOMATIC GEARSHIFT HERE

By WILLIAM ULLMAN.

The next couple of weeks—perhaps even sooner—will see one of motordom's most pleasant dreams come true. Unless there is some miscarriage of an excellent intention, a car manufacturer of some renown is going to submit to the motoring public an automobile that boasts of an automatic transmission.

Details of the device, even at this late hour, remain a closely guarded secret. All that can be learned of the development at this time is that it is going to eliminate that most baneful of driving operations, the shifting of gears. As is the custom with such revolutionary developments, the manufacturer has thoroughly experimented with its reliability. For two years it has been submitted to every conceivable test designed to reveal flaws in its operation, or weaknesses in its design and construction which might bring the conventional estimate that it is "ahead of its time."

There can be no doubt that the automatic transmission represents a revolutionary advance in motor car making. It is as significant in its way as the self-starter, four-wheel brakes and balloon tires were in theirs.

A brief review of the long, slow steps which led up to the revolutionary change establishes the accuracy of such an estimate.

Looking into their own experience, nine out of every ten drivers must admit that the most floundering and awkward aspect of their driving has been in gearshifting. In an earlier day, it meant a distressingly jerky process of starting away from standing; a weird and funny performance in which the car acted something like a kangaroo. Then came another stage in the cycle. Engineers having ironed out the jerkiness, motorists fell into another evil practice of gearshifting, one which resulted in a notoriously common failing of doing the job so awkwardly as to stall the engine.

This was overcome by designers, only to have drivers run into an interlude of noisy, clashing gearshifting that was hard on driving mechanisms and equally hard on the public auditory nerve. Gears that meshed automatically or remained constantly in mesh were the engineering palliative for this. Free-wheeling and clutch control contributed to the improvement.

Now it seems that the driver is about to be taken entirely out of the process of gearshifting. A machine is coming along that will do the job much better than he ever was able to do it.

POST HASTE.

Well, we're off!

On our way to a new dollar, but what will it weigh?

The gold content is now a most contentious question.

And is the metal base to include base metal?

Silver slogan: Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of the parity.

"Monetary change surprises France." For once Paris had nothing on us.

You were taken unawares? Well, read the New York Times' editorial of Wednesday on how the President would strangle the inflationists and you won't feel so lonesome.

One British and one French delegate to the confabulations were no more at sea literally yesterday than they were figuratively when they heard of the dollar's divorce proceedings.

Our idea of the proper answer to permitting foreign goods unrestricted rights of commerce and confining American products to the 30-hour week is that it is too silly to argue.

After roasting peanuts all day Senate politicians barred them from the bill for the relief of raw materials.

If Secretary Perkins can get the decrees ready and order wages to inflate themselves as fast as prices rise it will be a new deal de facto, if not de jure.

One Democrat's lament: "Every day I scan the list of appointments to see if I can find a name I ever heard before."

It seems that the faithful British engineers were wrecking the Russian plants to help Vickers collect the £7,000,000 that was due when the machinery was in good running order.

With Japan in China it is just one state after another and it isn't just a state of mind.

Talk about this being the age of man when industry is to be managed by Miss Perkins!

Speaking of raids on the dollar, pardon a moment of unholy glee as we contemplate France pondering the alternative of going off gold—or going off gold.

THE MOTHER.

We come in pain to her who loves us best;
We cause her pain and anguish many a day,
Yet, by the tiny words we early learn to say,
The mother thinks herself supremely blest;
Toils dreary hours to keep us neatly dressed
And through the window watches us play;
Glad hers the task to put our toys away
And see us safely tucked in bed to rest.
Despite our frailties and the wrong we do
Long hours of illness and the care we bring,
Her love remains devoted, constant, true.
Always some joy is she remembering.
Would you be brave in trouble? Then recall
How much our mothers suffer for us all.

REGULATION OF INDUSTRY

Secretary Perkins Insists That Minimum Wage Procedure and Limitation of Hours of Operation Do Not Constitute Dictatorship.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The somewhat extravagant language in your editorial of April 20 calls further attention to the somewhat widespread misinterpretation of the status of the "Black bill" and the conditions which led to a few suggestions to modify by amendmnet that bill in the House.

The "Black bill," as you remember, was introduced over a year ago by Senator Black and provided a flat 30-hour week of six hours on five days for all articles manufactured and permitted to be shipped in interstate commerce. The purpose of the bill, as stated in its preamble, was to give employment to more people in this time of emergency by an effective regulation to shorten the hours of labor of those still at work. It was in effect an effort to "share the work" by putting some compulsion into that movement. The bill attracted some attention a year ago but was not taken seriously and was regarded in most circles as an expression of an opinion rather than a practical political measure and for this reason relatively few people attended the public hearings and the expected opposition did not develop strongly.

(1). The bill was taken up again in January, 1933, and again at public hearings relatively little objection developed. The members of the United States Senate thought well enough of this bill to pass it on April 6, 1933, and assented to the technique of the regulation of hours of labor by prohibiting the circulation in interstate commerce of articles produced otherwise than on the hours of labor schedules proposed in this bill. In passing the bill in the Senate, however, when it became obvious that a favorable report would be recorded, special interests began to seek exemption, with the result that the bill was passed exempting a number of industries outright and then providing by a further very broad and unlimited amendment that the Secretary of Labor might exempt any other industry and any commodity from the terms of this bill, namely, the 30-hour week.

(2) At this point, when it appeared highly probable that the bill would become law, it attracted my serious consideration, and as an experienced administrative officer I could not fail to recognize not only the serious burden placed upon the Secretary of Labor, a burden so great that it would almost overwhelm the department in passing upon exemptions in every industry, but I also recognized the impropriety of giving any one public official the right to grant wholesale exemptions from a mandatory law without limitation and without provisions for publicity. I also recognized that the "Black bill" itself, although laying down a very definite rule as to the hours, made no provisions for the technique of enforcement. It has been my experience that most people will conform with industrial regulatory laws voluntarily if they are given some help and advice by the department having the matter in charge and that one of the best, cheapest and simplest ways of securing equal compliance is a system of reporting and keeping of records in standard form which can be examined by the department having the regulation in charge.

(3) Telegrams, letters and conferences with representative employers, administrative officers, economists and workers, also called sharply to my attention the fact that the already rapidly sinking weekly earnings would be likely to be seriously reduced in some industries and in some parts of the country if the 30-hour week were put into force with no provision for pegging the fall of wages. One of the most serious aspects of the depression during the past year has been the unprecedented fall of wages, thereby drying up the purchasing power of the wage earner market upon which to a very large extent industrial recovery depends. Wages in some industries and in some localities tend to fall far below the subsistence level and the employers who conduct their industries according to any decent and ethical principles find themselves handicapped by competition with those in the same industry who have ruthlessly cut wages so low that in some instances $1 or $2 a week has represented the earnings. This is not true, of course, of all employers or of all industries or of all localities, but the fear or further wage cuttings under the excuse given by the 30-hour bill led to a recognition of the desirability of putting some bottom to the fall of wages and establishing in conjunction with it the principles of a minimum wage, not a standard wage, to be fixed in those cases where the fall of wages threatened reasonable standards of living.

(4) Many industrialists throughout the country communicated with us their recognition of the desirability of a strict limitation of hours of work in order to provide more jobs, but pointed out the problem brought about by the fact that in some States the work of women at night is prohibited by law and in other States is not, giving the manufacturers in the States without the night work prohibition the opportunity of working four shifts in the women-employing industries as against the two possible shifts in the States having night work laws. With the present limited market for the products of these factories this might have the effect of allowing the mills in the unregulated district to preempt the whole market, thereby causing the shutdown and consequent prostration of whole communities.

For the above stated reasons I sat down in executive session with the House Committee on Labor and canvassed in detail these problems, making informally for the information of the committee certain suggestions which would make the bill more workable.

One thing is quite clear, that we can not have our cake and eat it, too. If we are to limit the hours of labor in order to provide jobs for more people we must also provide for orderly, equitable flexibility in administration and must attempt to guard the opportunities of all groups within an industry to participate in the activity so essential for the wide distribution of wage earners' purchasing power. The recommendations which I suggested to the House committee as possible amendments to the "Black bill" are directed to this objective and are based upon the conception that the various industries in this country if given the opportunity and the technique can probably become practically self-regulating in the public interest.

(1) I suggested as a substitute for the unlimited power of the Secretary of Labor to exempt any industry from the provisions of the bill, the principle of variation between 30 hours per week and 40 hours per week in cases of extraordinary need for not to exceed ten weeks in any one year.

This is obviously in the interests of providing flexibility in trades where seasonal problems may make difficulty in maintaining a dead level of production for all classes of workers, but it gives this privilege of variation as a right rather than as the favor of the Secretary of Labor. What is more, I suggested that the orderly and appropriate way to make this finding was by means of a board (unpaid, of course) representing the three parties in interest, employers, employes and the Government, who would be obliged to make a public record of their reasons for finding an extraordinary need and the terms of the variation permitted from the 30-hour week standard. This provision is neither new nor remarkable as the States in this country which have labor laws based upon the administrative order system of administration all have industrial boards with powers to grant variations from the statute. The only novelty in this is that it applies the same principle of administrative order within limits to the mandatory hours of work provisions.

(2) The suggestions with regard to enforcement are based also upon the labor laws which are common in all of the industrial States and merely require industries to keep records, time sheets, pay rolls, &c., in a form required by the Secretary of Labor for the purpose of equitable enforcement of the law and for the purpose of enabling those manufacturers who desire to comply with the law voluntarily to understand the problem in its relation to the operation of the factory readily.

(3) Provisions with regard to the establishing of a minimum wage follow the language of the laws in those States where minimum wage laws are already in effect and represent the consensus of opinion of those who have been long engaged in the enforcement of these laws as to the best method of procedure. The fixing of minimum wages is in no sense the fixing of a standard wage or the fixing of a wage for every person in industry. It has been the experience in States where they have minimum wage laws that the fixing of a bottom in the fall of wages in the least skilled and most helpless occupations has had the effect of raising the general level of wages and that the minimum wage has not tended to become the maximum wage. The pattern followed in the suggestion which I have made to the Congress for the establishment of minimum wage boards is not new or unusual and provides for representation of employers, workers and the Government as the parties in interest. It provides, moreover, for the holding of public hearings and the making of public records with regard to every action which is taken. This procedure has been thoroughly tested and has been found to be fair and honorable in the States having such laws.

Far from being a dictatorship, these procedures represent a democratic and flexible technique for such regulation of industry in the matter of hours and wages as seems to be necessary or desirable.

(4) The fourth suggestion with regard to the technique of securing more equitable adjustment of production between the plants of a given industry is more novel as the problem itself is newly realized and it is claimed would be greatly accentuated by the provisions of the "Black bill" as it was passed by the Senate. The wide geographical distribution of certain industries, particularly the textile, and the market differences in the labor laws in the States in which these industries are located has sometimes brought about a very difficult problem for the managers of such industries in meeting local laws and still meeting competition. It is the belief of many of these that some method of bringing about "equitable adjustment of production within the industry" is highly desirable. If you will read the language which I suggested to the Congress carefully, you will note that the Secretary of Labor is authorized to specify a limitation of the total hours of operation of a plant only when by reason of excessively long periods of operation a plant is causing extraordinary hardship to other plants in the certain industry and consequent substantial injury to the general welfare. In other words, there is no true regulation of production, no limitation of the total amount of production and only the power to limit the total number of hours of operation when excessively long operation is throwing the balance within the industry out of scale. This is a new problem and one which must be faced realistically certainly during the emergency period. These suggestions were made by me to the Congress at the request of the House Committee on Labor and will, I presume, be given consideration by the Labor Committee when it is considering the "Black bill" which is now before them with the wide-open power to the Secretary of Labor to exempt any industries from the provisions of the bill.

I have written this rather lengthy memorandum for your information. The suggestions are scarcely the product of hysteria, as your editorial suggests. It is true that some of the headlines and some of the press comment has been based upon the news value rather than the economic value of the suggestions and this perhaps accounts for some of the extravagant statements made in regard to them.

FRANCES PERKINS,

Proposes Fine for Children Playing in Street, as Safety Measure.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I think there should be a fine for children playing in the streets, as motorists pay a license high enough to drive their cars. Why should people pay taxes and provide public playgrounds and then have to drive their cars slowly so that children can play in the streets? To avoid accidents, keep the children out of the street. I love children and approve of children playing, and for their own good they should be kept out of the street.

A New Yorker At Large

By MARK BARRON

New York.—One of the better known novelists discovered himself the other afternoon at a party sipping tea with a young woman who had just come up from Georgia.

Thinking to make conversation, he remarked that he was a close friend of George Gordon Battle's, but the Southern honey had never heard the name.

"But, he's president of the Southern Society in New York," protested the novelist. "He's from North Carolina."

"M-mmm," scoffed the Georgia pretty, "you don't call that Southern, do you?"

Then there is that retort of Luella Gear's which may be taken as a wisecrack or a moral.

"The trouble with this country," a young hopeful observed, "is that the wrong people have money."

"If you have money," quoth Miss Gear, "you can't be wrong."

More About Noise.

This final word about noise in New York and then I promise the subject will be dropped by this department.

In an apartment house recently constructed a ventilating system was installed on the lower floors, but not on the topmost ones. A few weeks after it opened, however, it was found necessary to extend the ventilating system to the top floors also.

The builders had thought that those on the top floors would be so high up they could keep their windows open. But the noise of passing trucks and squawking taxis was of such volume that the more elevated apartment dwellers were compelled to keep their windows closed at all hours to shut out the din.

For the Epicureans.

Many restaurants in Manhattan boast of odd specialties on their menus.

One such tavern in Forty-third street recommends an incongruous combination. It is noted for the excellence of its mushrooms, sweet rolls, onions and strawberries.

A Hindu place draws much of its trade because it is one of the few places where you can get rose petal tea. And the proprietor comes around in person to give his patrons instructions in the proper way to drink this beverage.

An Italian kitchen just off Washington Square is noted for its spaghetti and baked eels. If you want to eat here, you have to give your order a day ahead of time. And you eat in the kitchen along with the family of the chef. His real trade is that of taxi driver, but when trade is slack he allows these "paying guests" to dine at his family board.

In lower Manhattan is a nook that deals only in terrapin. Many of the bigwigs of Wall street go there to do their terrapin shopping in person.

Telephone questions on The Meanderer's column to The Washington Post, National 4205, Extention 19; or address The Meanderer, The Washington Post, inclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply.

Many are the touches for varying the effect of the plain colored suit or dress that plays such a large part in the average woman's spring wardrobe. The woman who is accessory-wise may seem to have several costumes with the use of one plain dress or suit and bows, scarfs, buckles, bracelets, boutonnieres, bags and hats in clever contrast. The chic black dress worn by a stylist in a big department store has been effective with a green scarf and matching bracelet; or with a red plaid scarf and a red hat; and with a black hat, a large white pique bow and white ear buttons.

Bold plaids in a loosely woven sheer wool, so sheer that it resembles theatrical gauze, are among the effective new scarfs the Meanderer has noted. This scarf, long enough to tie in a bow in the front or on the side, sells in an F street department store.

Cloth flowers, singly or in bouquets, are filling show cases in festive array as suggestions for spring costume brightening. Among the new sorts of flowers are the gingham ones, of red, blue, green or black and white plaid. Flowers in nice colors of starched lace are fluffy or semitailored. Organdy field flowers so popular at present are in small bunches for 50 cents and in larger bouquets for $1. The pique flowers which have importance, with so much pique in use in frock trimming and hat trimming, are 50c up.

White organdy flowers in strips of crisp fluffiness for use on party or Sunday night dresses may in themselves make over a costume. They may be used about the neck or about the armholes or shoulder fashion, or may be cut in several parts to distribute as the remodeler desires.

Large, comfortable new pillows for porch, for living room and for bedroom are made in a trisided fashion and are labeled "multiposition" pillows. They are made to fill corners or sofas or swings comfortably and for reading-in-bed addicts they are invaluable. The large, pastel colored boudoir style "multiposition" pillows are covered with a brocaded material, filled with kopak and sell for $1. The porch cushion in this style is weatherproof and sells for $2.

"Tea-caddy lamps" are new arrivals in the lamp department of a big F street department store. The base of one of these lamps is actually patterned from an old English tea caddy with tea-shop figures printed thereon. Others have the square shape of the tea caddy for a base, with chintz patterned coloring on shade and base. Prices on the lamps are modestly low.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

A white waterproof crepe de chine turns out to be a raincoat—trimmed with odd sleeves of black and green, and large brass buttons. And a coarse hopsaking linen fabric in pale blue fashions the loose summer coat with printed scarf collar oddly attached. (Courtesy Bernard et Cie, Paris.)

ONE can wear trousers and soft felt hats, mannish overcoats and all the droll masculine details that the mode allows—but if one wears men's patent leather pumps one isn't just right!

Shoes with Cuban heels, all masculinely styled, but expressly feminine, have been made to wear with this type of outfit. And the new leathers—buffed pigskin is one—seem particularly adapted to masculine wearing apparel. By the way—I wish someone would invent a new word for that! I mean the trousers and things that women are wearing now—which shouldn't be called masculine, really.

• • • •

Another problem in relation to the above-mentioned type of clothing (how's that?) is the bag. Naturally, a man does not go tripping about with a handbag on his arm—but show me the woman, however trouser minded, who wants to keep all her accoutrements in her trouser pockets.

The answer then is the tailored handbag—which does not seem too incongruish with masculine attire. And, of course, the new tailored leather handbags need not confine themselves to trousered wear—they are lovely for traveling, for business women, for tailored suits. The nicest thing about them is that they are actually roomy enough to carry something in—not just something to catch the eye.

• • • •

Roomy and comfy—both the coats I sketched for you today. Both are from Bernard et Cie, and do that worthy tailor proud—the upper one is in one of the new rough wear fabrics, ample sleeves, and loose and straight of line. The scarf is different—and oddly attached to the buttoned-on sleeves so no one could possibly lose it!

The coat below is a waterproofed white crepe de chine—and how is that for charm? Especially when it is trimmed with brightly colored green and black sleeves and collar bands—and brass buttons!

• • • •

The week's leaflet is a resume of all of the best Dah-ray lingerie designs that we have ever offered you—shorts from half a yard, bias bloomers from one yard, a combination or teddy, from seven-eighths of a yard, and the all-in-one undergarment that has an adjustable decolletage for evening wear. You will like all of these—and have probably had several of them already—why not send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for this week's illustrated leaflet and have them all at once to keep on hand?

• • • •

A hat and bag set of either printed or embroidered felt is something! You'll be glad to own one—and there isn't any reason at all why you shouldn't own one that your very own clever fingers have made.

It is supposed to have astonished and amused the outside world when the lovely ladies of San Antonio started wearing riding boots with their summer dresses. It's a new fad amongst the youngsters—and I pause to remark that it isn't so dumb—not at all. Also that it indicates what I have told you all along—that miladi likes the high boot—and will have it return to style some day. Today—the jeune fille is taking to it with gusto—in Texas.

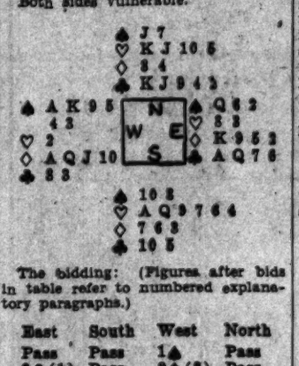
Culbertson on Bridge

By ELY CULBERTSON

DROPPING THE BIDDING.

WHEN a player has consciously overbid his hand, in order to give his partner a chance to contract for a Slam, it is a little discouraging to have said partner suddenly drop the bidding—especially when it develops that the Slam is an absolute laydown. The following hand was actually played at four spades by East and West, and six were made through a finesse. However, six diamonds could have been made very easily without the finesse.

East, Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.



The bidding: (Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

East	South	West	North
Pass	Pass	1♠	Pass
2♣(1)	Pass	2◇(2)	Pass
3◇(3)	Pass	4♠(4)	Pass
Pass(5)	Pass

1—The hand is close between two clubs and two spades. Probably the former is a little better, due to the notrump possibilities it suggests.
2—Preferring to show the second suit before the rebiddable spades.
3—Here the choice is close between three diamonds and three spades. Three diamonds is probably a little better, due to the fact that four trumps are held.
4—A slight overbid, but a justifiable one. West senses a Slam in the hand if his partner holds a fit in spades.
5—A distinct underbid. West is obviously trying to find out if the hand contains any Slam possibilities. With a fit in both spades and damonds, East should not hesitate to bid more.

As will be noticed, six spades are made through taking a club finesse; but, if played in diamonds, this play is not necessary, as the three long spades in the West hand can be used to discard three clubs in Dummy. Even if the diamonds break 4-1, the hand is still easy, as the additional heart in Dummy can be ruffed by Declarer before trumps are drawn.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

What consideration should determine the final contract by North and South on the hand below?

East, Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

The answer will be given in tomorrow's article.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, April 20 (A.P.).—While United States Steel Corporation's first quarter report will make a poor showing, says Dow Jones & Co., substantial improvement in business since the start of April is expected to be reflected in second quarter results. In official quarters, says the agency, it is expected that the present expansion in steel demand will continue. In the final quarter of 1932 the corporation had an operating loss of $3,827,272, and a deficit after all charges and preferred dividends of $18,530,773.

Commenting on the March construction contract awards of $59,958,500 compared with $52,712,300 for February, the F. W. Dodge Corporation says that "considering the widespread slowing down in business occasioned by the banking holiday the March results must be considered encouraging. In spite of the banking holiday some seasonal expansion over February occurrred."

The New York Hide Exchange reports that absorption of hides by the tanning industry during 1932 and 1933 to date exceeded production and that raw stocks in all hands at the end of February were 13.1 per cent below the like 1932 period.

Langbourne M. Williams, jr., president of the Freeport Texas Co., said today that first quarter earnings exceeded common stock dividend requirements for the period after all charges. The company expects to start production at Grand Ecaille, the new property in Louisiana, by next January, he said.

A reorganizaton plan for Rudolph Karstadt, Inc., German chain store company, announced by the bondholders committee, headed by Robert O. Hayward, of Dillon, Read & Co., provides for a drastic cut in capital stock, payment of $75 in cash on each $1,000 of par value of the 6 per cent bonds, and placing of the $925 balance on a cumulative dividend basis, to be paid when and if earned.

The bondholders' committee of the city of St. Petersburg, Fla., announces that a distribution equal to 30 per cent of the interest due on deposited securities for the period from October 1 last to March 31, 1933, will be made to all depositors of record May 10. This payment will leave securities deposited with the committee slightly more than a year in default, the announcement said.

Engineering construction contracts awarded in the week ended April 17 totaled $7,836,000, the lowest weekly volume since December, 1918, reports Engineering News-Record. However, the publication says construction is under restraint pending plans for a large public works program and that "the outlook for the construction industry at present is brighter than at any time during the past year."

Steel Ingot Output Now 23 Per Cent

Most Districts Showing Upturn in Yields; Buying Aids.

New York, April 20 (A.P.).—A rise in steel ingot production to 23 per cent of capacity, the highest rate in about a year, and comparing with 19½ per cent a week ago, was reported today by Iron Age. The present rate is above the monthly average for any month since March, 1932, as computed by the American Iron and Steel Institute.

"Almost every district except the Atlantic seaboard," said the survey, "has shown marked improvement within the past week. The Pittsburgh district is now at 18 per cent, the Chicago district about 23 per cent, Cleveland is at 35 per cent, Youngstown and adjacent Ohio districts at 23 per cent, and the Wheeling district at 40 per cent. There have also been gains at Birmingham and Buffalo. Aggregate orders received by some steel companies thus far in April are considerably in excess of their entire March bookings."

Automobile and tin plate orders continue to be the leading influences in lifting steel production, Iron Age said, but "there is evidence of greater diversification of orders."

Copper Joins Advances Of Commodity Market

New York, April 20 (A.P.).—Copper, quiescent yesterday in the face of soaring prices in other commodities, today joined the upward movement, with quotations at 6 cents a pound, against a previous level of 5⅞ cents.

The 6-cent price was first reported in foreign transactions and quickly quoted here. Buying orders continued to pour into markets for other nonferrous metals. Zinc rose another quarter of a cent to 3½ cents a pound, following yesterday's advance of one-tenth of a cent.

First Steel Is Shipped From Calumet District

Indiana Harbor, Ind., April 20 (A.P.).—The first cargo from the Calumet industrial area via the lakes-to-gulf waterway left the Inland Steel Co. plant today for St. Louis and Memphis. It was a barge loaded with 800 tons of steel.

Industrial leaders said the shipment marked the opening of a new marketing channel for the Calumet region. The steel was loaded directly from the plant at its own docks and will reach its destinations with only one handling.

Electric Power Yield Increases for Week

New York, April 20 (A.P.).—Electric power output last week rose to 1,409,608,000 kilowatt hours from 1,399,367,000 in the previous week, the Edison Electric Institute announced today. The decrease from the corresponding period last year was 4.8 per cent, against a 4.5 per cent loss in the previous week. The latter was the smallest percentage decline from the previous year recorded for several months.

Output declines as shown by the major geographical groups follow: Atlantic seaboard, 4.9 per cent against 2.7 per cent in the previous week; central industrial, 6.3 against 5.7; New England, 6 per cent against 3.8; Pacific Coast 6.6 against 6.8.

Dollar Continues Fall On Foreign Exchanges

New York, April 20 (A.P.).—The American dollar, no longer tied to gold, today continued its precipitate fall in terms of foreign moneys.

Sterling cables opened here at $3.89, an overnight advance of 19 cents. French francs rose approximately one-fifth of a cent to 4.44 cents, while Dutch guilders soared 1¼ cents to 45¼ cents and Swiss francs jumped nine-tenths of a cent at the opening to 21¼ cents. The Reichsmark was up slightly more than a cent, its initial quotation being 26¼ cents, and belgas rose nearly half a cent to 15.70 cents. Canadian dollars opened at 89 cents, up 2 cents.

Silver Price Advances Again to 35½ Cents

New York, April 20 (A.P.).—The price of spot silver today jumped another 3⅛ cents to 35½ cents an ounce, establishing the highest level since November 12, 1931. Yesterday the market spurted 3½ cents.

Heavy speculative buying again featured the market. The rise was in line with a further advance of 2½ to 3 cents an ounce in futures prices. London bar silver was quoted 13-16 pence higher at 19 3-16 pence per ounce.

Hop Prices Very Firm.

New York, April 20 (A.P.).—Hops very firm, unchanged.

American Exports Cut to $108,000,000

Excess Over Imports Put at $13,000,000; Under 1932 Period.

The excess of exports over imports was placed by the Commerce Department yesterday at $13,000,000 as compared with $23,687,000 during March of last year.

As compared with February, both imports and exports increased during March. Imports during February totaling $83,750,000 and exports $101,530,000.

For the three-month period ended with March, exports were $330,123,000 against $458,870,000 during March of last year and imports were $274,756,000 against $397,708,000. The excess of exports over imports during the period was $55,367,000 against $61,162,000. The department also announced cotton exports during March were $17,957,000 against $20,415,000 in February.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

WHAT THE SKIN DOES.

WE hold our eyes in great esteem, and properly, because we know them to be our machinery for vision. Likewise, we hold our ears in esteem, though we are more indifferent to them than is the case with the eyes. We should recall that there are other organs that belong in the same class as the eyes and ears. The nose houses the machinery of smelling, and the mouth that of tasting. In the skin is located the end organs of such sensations as touch, temperature, and pain. This story deals with the skin as an organ of sensation.

It is through these organs of special sense that we are kept in touch with the world outside. It is through sight, hearing, smell, taste, and skin sensations that we are told what is happening around us, that we receive our education of every sort, that we adjust ourselves to our surroundings.

More fundamental than reading books and hearing the spoken word is the act of living. And for this fundamental the skin as sense organ is more important than either the eye or the ear. The skin hooks into the central nervous system. Some of the impulses which the environment registers on the end organs of special sense are conveyed to the brain and there recorded. The reference is to heat and cold, pain or ease, comfort or discomfort, and the feel of things. It hooks also into that other nervous system that is so very important to the intimate acts of living. The reference is to what we call the sympathetic nervous system.

Causes which operate on the end organs of this system located in the skin influence distribution of blood to different parts of the body. Influences registering here can send more blood to the liver or greatly lessen the blood content of this organ. They can cause the kidneys to be relatively bloodless and inactive or fill them up with blood and put them to working like a beehive. Impulses registering here can increase or decrease the load the heart is called on to carry. They precipitate attacks of Buerger's disease, Raynaud's disease, leg cramps at night. They make the face red and cause it to pale. They have much to do with comfort and discomfort.

If the skin had this one task and no other, it would rank in importance with the eye and the ear.

Guiding Your Child

By MRS. AGNES LYNE

A MOTHER for some time had noticed that her two boys spoke unpleasantly to each other, the elder one contemptuously, hatefully, the younger one belligerently and no less hatefully.

Listening one day, she was shocked to recognize in their exchange of hatefulness the very words she had used only an hour ago toward them and an unmistakable imitation of the very tones of her voice and manner.

It dawned on her then how often her own way of speaking to them had been as sharp and even hateful as their own.

Irritable with fatigue and worry, she had, without being aware of it, permitted herself, more and more, to vent her irritation upon her children. They, reacting to it, were only passing on each to the other, what they had had to suffer from her.

Children who are accustomed to hearing their elders speak quietly and with self control, who know only a gentle and courteous tone at home are not likely to be unpleasant to one another. In the excitement of play they may be loud and self-assertive but never mean, sharp and hateful.

Such an unkind tone among brothers and sisters should suggest at once that this is the tone which is used toward them. A mother who hears it in her children may well stop to consider whether she herself has not supplied the bad example which they are following.

Often such recognition which causes the mother to reform is all that is needed to bring about a similar reform in the children.

Film Star Admits Love's Death Hurt

But Estelle Taylor Thinks Heart Wounds Healed Before Car Crash.

Los Angeles, April 20 (A.P.).—The hurts of the broken romance with Jack Dempsey were touched upon in court here today by his former wife, Estelle Taylor, in her damage suit for $150,000 against Frank Joyce, theatrical agent, and his chauffeur, Noel Scott.

Defense attorneys sought to show the ill health, which the actress claims resulted from an accident while riding in Joyce's car, was due to her domestic trouble with the former world's heavyweight boxing champion.

"If you mean my divorce from Jack—yes, it hurt me terribly," she testified. "But those months of trouble weren't responsible for my ill health now. True, there were many days and weeks of unhappiness, but the hurt was pretty well healed by the time this accident occurred."

What Today Means

"TAURUS."

IF APRIL 21 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 6:30 a. m. to 7:55 a. m., from 5 p. m. to 6 p. m. and from 9 p. m. to 10 p. m. The danger periods are from 11:25 a. m. to 12:45 p. m. and from 3 p. m. to 4 p. m.

You may experience difficulty in "putting your right foot forward" on this April 21 and the chances are that in no way will you appear at your best. You may find yourself so fixed that you will need greatly the helpful advice and loving care and consolation of a friend.

The child born on this April 21 will early in life develop a good deal of dignity and poise. A hardy little one, liking to have its own way and having a subtle and appealing manner that will get it far. Will get much out of life, giving little in return.

If April 21 is your birthday, you are more than likely a person who will travel unrushed through life. You have great patience and perseverance. You are one who can be entrusted with duties that will require some time in the execution for you are far-seeing and methodical and at the same time have untiring energy. You are not one to allow trouble and disaster to sneak up on you and take you by surprise. You are too far-seeing for that and you seem to have a great capacity for forestalling things unpleasant. You are inclined to be an obstinate person and when some one crosses you or would seem to impede your progress you can be brutal in your method of dealing with that person.

Born on April 21, you are no doubt a quiet person, one who catches all that is going on and has little or no comment to make. The women are not gossips, they do not interest themselves in the petty affairs of others, and they can keep a secret. Both sexes go very seriously about their duties and in their lighter moods and moments often go in very strenuously for one or more of the arts in some way or another. These people have many friends, but it would seem to be the case that they are the dominating factors in their relations with others. As wives and husbands, these people have no betters.

Successful people born on April 21:

Henry W. Shaw (Josh Billings), humorist.

James R. Kendrick, clergyman and educator.

John Muir, naturalist.

Charles S. Bull, physician.

Stocks Advance 5.4 Points In Heaviest Sale Since 1930

Gold Move and Expansion Aid Rise in Turnover of 7,198,964 Shares.

New York, April 20 (A.P.).—Financial markets appeared to be of one mind today in their belief that suspension of the gold standard by Uncle Sam and plans for controlled inflation meant a cheaper dollar—in other words, higher prices.

Stocks swept upward under impetus of the heaviest trading since May 5, 1930, while wheat and other grains, as well as cotton, silver, rubber, sugar, copper, lead, cocoa and zinc advanced actively. Extreme gains were not fully held, on the whole, and a few commodities closed lower, but the day's prevailing mood was decidedly against a halting of the advance and heavy profit taking generally met ready absorption.

Net advances for common stocks ranged from one to nearly a dozen points. Boisterous until early afternoon, the market then quieted down for a brief period, only to gather fresh strength when utilities roused from a nap. This latter group was strongest at the close. Metals were strong all day, especially coppers, but rails were less prominent.

Not in a long time had Wall street seen so frenzied an opening. Transactions involving 10,000 shares were fairly numerous, while International Nickel distinguished itself with a 40,000-share block. Ticker facilities fell more than half an hour in arrears, and it was around 1:30 o'clock before the tape could be cleared; subsequently it fell slightly behind transactions again.

High lights of the price movement included net gains of 11½ for People's Gas, 6 each for American Telephone and Consolidated Gas, 10½ for National Lead, 4 to 5 for U. S. Steel, American Can, North America, Public Service of New Jersey, Procter & Gamble, Electric Power & Light and Detroit Edison, and 2 to 3 for American Smelting, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, United Corporation, Anaconda and Standard Oil of New Jersey. Sales reached the large total of 7,198,964 shares.

Although there was no disputing the evidence offered by the course of markets, Wall street nevertheless found itself considerably confused by events. There was still some obscurity around the threefold plan for giving the President sweeping monetary powers for use in combatting deflation but it did appear that the Federal Reserve System was to have control of whatever inflation is decided on. The central banks, with their huge gold stocks and their familiar facilities for credit expansion, are in a position, it was pointed out, to work toward the administration's goal.

Foreign gold currencies, and sterling as well, naturally rushed higher in dollar terms, though there was some reaction from the top quotations. International aspects of our Government's steps developed along several lines and foreign repercussions, especially as regards the forthcoming Washington conferences, were heard quickly.

CURB PRICES HIGHER IN EXCITED TRADING

Top Gains Trimmed Later as Sales Climb to 866,000 Shares.

New York, April 20 (A.P.).—Excited buying continued today in the industrial-commodity groups on the curb market, but the wide advances of the first hour were not fully maintained.

In the final hour many of these speculative favorites began to lose their momentum and traders shifted interest to utilities, which had a sensationally strong close. Transactions totaled 866,000 shares, the largest since September 21, 1931. Yesterday's dealings were 500,000 shares.

The big gainers included Aluminum Co. of America, which rose 4 points; Aluminum Ltd., 7; Gorham Manufacturing voting trust certificates, 9; Montgomery Ward "A", 3; Ruberoid Co., 3; Quaker Oats, 10; Electric Bond & Share, 4; American Gas & Electric, 3; Columbia Gas & Electric preferred, 12; Singer Manufacturing, 4; Standard Oil of Indiana, 3, and Pepperell Manufacturing, 6.

Only a handful of stocks ran counter to the trend. One was Southern New England Telephone, a subsidiary of American Telephone & Telegraph, which dropped 21 points on an odd-lot sale. This is an inactive issue.

$3,159,500,000 Avalanche Of Buying Overhangs Nation

Chicago, April 20 (A.P.).—A potential buying power of more than $3,000,000,000 overhangs American markets, according to Franklyn Hobbs, an economist.

This figure represents half of the $6,319,000,000 in domestic circulation on April 1.

The business of the country at its recent rate has not required more than half of that sum, leaving the remainder as a potential buying avalanche of dollars which need only proper impetus to start rolling into trade.

"On July 1, 1914 we were doing more business in the United States than until recently at least with half the money in circulation," he said. "The 1914 figure was $3,439,000,000.

"So apparently there is three billions or better cash buying power in the hands of the people. The inflationary moves which have been undertaken this week may set it in motion where the ridiculously low prices were not able to."

BOND MARKET BOILS OVER INFLATION FIRE

Gilt-Edge Groups Unloaded as Secondary Issues Rise; Sales $21,754,000.

New York, April 20 (A.P.).—The bond market boiled over inflationary fires today with decidedly conflicting results in the investment and speculative diet.

While there was a rush to accumulate secondary issues of all categories, there was some heavy unloading of the so-called "gilt-edge-groups. Low-priced industrials and rails led the upward whirl with many foreign dollar bonds rallying spectacularly. United States Government securities and the high-bracketed utilities and carriers again were under pressure.

Sales totaled $21,754,000, par value, the largest turnover since September, 1931. The average for 60 domestic corporate bonds edged up two-tenths of a point.

Among the most active corporation gainers, up 1 to 3 or more points, were maturities of Alleghany Corporation, American & Foreign Power, Baltimore & Ohio, Chicago & Northwestern, Erie, Goodrich, Goodyear, International Telephone, Missouri Pacific, New York Central, Otis Steel, Philadelphia Reading Coal & Iron, Postal Telegraph, Nickel Plate, St. Joseph Lead, Frisco, Shell Union Oil, Southern Pacific, United Drug, United States Rubber, Utilities Power & Light, Vanadium, Wheeling Steel and Western Union.

Most Federal bonds were off fractionally to more than a point, although several of them rallied moderately near the close. Liberty 3½s showed a gain of 18-32 of a point. Liberty fourth 4¼s were again heavily traded, but held their decline to 3-32 of a point.

U. S. TREASURY RECEIPTS.

(Associated Press.)

Treasury receipts for April 19 were $5,983,960.50; expenditures, $16,994,978.42; balance, $388,302,210.87. Customs duties for 18 days of April were $16,389,614.72.

HEAVY WHEAT GAINS TRIMMED BY SALES

Rise of 5¾ Cents Reduced in Later Trading; All Grains Up.

Chicago, April 20 (A.P.).—Excited by reported broadening of inflation plans and by United States abandonment of the gold standard, all grains rose wildly today, and then fell back.

Wheat soared to 10¼ cents a bushel higher than Tuesday, up 5¾ from yesterday's finish, but lost more than half of the new gain, largely as a result of belief which trade leaders expressed that existing conditions were unprecedented, and that rapid fluctuations were likely to be the rule hereafter rather than the exception. On the crest of today's huge buying, before selling assumed even greater proportions, all grains surpassed any prices heretofore reached this season, and in some cases outdid records since 1931.

Wheat closed nervous, 1⅞ cents above yesterday's finish, with corn 1½ to 1⅞ up; oats, ⅞ to 1⅜ advanced, and provisions at a rise of 35 to 47 cents.

Change in Market.

Although wheat jumped faster and higher today than at any previous time of late, the market became of a much more two-sided character than has recently been evident, and sharp reactions from radical advances were frequent. Highest prices of the day for wheat prevailed right at the outset, and the day's bottom level was reached just before the close. Enormous selling to realize profits accounted for a large part of the setbacks from top quotations, and there was also increased notice taken of beneficial rains in winter crop regions West and Southwest.

Authoritative details of proposed "controlled inflation," including new currency up to $8,000,000,000, were not received in Chicago until after grain trading had ended. Versions which were current, however, indicated extraordinary new powers would be granted to the administration, and were sufficently definite to be a huge factor in the alternate waves of buying and selling that swayed the market. Severe depreciation of the American dollar abroad was virtually ignored, aside from comment in some quarters that the decline of the dollar as against international exchange would have a tendency to make the United States again a factor in the export grain trade.

Corn and oats duplicated in a modified form action of wheat. Provisions as well as grains were in broad demand, with lard at one time up 85 cents a hundred pounds.

Chicago, April 19 (A.P.).—L. A. Downs, president of the Illinois Central, said today the railroad had been able to improve its 1932 net income in the face of dwindling revenues.

He told stockholders at the annual meeting here revenues of the system for 1932 totaled $89,305,000, a decline of $27,483,000 from the preceding year, but that economies totaling $28,294,000 would offset the loss.

The road, he said, sustained a deficit of $3,547,000 for the year and although revenues were considerably less than for 1931 the 1932 deficit was about $36,000 less than that of the preceding year.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

A PROGRAM with an array of talent seldom assembled for nighttime features will be heard over station WRC, beginning at 12:30 o'clock today. A number of stars glorified by the late Florenz Ziegfeld will pay tribute to his memory in a broadcast from the stage of the theater bearing his name at Sixth avenue and Fifty-fourth street, New York City.

Marilyn Miller, Irving Berlin, Jimmy Durante, Abe Lyman, Dennis King, Jules Bledsoe, Charles King, Eddie Dowling and many others whom Ziegfeld skyrocketed to stardom will participate in the program. The gathering of former Follies headliners marks the reopening of the Ziegfeld Theater, dark since the great showman's death, as a motion picture theater.

Gene Buck president of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers and for many years associated with Florenz Ziegfeld, will speak of his contribution to the American theater. Eddie Dowling will be master of ceremonies and Abe Lyman's Orchestra will play some of the more famous selections from Ziegfeld's productions. Irving Berlin will sing.

Lyman's band is to open the memorial program with a medley of "Rio Rita" songs. After Dowling and Buck offer tributes to the creator of the "Follies," J. Harold Murray will open the musical tributes by singing "Following the Sun Around," from "Rio Rita," to be followed by Irving Berlin singing "A Pretty Girl Is Like a Melody," from "Follies of 1919;" Marilyn Miller, receiving one of her greatest roles with "Look for the Silver Lining," from "Sally;" Norma Terris and Dennis King singing "Why Do I Love You?" from "Show Boat," as a duet, and Jimmy "Schnozzle" Durante, who will do a comic scene from "Show Girl."

"Old Man River," from "Showboat," a highlight in Ziegfeld's brilliant career, will be sung by Jules Bledsoe, who introduced the selection six years ago, as the final number of the concert.

LEOPOLD STOKOWSKI will present the second request program by the Philadelphia Orchestra over WJSV from 2:30 to 4 o'clock this afternoon. Broadcast direct from the Academy of Music in Philadelphia, the program will consist of two numbers: the symphony No. 6 in B minor of Tschaikowsky, commonly called the "Pathetique," and Beethoven's immortal Fifth Symphony.

The broadcast is the second and last of those chosen in a ballot of the Philadelphia music public. On January 7, Stokowski presented the first request program consisting of the Cesar Franck D minor symphony and Johannes Brahms' symphony No. 1 in C minor.

Philip James' "Station WGZBX," winner of the N. B. C. Orchestral Award for 1931, and recently played by the Boston Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Albert Stoessel, will be presented by Dr. Walter Damrosch during the Music Appreciation Hour, WRC, 11 a. m., in the next to the last of the season's programs for school listeners.

The four movements from James' work will be explained for series D listeners at 11:30 a. m. These are: I, In the Lobby; II, Interference; III, A Slumber Hour, and IV, Mike-struck.

John Powell's "Natchez-on-the-Hill" also will be heard in the concluding minutes of the broadcast.

A TALE worth the telling of the London stay of Ben Bernie and All the Lads, was recited by an English visitor to the Old Maestro the other day.

It was at a theatrical appearance in London. Ben had just introduced Pat Kennedy, who was to sing. Just as Pat started to sing, someone hissed.

It seems that the custom there, when one person started to hiss, was for it to sweep the house. It did. Kennedy didn't know what to do. He kept on singing, but looked around for some sort of help from Bernie.

And there he found the Old Maestro, stretched across the piano and laughing as though it was the funniest thing he had ever seen. He continued to laugh and finally it affected the crowd. One by one, the hisses stopped. One by one, they started to chuckle.

And when Kennedy finished his number, the house rang with what Bernie calls "the best hand we got in Europe."

JAMES ROOSEVELT, eldest son of the President of the United States, will turn radio news commentator when he gives an intimate description of the visits of Premier Ramsay MacDonald and Edouard Herriot to the White House on Thursday, April 27. For some time young Roosevelt has been commenting on current events over the Yankee network. The broadcast will originate in Washington.

During the visit of the foreign statesmen to the Capital, the President's son will have the opportunity to converse with them at the White House.

THE first quarter of 1933 will be reviewed in a series of flashbacks to the high spots of news, drama, comedy and music in a full hour's radio program to be broadcast over WJSV at 8:30 o'clock tonight. Sponsored by the Plymouth Motor Corporation, whose Nation-wide convention held by radio last fall was an innovation in business practice, the air show will reenact the "hits of the year" in a rapid series of sketches under the title, "Pace-Setters of 1933."

The flashbacks will be presented by a cast of more than 70 actors and musicians. Radio mimics will impersonate President Roosevelt and other prominent national figures in the news reenactments, and will create comedy highlights with imitations of Gracie Allen, Ed Wynn and other radio stars. The outstanding musical hits of the year's first quarter, selected by a jury of musical authorities, will be played by a symphonic-jazz orchestra under the direction of Howard Barlow.

The Northern Dramatic Company will be heard at 7:30 o'clock over WOL, instead of 8:30 o'clock, as heretofore. The play is "Captain Josh," and it will be enacted by Ronald Dawson, Don Austin, Fritzi Fiery and others.

DEXTER FELLOWES, veteran press agent of the Ringling Brothers-Barnum & Bailey Circus, will appear with Edwin C. Hill on the "Inside Story" program over WJSV at 9:30 p. m.

During an informal conversation with the news commentator, Fellowes will reveal the interesting background of "the greatest show on earth" and will tell his own "inside story" of the event that first brought him into prominence in the circus world.

Ben Grauer, who announces "Great Moments in History," had just finished his final words on a recent program when a gray-haired actor in the cast walked over to him and said "Aren't you my child of 1921?"

Grauer looked up and recognized him as Charles Richman, one-time screen star. Grauer, as a boy movie actor, played the part of the child in a Fox film, "My Friend the Devil." Richman acted the role of father. Although it was twelve years ago, Richman had no trouble in recognizing Grauer.

Freddie Rich, conductor, composer and arranger, will introduce the world premier of his own work, "Penthouse Symphony," when he directs his 45-piece ensemble, the Columbians, in the broadcast over WJSV at 9 p. m. Originally scheduled for performance last summer by the orchestra of the New York Philharmonic-Symphony Society at the Lewisohn Stadium, the premiere was postponed because of the shortness of the season.

GEORGE HALL'S ORCHESTRA will be heard in a new schedule of late radio sessions each Friday at 12 o'clock, midnight, beginning tonight, over WJSV. He will continue his earlier broadcasts.

MONTGOMERY BEER FIRST IN 50 YEARS

36 Receive Permits for Dispensing; Charges of Profiteering.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 8706 Georgia Ave., Silver Spring, Md. Telephone Shepherd 2363.

Montgomery County yesterday entered the ranks of legal beer dispensing counties for the first time in a half century. Permits to dispense beer were issued to 36 merchants of the county, all of whom had been standing by for two weeks while their customers went into the wet areas of Washington to do their buying.

The office of Clayton K. Watkins, clerk of the circuit court at Rockville, was besieged yesterday morning by the triumphant dealers who had managed to avoid the ever-present menace of objections by residents of their neighborhoods which kept 17 merchants from qualifying yesterday. When Mr. Watkins arrived for work at 7:30 a. m., he found Frank Abbo, proprietor of the Villa Roma, an eating establishment on Rockville pike, already in line to receive his permit, which was the first "on sale" permit issued. A. Buehler, Silver Spring merchant, who in the days before prohibition operated a famous saloon behind old Chase's Theater, later known as Poli's, was the first to receive a license for off the premises sales.

The merchants reported good sales all day, although there were several complaints from Rockville residents of alleged profiteering. The Rockvillians claimed they were being charged too much for their beer by from 50 to 75 cents a case.

Takoma Park merchants have requested Capt. Joseph C. Cissel, Rockville attorney, to accept their cases in an effort to obtain a court ruling on the legality of the $1,000 permit for sale of beer, which has been imposed by the town of Takoma Park.

Capt. Cissel yesterday had not decided whether or not he would undertake the suits, preferring first to make a study of the situation.

Two Are Accused Of Housebreaking

Charges Lodged Against Pair Taken in Chase Through Bethesda.

Charges of attempted housebreaking were lodged against Frank Hudson, 485 E street southwest, and Irma Turner, 526 Addison avenue, yesterday by Montgomery County police. A third alleged member of their band, Charles Kennedy, is being held by Washington police in connection with a number of robberies.

Joseph O'Donnell, Thirtieth street and Alabama avenue southeast, and Gertrude O'Malley, 15, of Lorton, Va., also are being held in connection with the case, but no charges have been placed against them as yet.

The first three were arrested by Montgomery County police after a chase through Bethesda and along Wisconsin avenue, in the course of which Policeman Frank Soper emptied his own and Policeman Webb Hersperger's revolvers at the fleeing car. Policeman James S. McAuliffe arrested Gray and obtained a confession from the latter that he had taken $5 from the bag. Police say that Armour had greatly befriended Gray and had given him a job.

ABOUT THE SHOW SHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

IT is that high-strung Southern gentleman, Mr. Sam Galanty, who supplies this desk with a comprehensive brochure dedicated to the present and prospective enterprises of his company, Columbia Pictures, from which one learns that "Twentieth Century," the uproarious stage comedy hit by Ben Hecht and Charles MacArthur, now in its fourth month at the Broadhurst Theater, New York, has been purchased by Columbia and will be brought to the screen as one of the important offerings of its new season's program.

Further detaching himself from the chronic enthusiasms inspired by "Mussolini Speaks," opening as a special feature of the new bill at RKO-Keith's today, Mr. Galanty advises that Columbia's acquisition of screen rights to "Twentieth Century" is merely in line with that organization's avowed intention to make every one of the new season's productions a distinguished offering.

The announcement, by way of a bit of corroborative evidence, follows closely upon the signing of Frank Borzage to direct Lawrence Hazzard's "Man's Castle," the acquirement of A. J. Cronin's "Kaleidoscope in K" and the arrangement with Gilbert Miller to produce and direct for Columbia.

Which, without all of Columbia's other projects, would still be quite a program.

Charles MacArthur, coauthor with Mr. Hecht of "Twentieth Century," which is by way of being an amusing study of stage people and their temperaments aboard the fabulous Chicago-New York train of that denomination, is, of course, the husband of Washington's own star of the stage, Helen Hayes, whose "White Sister" is being continued on the screen at the Palace for a second week, beginning today.

A week ago last night, when mobbed by the ladies and gentlemen (sic) of the local dramatic desks, Miss Hayes outlined briefly her projected delivery of a scene from Barrie's "What Every Woman Knows" as a radio feature on the Fleischmann hour, with Rudy Vallee, last night. Those who listened in were once more charmed by Miss Hayes' moving assumption of the burred Scotch speech of little Maggie Wylie, who so deftly wound one John Shand about her little finger!

The role of Shand, played with Miss Hayes on the stage by Richard Bennett, distinguished father of the brilliant Constance and Joan and Barbara (Mrs. Morton Downey), was assumed briefly last evening by John Buckler.

Since it somehow popped out that "The White Sister" is being held over at the Palace, it should be known also that public response to the manifold superiorities of "Be Mine Tonight" has been so overwhelmingly favorable that that delightfully melodious importation likewise is being retained for an additional seven days at the Rialto.

Unless you've heard Tibbett, you ain't heard nothin' yet, unless you've heard Kiepura!

The following friendly letter from Mr. Roman Bohnen, of the "Best Sellers" company at the National, is explanation enough of why my face is red:

"My dear Mr. Bell: Being a young character actor not yet 30, I was naturally amused to note in your column today that Carl Bohnen, the well-known portrait painter, is my son instead of my father. Not that it matters, but he painted Frank B. Kellogg, the Hon. Pierce Butler and other long ago when they were little political polywogs, before I was born.

"The last time I played here (as the 60-year-old French roue in John Golden's 'As Husbands Go,' by Rachel Crothers), Carl Bohnen was 'my brother' and Michael Bohnen, the distinguished opera singer (a cousin), had the dubious distinction of being 'my son.'

"I must admit, however, that I am always pleased to bask in the beams of reflected glory, particularly when I can gum up the angle of refraction with my makeup box. Sincerely, (Signed) ROMAN BOHNEN."

My deepest and most humble genuflections, Mr. Bohnen. There seems to be only one course open to me, and that is to sue Mr. C. P. Greneker, general press representative of the Shuberts, whom I understood to be very anxious to assist this rising young artist, Carl Bohnen, by whatever devices I could conveniently manage!

You mention getting something "gummed up?" I am laughing!

Another communication relayed to the dramatic desk by the office of the business manager of The Post is from the New York office of the Paramount Pictures Corporation, reading in these words: "Thank you very much for your gracious permission to use the front page of The Washington Post in connection with our forthcoming production of Theodore Dreiser's novel, 'Jennie Gerhardt.'"

Which is to say that the major producers still realize the value of the National Capital's most distinguished newspaper name for use in their more representative pictures in which it is the desire to impart an immediate impression of discriminating good judgment and unimpeachable taste.

Past experience having taught them the drawing power of a combination like Joe E. Brown on the screen and Waring's Pennsylvanians on the stage, the management of the Earle Theater has arranged to open the doors to the public tomorrow at 9:45 a. m., with five de luxe performances to follow, the first presentation of the feature to begin at 10:15 o'clock.

On Sunday, four de luxe performances will be given, with the doors opening at 1:30 p. m.

What it really is that cards of invitation are out for at RKO-Keith's tonight at 9:30, where "Mussolini Speaks" is being shown, is "an international soiree in tribute to Premier Benito Mussolini." And how are all the folks?

The Baroness von Andra, formerly one of the foremost stars of Ufa in Berlin and Munich, where she appeared in many notable films, in private life Mrs. Ian Keith, accompanied her husband to Washington and is spending the period of the engagement of "Best Sellers," at the National, in the Capital. A most charming and gracious lady.

And you'll never guess what! Raymond Moore has leased the Town Hall Auditorium at Cohasset, Mass., which has the requisite facilities for the presentation of plays, and, as the South Shore Playhouse, will be operated this summer in connection with the Cape Playhouse, at Dennis, Mass.

Oh, Mr. Farley, maybe it would be better if you'd RAISE the postage rates!

The citizens' reorganization committee of the Industrial Savings Bank, Eleventh and U streets northwest, met last night at that institution and perfected plans for a city-wide mass meeting of friends and depositors of the bank interested in its reorganization and opening as a national bank. Jesse W. Lewis was named chairman of the subcommittee in charge of the proposed mass meeting, and J. E. Hall, secretary.

The mass meeting will be held next Friday night in the auditorium of the Garnet-Patterson Junior High School, if available, or in the auditorium of the Masonic Temple. The gathering last night was addressed by Dr. W. H. Jernagin, the Rev. W. E. L. Harrison, Elder Michaux, Morrissey S. Koonce, William H. Lewis, J. C. Bruce, Jesse W. Lewis and J. E. Hall. A steady increase in subscriptions of stock in the proposed national bank was reported.

Citizens Are Urged To Fight for Vote

George Sullivan Asserts Propaganda Is Used Against D. C.

"Every time a new member of Congress arrives on Capitol Hill his mind is unjustly poisoned against the fight being waged by the District of Columbia for national representation," George Sullivan, chairman of the Law and Legislation Committee of the Citizens Federation, said last night in appealing to the members of the Washingtonians to take up the fight for their rights.

As proof of his sweeping statement he referred to sections of the Congressional Record. He pointed out that incoming congressmen had been told that the District "was a 10-mile square placed here for the Government of the United States," and exhorted "to hold on to it and not let District officials get hold of it."

Following Mr. Sullivan, Representative Virginia E. Jenckes (Democrat), Indiana, in a short talk pledged her support and her vote to national representation for the District.

Representative Jennings Randolph (Democrat), West Virginia, pledged his support and predicted that the 1936 elections would see Washington with ballot boxes.

George Harris, of Harris & Ewing, gave an illustrated talk on famous men of the world. A resolution was passed by the association reaffirming its stand for approval of the Capper bill for national representation.

Heidelberg Resumes Duels

Faculty of Famous Old German University and Townspeople Turn Out for First Public Tilt Between Students in 550 Years.

Heidelberg, Germany, April 20 (A.P.).—For the first time in the 550-year history of Heidelberg University, the president of the institution, leading professors, the chief of police of Heidelberg and the state's attorney attended a student duel today.

The student duel (mensur) has been restored to favor by the Nationalist government after it had been forbidden for eight years under the republic.

Today's mensur took place on Germany's oldest fencing floor in the Hirschgasse. Alumni of the university from all parts of Germany, representatives of the Steel Helmet and Nazi storm troop organizations and even women attended.

The duel was followed by a festkommers, or beer party, in the course of which speakers praised Chancellor Hitler for recognizing the duel as an educational measure for inculcating bravery.

FELLOWS APPROVES INVITATION TO PEPCO

Believes Arlington Extension Would Result in Lower Electric Rates.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST. Tel. Clar. 309. Clarendon, Va.

Indorsement of the Public Utilities Commission's invitation to the Potomac Electric Power Co. to extend its service throughout Arlington County was given by Harry A. Fellows, chairman of the county board, last night. Chairman Fellows declared that he believed the entire board will approve the action.

"Residents of the county are today paying entirely too much for their electricity," Chairman Fellows said, "and should the invitation be excepted there is little doubt users of the service will be greatly benefited by a much lower rate than they now enjoy."

It was pointed out by Chairman Fellows that the county board is the only authority having jurisdiction over public utility companies operating in the county, except with regard to rates and that is taken care of by the State Corporation Commission.

The Potomac Electric Power Co. is already operating within the limits of the county in the sections of Rosslyn, Radnor Heights and Mackey's Hill by permission of the county board and all that would be necessary would be a request to extend its lines, Fellows declared.

Bridge's Approach Dead for This Year

Reid Says Assembly Could Solve Arlington Problem in January.

Advocates of the proposed northern approach to the Arlington Memorial Bridge having exhausted all efforts to obtain rights of way to reach the bridge, and the southern approach tied up as a result of the State Highway Commission being committed to the northern approach, it appears there will be no direct connection to the bridge this year for residents of Arlington County.

The Federal act granting a right of way over Government property for the southern route provides a three-year period. Hugh Reid of the House of Delegates from Arlington County, pointed out last night that the General Assembly meets next January and legislation could then be enacted permitting the State Highway Commission accepting the southern route.

There being every indication that nothing will be done about extending Lee boulevard to the bridge this year, County Manager Roy S. Braden says the county is now trying to get necessary rights of way for the construction of a county approach to the bridge.

The vestry of Truro Parish has extended an invitation to the members of the national convention of the Daughters of the American Revolution now in session in Washington to attend the services Sunday in the historic Pohick Episcopal Church on the Washington-Richmond highway in Fairfax County, Va., near Mount Vernon.

Many chapters of the D. A. R. throughout the United States and one in Paris, France, have contributed toward the erection of the new vestry house, which was built last year in accordance with the original plans prepared by the vestry of the parish, of which George Washington was a member, prior to the Revolutionary War. A framed chart containing the names of the chapters contributing to the vestry house fund has been placed in the reception hall.

The vestry has elected Benjamin J. Nevitt, of Ox road, as delegate and Edmund H. Allen, of Newington, as alternate, to represent Pohick Church at the meeting of the general council of the Episcopal churches of Virginia in Richmond next month.

GROVE DEFEATS NATS, 8 TO 1; FOXX HITS 2 HOMERS

This Morning with Shirley L. Povich

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., April 20.—Joe Cronin tonight nominated Alvin Crowder to face the A's tomorrow, reasoning that Crowder works best after his regulation three-day rest. Monte Weaver will face the A's in the series finale on Saturday.

The Nats got a taste of southpaw pitching before the game started today. Mayor Moore of Philadelphia hurling out the first ball with a nice left-handed general direction delivery.

Al Schacht, who couldn't crash the dignified opening game proceedings in Washington, mopped up on the attention here, leading the band around the field greeting Mayor Moore, and helping to haul up the flag in center field.

The Philadelphia flag pole is still on the gold standard, although it is suspected in some quarters that the shiny knob at the masthead which gleamed like all get-out in the warmthless sun, is a product of the house painter's art.

For a while it seemed as if the flag-raising ceremonies were going to end with Old Glory at half mast, but a squadron of groundkeepers mercifully assisted Bing Miller to haul the Stars and Stripes to the top of the pole. But the wind gave them quite a battle of it.

After the first few innings, most of the A's appeared at bat wearing nice-looking brown kid gloves to protect their hand from the cold. But I wouldn't say that they handled the Nats with kid gloves.

The Nats were dealt out their new gray visiting uniforms in the locker room early today and the boys promptly cut the tops off their stockings for use as wristlets. Just an old ball player's custom.

Buddy Myer got a fine break at bat to start the game. As if Grove wasn't enough opposition, a swirl of wind caught the dust at the plate and Buddy got two eyes full.

The wind was cutting capers all afternoon and robbed Cronin of a

Zaharias Pins Raines in 22 Minutes

Wins Over Big Texan With Body Press as 3,500 Look On.

Marshall Fells Alley; Ernie Dusek, Christy Also Crush Foes.

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON.

GEORGE ZAHARIAS, the big Greek who resigned from slinging hash in an open-all-night restaurant for the more lucrative business of throwing the beef in the wrassle profession, pinned ponderous Dick Raines, of Texas, in 22 minutes flat in the main bout last night at the Auditorium. Approximately 3,500 fans saw the show.

Raines succumbed rather suddenly to the none too gentle tactics of Gawge, who suffered the most damage in the preliminary exchange of greetings. In fact, it was just after the Zaharias chassis had been butted and thrown around rather carelessly that he seized the curly head of his antagonist and proceeded to take the decision.

Even the dogs quartered in the basement awaiting the opening of their show today sensed the turn of events and unloosed a chorus of howls and barks that rivaled only those of the guy who sits backstage and yells for his favorites, as Zaharias tossed the Texan over his shoulder again and again.

The cowboy wriggled into a more comfortable position while Referee B. Bortnick counted off the necessary three counts and the match was over.

Palooka

Says Johnson of Dempsey When Compared With Jim Corbett.

PARIS, April 20 (U.P.).—Jack Dempsey, in the opinion of Jack Johnson, was a palooka, who could never have beaten Jim Corbett, Bob Fitzsimmons or Jim Jeffries.

Moreover, the modest Negro former heavyweight champion, writes in a current Paris journal, Dempsey would have been a set-up for Jack Johnson in his prime. On one occasion in New York during an exhibition bout, Johnson asserts, he broke one of Dempsey's ribs after four rounds of fighting, and that thereafter the Manassa Mauler steered clear of him, as he did of Harry Greb.

"Dempsey's one great power," Johnson's article states, "was the most adroit of managers, Jack Kearns. As soon as they separated, Dempsey's defeat was inevitable.

"Dempsey never encountered any of the 'classic' boxers of the past. For

A. A. U. TITLE ANNEXED BY RAWLS

Girl, 15, Wins From Poynton; 1 World Record Falls.

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 20 (A.P.).—Katharine Rawls, 15-year-old swimming sensation from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., tonight defeated Miss Dorothy Poynton, of Los Angeles, defending low board champion, to win the senior National A. A. U. women's swimming title. Her point score was 109.54, as compared to Miss Poynton's 101.24.

The flashy Florida youngster, who yesterday broke the world medley 300-yard record, showed remarkable form in the five required dives and chose exceptionally difficult dives for her optional dive. Miss Poynton's form on the approach lost points for her, while she flopped badly on one of her optionals and was criticized by the judges.

Margaret Karson, of New York, placed third with 81.49 points, while Elizabeth Harrison, also of New York, placed fourth with 75.20 points. Borghild Johannesen, of Detroit, was fifth with 69.53 points.

World Record to Leonore Kight.

In a special race Miss Leonore Kight, of Homestead, Pa., smashed the world 300-yard free-style record set by Helene Madison at Seattle in 1930. Miss Kight negotiated the 300 yards in 3 minutes 38 2-5 seconds to beat the old record of 3 minutes 39 3-5 seconds.

A special invitation 50-yard free-style for visiting swimmers went to Jessie Conway, of New York. She nosed out Anna Mae Gorman, of Homestead, Pa., to win after a nip-and-tuck battle. Sue Robertson, of New York, was third.

In another special invitation race, 100-yard backstroke, Joan McSheehy, of New York, negotiated the distance in 1 minute 57 1-5 seconds to win over Lisa Lindstrom, of New York, who finished second, and Marjorie Lonton, of Toronto, third-place winner.

Miss Margaret Hoffman, of Scranton, Pa., acquired the national 100-yard breast stroke title by defeating Miss Rawls by a few strokes. Her time was 1 minute 21 2-5 seconds. It was Miss Rawls' first defeat of the meet.

Miss Hoffman, trailed both Miss Rawls and Miss Ethel Petri, of New York, for the first half of the first lap, but she put on the pressure after the first turn and from that time on maintained a brief lead over Miss Rawls. Miss Petri finished third.

Great Surrey Handicap Won by Gold Bridge

Epsom, England, April 20 (A.P.).—A. K. Macomber's Gold Bridge, at odds of 6 to 4, today won the great Surrey Handicap, a 5-furlong sprint, by a short head from J. B. Joel's Rosemary Pet.

Nine others also ran. The purse was £300.

Hubbell Hero As Giants Score

Southpaw Fans 13, Allows Four Hits as Braves Bow, 1-0.

McGraw Not on Home Bench First Opener in 30 Years.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

NEW YORK, April 20 (A.P.).—For the first time in 30 years, the New York Giants opened a National League season at home today without John McGraw in a uniform on the bench. But even baseball's portly Napoleon, watching regretfully from a window in the clubhouse, could not have asked improvement on Manager Bill Terry's direction of a brilliant 1-to-0 triumph over the Boston Braves.

Pitching as well as he ever has in years of consistent effort, Southpaw Carl Hubbell fanned thirteen of the Braves, three short of the league record, and allowed them but four scattered singles.

The Braves got a man as far as third base only once, in the third inning, when Fred Frankhouse, Hubbell's hurling rival, and the only fellow to hit him safely twice, opened with a dribbling single to third base and got around to the far corner as Rabbit Maranville walked and Bill Urbanski grounded out. Hubbel then fanned Baxter Jordan and Wes Schulmerich to end the threat.

Hubbell Fans Side In Ninth.

To polish off a brilliant job in the ninth, the slender southpaw turned loose his screw ball to the utmost and got Schulmerich, Berger and Shanty Hogan on strikes without the three of them hitting so much as a loud foul.

Frankhouse was touched for eight hits, but only once were they grouped. George Davis, former Philly, opened the sixth with a triple Berger tried to catch off his shoe tops in left and scored on Hughie Critz's single.

McGraw, now vice president of the Giants, joined the march to the flag pole led by Mayor John P. O'Brien as the parade passed the clubhouse in center field. He helped with the flag raising ceremonies, tramped back to the dugout as a crowd of 15,000 cheered him every inch of the way, wished the team luck and then slipped into the stands and back to the clubhouse, to watch from a window the first Giants' opening game under another's management since his first full season with the club in 1902.

McGraw stepped out suddenly as manager of the Giants last June.

One-Year Suspension Sought for Jeby, Jones

Cleveland, April 20 (A.P.).—The Cleveland Boxing and Wrestling Commission today requested and "urgently recommended" to the Ohio Boxing Association that Gorilla Jones, of Akron, and Ben Jeby, of New York, and their managers be suspended from the National Boxing Association "for a period of at least one year" as the result of the scrappers' "no-contest" bout here last night.

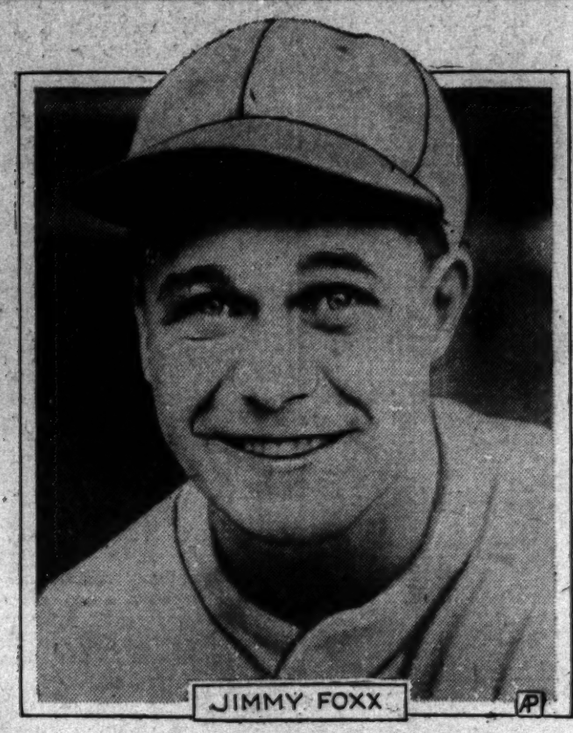
Jeby and Jones were scheduled for a 12-round, nontitle bout, but were stopped at the end of six rounds by Referee Freddy Block at the order of the boxing commissioners, who said both boxers "were stalling."

Yanks Lose Exhibition To Jersey City by 4 to 2

Jersey City, N. J., April 20 (A.P.).—The New York Yankees, taking a day off from leading the American League, today called on the Jersey City Team of the International circuit and lost an exhibition game, 4 to 2.

The Yankees played with a make-shift line-up, which included Babe Ruth at first and Lou Gehrig in right field.

Defensive and Offensive Heroes for Macks



The Old Guard of the Athletics is doing very well, thank you. Lefty Grove's speed and curves set the Nats down with four hits yesterday—one a homer by Luke Sewell, which allowed Washington to escape a shutout. Jimmy Foxx began what he hopes to be the barrage that will beat Ruth's record this season by slamming a pair of homers. In addition, Foxx hit a single, walked and drove in five runs.

CHISOX BEAT BROWNS BY 5 TO 4

Fonseca's Hit in 9th Decides; Simmons Stars Afield.

CHICAGO, April 20 (A.P.).—Manager Lew Fonseca's single in the ninth inning with two out and Mule Haas on second base gave the Chicago White Sox a 5-to-4 victory over the St. Louis Browns in the second game of their series today.

The two teams went into the ninth inning deadlocked after the Sox had scored four runs to take the lead in the sixth and the Browns had tied it up in the seventh.

After Lloyd Brown, who went into the game in the seventh, retired the first two Chicagoans to face him in the ninth, Haas doubled to left and the manager did the rest.

Al Simmons furnished the fielding high light of the game when he completed a double play unassisted in the ninth inning. Simmons raced in fast for Ferrell's short liner and continued on to second to double Melillo off the bag.

Cy Moore Is Badly Hurt When Hit by Line Drive

New York, April 20 (A.P.).—Cy Moore, pitcher for the Philadelphia Nationals, today suffered a fractured nose and had several teeth knocked out when he was struck by a line drive off the bat of his teammate, Phil Collins, during practice preceding the Phillies-Brooklyn game. He was taken to the Swedish Hospital.

Collins, also a pitcher, was batting grounders to the Phillies infield as Moore, who had been playing in the field, started for the Philadelphia bench. The line drive, intended for Jackie Warner, Philadelphia third baseman, struck Moore full in the face.

Cubs Beat Cards As Dean Weakens

St. Louis, April 20 (A.P.).—Pat Malone had the better of Dizzy Dean in a pitching duel and the Chicago Cubs defeated the St. Louis Cardinals in the opening game of the National League season here today, 3 to 1.

Each allowed six hits, but Dean also allowed two bases on balls, one of which figured in the scoring of two runs by the Cubs in the sixth. Dean held the visitors hitless in the first four innings.

Nats Make But Four Hits Before 5,000; Sewell Homers.

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH
(Sports Editor of The Post).

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., April 20.—The Athletics went on the Grove-Foxx standard this afternoon and a distinct upturn in Shibe Park preferred was noted here.

Mister Grove clamped an embargo on Washington runs and Mister Foxx put into effect a radical expansion of Philadelphia base hits, and when the sock market had closed, the Nats had been deflated, 8 to 1.

Mister Grove relaxed his southpaw embargo to the extent of only four Washington hits during the afternoon and Mister Foxx, under his new emergency hitting act, inflated two of his hits to home-run proportions.

The expansion of his first hit occurred in the first inning with two men aboard the bases and was truly an emergency wallop, but with no good reason to adhere to his rigid policy of inflation in the sixth with the ball game already won, Mister Foxx was no less intent on his ideas and expanded another of Walter Stewart's pitches over the roof into Somerset street.

Is Lefty Grove's Second Win.

Wind-blown Bob Grove thus won his second game of the season, the Athletics' second victory of the season and Walter Stewart's second defeat of the season, with only 5,000 hardy souls braving the Greenland blasts to sit in on the A's inaugural home-coming at Shibeshire.

Grove issued three walks, all in the same inning, but the Nats didn't score. He passed Sewell and Stewart in succession, and after Myer laid down a sacrifice bunt, he filled the

TIGERS LOSE 3-1 DUEL TO INDIANS

Clint Brown Beaten Before Cleveland Crowd of 25,000.

CLEVELAND, April 20 (A.P.).—Clint Brown and Vic Sorrell hooked up in a pitching duel today, but the Tiger defense cracked at important moments to give Cleveland a 3-to-1 victory over Detroit.

The game was the local American League opener, and despite the cool and cloudy weather, a record first-day crowd of 25,000 visited the Municipal Stadium. The old record of 23,797 was set in League Park.

Brown blanked the Tigers until the ninth, when Averill misjudged Gehringer's fly, allowing it to fall for a triple and scoring Pinch Hitter Walker.

Phillies Rout Dodgers, 10 to 2, Before 22,000

Brooklyn, April 20 (A.P.).—The Phillies ruined Brooklyn's "official" home opening today by hammering out a 10-to-2 victory in a loosely played game before 22,000 chilled fans.

Jim Elliott and Frank Pearce held the flock to four singles, but handed out nine walks. The Phils found a couple of "cousins" in Watson Clark and Ray Benge, pounding them for nine hits and seven runs in the first four innings. Elliott's wildness caused his removal after he had batted in three runs with a single and a double.

ACAUTAW, PAYING $27, SURPRISES AT HAVRE DE GRACE

Sixth Winner Of Meet for Trueman

Only 3-Year-Old in Race Leads From Barrier Rise.

Utopian, at $52, Up to Beat Good Field in 4th by Length.

By WALTER HAIGHT
(Post Staff Correspondent).

HAVRE DE GRACE RACE TRACK, April 20.—Trainer Elmer Trueman, of Washington, sent his sixth winner of the meeting to the post today and extended the Trueman influence into the feature race when Acautaw won the Jack High Handicap over the six-furlong sprint course. Incidentally, Acautaw left the maiden ranks in the first race at Bowie a year ago in the mud and was the first winner that Bill Bennings recorded in his At the Post column.

The son of Trojan found the same kind of a race track today and numbered among his victims none other than A. Schuttinger's crack sprinter, Pilate, which finished a dull fourth. Acautaw had a length advantage at the finish over Curacao which, in turn, was a length and a half ahead of Rehoboth.

The race was run in 1:15 over a track gluey with mud. Acautaw paid better than 12 to 1.

Three-Year-Old Never Headed.

The colt was the only 3-year-old in the field and was never headed. Bobby Jones had the mount and seemed to have plenty of horse under him. The combination pulled away from the pace-setting aspirations of Kakapo and then warded off the closing rushes of Curacao and Rehoboth.

A cold breeze and a cloudy sky followed the rain and kept the crowd down to Marlboro proportions. Overcoats chased the topcoats back into the moth balls and the beer business hit a new Maryland low.

Utopian, from the Wheatley Stable and with Hank Mills up, won a hollow victory in the day's secondary feature, a mile and 70 yards test, which drew five Derby and Preakness candidates. Inlander, the Brookmeade Stables' colt, reared at the break and banked the clubhouse turn some 15 lengths behind Blessed Event, which was then setting the pace. Inlander made up everything but the one length that gave Utopian victory. Third came Sarada, the 60-cents-on-the-dollar favorite. Hanford did not appear to be pressing the prominent Derby candidate, however.

Bittybit Easily Takes Opener.

Bittybit, from the E. R. Bradley forces, bounced out of the maiden ranks in the opener, which drew an even dozen for the 4½-furlong test. Mixed Party, medium of some heavy last-minute wagering, was second, ahead of Moira's Chief. It was the latter that contested Bittybit for the lead entering the stretch. Mixed Party, which had a rough journey, made a lightning move rounding the turn and went to the inside. Finished fast, but the veteran, Jimmy Smith, was coasting with Bittybit at the end. The winner paid a $9.40 mutuel.

Every day in every way the Coe-Pompey-Bejshak combination makes good. Today it was Pomposo which scored the daily victory for Trainer Stotler and made his fifth straight stake candidate with which he has won since the meeting opened.

Pomposo, which eased home, is eligible for the Preakness. Second money went to Standout, while Prince Abbot accounted for the show award. There was little to the race except the son of Pompey. Bejshak had only to sit tight and guide. The pay off was at 2 to 1.

Jockey Coucci gave one of the best rides to Bun D., the property of Mrs. I. F. Carman, and the North Star III filly was up in the last strides to gain a neck decision over Soeur Blanche. Five lengths behind came Just Fun to take the show. Golden Fate, backed into favoritism, took the early lead, drew away on the backstretch and then folded. Soeur Blanche then went to the front and, a sixteenth from the finish, appeared to have the race locked up. And then came Coucci's winning ride up on the outside. The winner was neglected in the wagering and paid a $37.60 mutuel.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BITTYBIT, $9.40, $3.80, $3.00; MIXED PARTY, $4.60, $4.00; MOIRAS CHIEF, $16.40.

BITTYBIT moved clear when leaving the back stretch, saved ground wherever possible and was taken in hand during the final sixteenth mile. MIXED PARTY, outrun early, secured racing room on the inside and closed determinedly. MOIRAS CHIEF, taken to the outside when clear, came with a belated rush during the final drive. RAGTOWN BELLE, hard hustled the entire trip, weakened fast after moving up strongly at the stretch turn. WHITE MAN raced wide for the entire journey. DAVOO broke slowly and was never a factor. EVA S. stopped. LIBERTY OAK and IPSE DIXIT raced greenly.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—POMPOSO, $6.00, $3.80, $2.80; STANDOUT, $8.00, $3.00; PRINCE ABBOT, $3.60.

POMPOSO, taken into a brief early lead and rated under steadying restraint until leaving the back stretch, opened up a safe lead thereafter and finished with speed in reserve. STANDOUT, kept close to the leaders from the start, made early efforts, but tired steadily in the final stages. PRINCE ABBOT worked his way up on the outside and closed with good energy. AXENTEA was unable to improve her position and weakened during the final drive. SINHAVEN was outrun. DARK CONQUEST stopped after six furlongs.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BUN D., $37.80, $15.60, $7.60; SOEUR BLANCHE, $13.20, $7.80; JUST FUN, $4.60.

BUN D. moved up steadily when reaching the back stretch, came to the outside for the final drive and wore SOEUR BLANCHE down to get up in the last 20 yards. SOEUR BLANCHE, rated under mild restraint early, was rushed hard to get through on the inside of GOLDEN FATE, drew clear but had too much taken out of her and she faltered approaching the finish. JUST FUN worked his way up gradually, but tired when the real test came. GOLDEN FATE disposed of BROWN TORCH when ready but weakened badly. DUNAIR was outrun.

FOURTH RACE—One mile and 70 yards. Purse, $800; allowances. The Combat. For 3-year-olds. Start good from gate for all but Inlander. Won, driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:10. Off at 4:13½. Winner, Wheatley Stable's dk. b. c., by St. Germans—Nixie. Trained by O. Tappen. Value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:24 3-5, 0:51, 1:17 3-5, 1:45, 1:50 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—UTOPIAN, $52.00, $16.20, $4.40; INLANDER, $4.40, $2.60; SARADA, $2.40.

UTOPIAN, reserved off the early pace, gained stoutly when shaken up, slipped through on the inside midway of the final turn and moving clear entering the home stretch had enough in reserve to stall off INLANDER. Latter, practically left when he reared into the air at the break, trailed far back for six furlongs and then finished strong to close an immense gap. SARADA went along smoothly from the start, but failed to respond when urged. BANNACH LATH raced evenly and appears ready. BLESSED EVENT and WAR STRIPES raced each other into defeat making the pace.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,000. The Jack High Handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gate. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:45. Off at 4:48. Winner, Mrs. E. Trueman's b. c. (3), by Trojan—The Squaw. Trained by E. Trueman. Value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:23 3-5, 0:49, 1:15.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—ACAUTAW, $27.20, $8.80, $4.40; CURACAO, $5.00, $3.40; REHOBOTH, $5.80.

ACAUTAW sprinted into an easy lead at once, and holding on willingly when shaken up had enough left to stall off CURACAO. Latter, in tight quarters when approaching the home stretch, finished gamely and was worked out an additional furlong. REHOBOTH saved ground and closed fast in the final three furlongs. PILATE showed a brief flash of speed when midway of the turn. KAKAPO had speed for the first half mile and was not persevered with thereafter.

SIXTH RACE—One mile and 70 yards. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good from gate. Won handily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:20. Off at 5:21½. Winner, H. C. Jones' ch. g., by Transmute—Circus Girl. Trained by W. Bost. Value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:25, 0:51 2-5, 1:18, 1:46 2-5, 1:52.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—REVONAH, $11.80, $5.00, $3.20; KEGGY, $6.40, $3.40; MANYA, $3.20.

REVONAH beat the barrier and taken under steadying restraint early, shook off MANYA, and opening up a safe lead held KEGGY safe under mild urging. Latter, weakly handled and allowed to drop out of contention early, moved up on the inside rounding the far turn and closed gamely during the stretch run. MANYA, rated forward, weakened in the final half mile. POLAR BRUSH made a mild challenge approaching the home stretch, but flattened out under punishment. The others were never dangerous.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $800; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from gate. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:50. Off at 5:54½. Winner, J. W. V. Martin's b. or br. c. (4), by Wrack—Tidulete. Trained by A. Hutchins. Value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:25, 0:51 2-5, 1:18 2-5, 1:46 2-5, 1:53 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—WORTHINGTON, $4.20, $2.60, $2.20; LUCKY RACKET, $3.00, $2.40; CATERER, $5.40.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: HAVRE DE GRACE, APRIL 20.

Looks like it might be against the rules for the boy to have more than two winners. Pomposo and Worthington did the trick for me today and the prices were nothing to brag about. I would have traded them both if I could have put Soeur Blanche over for you. This filly did everything I expected in running Golden Fate into the ground, but Coucci on Bun D. outrode Tipton in the last quarter and we had to be satisfied with that $13.20 to place. Tomorrow looks like price day to me and I've picked them accordingly. No likee, no playee.

BILL.

FIRST RACE—TO ARMS, one that Preston Burch conditioned at Benning, is well bred and will like the going. Might do worse than take this one across the board. Max Smart may have another good one in IDLE ALONG. TAUNTON, a long-legged juvenile, looked good to me the other day and may win if the course dries out quickly.

SECOND RACE—BRIGHT BIRD may be better after that tightener the other day. Can beat these with his best race. I have reason to believe that it will be a different story tomorrow. BRAVE AND BOLD appears to be the one to beat. Handled this kind last year. FAIR JACK for the show.

THIRD RACE—BALLY BAY has none too much courage but is a speedy sort that may steal a lead on this field and stagger home in the slow going. Gets a shift in the weights that may make the difference. No standout, but worth a chance bet. INTEGRITY and VISHNU for the rest.

FOURTH RACE—ENACTMENT was at home in the mud last year and is reported conditioned for a race of this sort. VOLETTE is being talked by the clockers and will be ready if the top one makes mistakes. SPEED BOAT is a possible longshot.

FIFTH RACE—TREMENDOUS gets the soft track tomorrow and may give the boys a jolt. Not a stake horse, but a fair filly who will do her best. BOSCOBEL and GRAND ACRE should complete the money picture.

SIXTH RACE—FLYING MAX ran a fair race for me the other day and off that effort I'm stringing along. GARLIC failed to run here last time but will be battling today, I understand. MERIDAN QUEEN to show.

SEVENTH RACE—Providing KNEE HIGH is not allowed to drop out of it as was the case the other day, they will be drawing a ring around the name of the Blondin filly. Worth tabbing. McGONIGLE and BUB McFARLAND for the rest.

Derby Trials Few Due to Conditions

Mud Keeps Hopefuls in Stables; Projectile Works Out.

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., April 20 (U.P.).—Four candidates for the $50,000 added Kentucky Derby were given workouts for the mile and a quarter classic on May 6 over a sloppy track here this morning.

Adolphe Pons' Projectile did a handy mile in 1:30, apparently favoring the going. Glen Riddle Farm's War Glory, showing a dislike for the soft footing, turned in a similar work, and G. H. Bostwick's Garden Message took one second more for his trial. Paul Codd's Daudat, the other Derby eligible to work, went 5 furlongs in 1:08 3-5, handily.

Captain Red Seen Certain Starter.

Lexington, Ky., April 20 (U.P.).—Adverse track conditions held training activities down to minimum at the Kentucky Association course today. Only two Derby candidates ventured out over the heavy track for short trials.

J. N. Camden's Ben Minturn breezed a half a mile in 0:57 2-5 while the Devreaux Brothers' Axtel went a handy 6 furlongs in 1:20 2-5.

Cal Milan's Captain Red, is a certain starter in the May 6 classic, according to his owner. The big chestnut colt will be sent out in competition in an overnight race tomorrow against older horses, and regardless of the outcome, will be sent to the post in the derby. No jockey has been engaged to ride Captain Red as yet, but the services of Johnny Westrope have been tentatively arranged for, Milan said.

Fair Rochester Works Smoothly.

Louisville, Ky., April 20 (U.P.).—Fair Rochester, the bay son of For Fair—Lady Rochester, which Lon Jones is pointing for the Kentucky Derby, was the only candidate for that rich stake to exercise over a drying out track today. Stepping along smoothly, he rattled off a mile in 1:43 3-5, pulling up breathing easily.

Mann Outbid Pittsburgh Promoter

Both Sought Sarron-Paul Match; Middleweights Booked.

FRANKIE MANN, Portner's Arena matchmaker, today had a victory to his credit over Lew Raymond, outstanding Pittsburgh promoter.

Talking about beating a fighter to the punch, the rotund Portner's matchmaker last night learned that he had outbid the Smoky City promoter for the Tommy Paul-Pete Sarron match, which will claim the spotlight at the Alexandria arena next Tuesday night.

It seems as though Raymond wanted Paul and Sarron on the same night, considering it a "natural," but Mann had sensed the importance attached to the fight, and put in the first crack and best offer.

The presence of the two ranking featherweights promises to lure a crowd to the popular place of punch. Former National Boxing Association champion, Paul is said to throw his punches in much the same fashion as his contemporary, Sarron, and a red hot battle is in prospect.

Three six-rounders and a four will support the feature match. Billy Schwartz, the Alexandria Baker Boy, who came out of retirement a few months ago to score a sensational one-round knockout, will be pitted against Walter Kirkwood, the hard rock from Portsmouth, Va.

Billy Strickler, the rugged "Terminal Bulldog," will clash with Sam Finazzo, Baltimore middleweight, while his brother, Joe, will meet Ken Overlin, Norfolk middleweight.

In the four-rounder, Cary Wright, unbeaten in 13 fights, will be matched with some tough opponent.

Both Schwartz and Strickler are anxious to get a poke at Henry Irving. Indications are that Schwartz will face Strickler if both win Tuesday night. Overlin, a sharpshooter, is remembered for his victory over Joe Smallwood, and is well liked here. Strickler's last two fights have resulted in knockouts.

Catholic U. Golfers Meet Boston Today

Catholic University's enterprising golf team will go to the Columbia country Club today for a match with Boston College's knights of the fairway, starting at 10 o'clock. It is the Cardinal club-wielders' first match of the season.

The Brookland Team will be comprised of Capt. Johnny Jankowski, Frank Parks, Johnny Baer and Frank Weller. Parks is a former St. John's player and made a commendable record in scholastic circles. He is the only local player on the team. Boston College is sending a reputedly strong team.

ROCK CREEK OPEN TOURNEY GOLF FINALS LISTED TODAY

Connelly and Bennie Play For Title

Former Beats Malloy, 2 and 1; York Bows by Same Score.

Close Matches Mark Semifinals Played in Rainstorm.

By DAVE HERMAN.

JOHN CONNELLY and Ralph Bennie, a couple of good mud horses, waded through their semifinal matches yesterday victoriously and will match strokes this afternoon at 1 o'clock to decide who will wear the crown emblematic of the Rock Creek open championship.

Connelly swept into the finals by eliminating the strawberry blond, George Malloy, 2 and 1, while Bennie blasted H. C. York out of the picture by the identical count.

Connelly, 19, a student at Roosevelt High, turned in a stellar performance in defeating Malloy, District public links champion. The abbreviated school boy carved out a 37 on each 9, while Malloy also did himself proud with his 78. The match was waged in the proverbial ding-dong fashion, being even at the turn, 1 up in favor of Connelly by virtue of his winning the fifteenth, and ending on the short seventeenth green where Jawn canned a 10-footer for a birdie 2.

Play for Medal Today.

Although failing to survive the semifinals, Malloy gains consolation in the knowledge that this afternoon about the same time Connelly tees off he will battle H. H. Seay for the medal prize. They tied at 74, each, in the qualifying round Tuesday.

The husky Bennie, whose prowess on the basketball court, is well known to the dyed-in-the-wool court fans, had a battle on his hands before erasing Seay as a championship contender. Two up going to the tenth, the District athlete had his adversary dormie 2 at the sixteenth, which he lost, but played for his par on the seventeenth to win the hole and settle the issue. Bennie aggregated an 80 for the round.

The two finalists' difference in weight and height is the difference between a good mashie shot and a drive. Bennie must be 60 pounds heavier and a foot taller. But in golf, it's the chap with the best bag of shots that wins. Connelly is longer off the tee than Bennie, but the latter is dead with his irons and putting.

Several semifinal matches in other flights postponed yesterday will be played off this morning at 8:30, with finals in all five divisions to take place between 1 and 1:30.

Here are the results:

FIRST FLIGHT.

John Connelly beat George Malloy, 2 and 1; Ralph Bennie beat H. C. York, 2 and 1.

SECOND FLIGHT.

H. Allan beat Volney Burnett, 3 and 2; C. A. Runswick beat O. W. Keene, 2 and 1.

THIRD FLIGHT.

A. P. Hare beat A. C. Wimsatt, 6 and 5; R. Milbourne-C. V. Dean semifinals this morning.

FOURTH FLIGHT.

C. Vernon beat J. O. Hanson, 4 and 3; E. J. Enright-C. Kessler match this morning.

FIFTH FLIGHT.

F. Phillips won by default; L. Beyers-G. Sutton match this morning.

Special to The Washington Post.

Morgantown, W. Va., April 20.—The West Virginia University Baseball Team will play the Fairmont State Teachers College nine here at 4 p. m. tomorrow, opening the Mountaineers' spring sports schedule. A second game between the same teams will be played Saturday afternoon.

Classes in the university convened today after a week's recess for Easter, but a waterlogged diamond kept the baseball squad indoors. Many of the players returned Monday in order to get some extra practice before the season opens, but rain and wet grounds spoiled most of the fun.

PEOPLES DRUG STORES QUINTET defeated the Reed Drug Co. pinmen, of Baltimore, by a score of 2,723 to 2,642 in the first block of their ten-game match last night at Convention Hall. McGee, anchor man for the home team, led the pin-spilling with a 569 set, while Glessner was high for the visitors with 600.

McGee and Glessner also tied for high-game honors of the match, with scores of 143. The final block will be rolled next week at Baltimore.

Mount Rainier, Md., Park to Clash in Feature.

COMPETITION in the Prince Georges County championship baseball series will be resumed this afternoon, with Mount Rainier High and Maryland Park High clashing at Maryland Park and Baden Agricultural High engaging Upper Marlboro High at Upper Marlboro. Both contests are scheduled to start at 3 o'clock.

Mt. Rainier, Md., Park Game Attracts.

High interest is being shown in the Mount Rainier-Maryland Park clash. These nines, together with Hyattsville, are regarded as the class of the county teams. The Parkers won the championship last season, while the Mounts were runners-up.

Only one game has been played in the upper section of the county, Hyattsville having downed Maryland Park two weeks ago. Rain has forced several postponements.

Foster Mathias has been nominated by Coach Perry Wilkinson to take the mound for Mount Rainier against the Parkers this afternoon. His brother, Bob, will do the receiving. For Maryland Park, Coach Robert Wilson has selected Nick Palmer to hurle, while Birckhead will catch.

Vic Williams' Trophies Returned by Kind Thief

Los Angeles, April 20 (A.P.).—Vic Williams is rejoicing over the repentance of a thief.

Williams, former Trojan athlete, who had held world records and the national championship in the 440-yard dash, recently found more than 50 trophies and medals had been stolen from his "treasure room."

Last night he answered the phone and a voice said:

"I'm the guy that stole your stuff. I'm sorry I did it. I didn't know it would mean so much. You'll find your things in a barley lot near Twelfth and DeSoto."

All the stolen trophies were there, the only loot the thief retained being a pair of baseball socks and five African cigarettes, souvenirs of Williams' tour of Africa with other American athletes.

The Chinn farm includes approximately 275 acres. The price was not made public. Beard said Whitney planned a number of improvements.

RAINES BOWS TO GREEK IN MAIN BOUT

3,500 See Zaharias Pin Foe After 22 Minutes.

The official score card said a body press caused the damage to Raines' reputation.

Just before the main bout went on, Jimmy Lake introduced Joseph C. O'Hare, who had a huge sheep dog on leash, and there was some confusion for a time, the good customers suspecting it to be a wrestler in disguise.

Everett Marshall caught Tom Alley with a punch, officially described as a "double straight-arm," that knocked the lad from down under down and out after 24½ minutes of the semifinal match. Alley appeared to be too clever for the Californian and was far ahead when he encountered Marshall's modified right to the jaw.

Alley wriggled free from numerous holds his youthful rival secured on him and went ahead on points with a little trick of sticking his thumbs into Marshall's ribs when Bortnick was not looking. Marshall had been bounced around the ring like a rubber ball when Alley went to apply the finishing touches to the picture, only to be flattened.

Rudy Dusek and Hans Steinke slapped and cuffed one another about for 30 minutes in a preliminary. Just before that Ernie Dusek pinned Jim Henry with a crotch hold and body slams in 9 minutes, and Vic Christy applied the same methods to Marshall Blackstock in winning a 14-minute victory.

Coffey, of Iowa, Victor In North-South Shoot

Pinehurst, N. C., April 20 (A.P.).—R. C. Coffey, of Prairie City, Iowa, vice president of the Amateur Trap Shooting Association of America, won the North and South doubles target charpionship today after a shoot-off with C. T. Jackson, of Stormville, N. Y.

Coffey and Jackson each broke 81 birds of 100 in the regular event. In the 20-bird shoot-off, Coffey broke 18 to Jackson's 16.

Coffey also finished in a triple tie at 94 for first in the consolation, 100 targets at 16 yards, the final event of the tourney, but having won the doubles title, was ineligible for a prize. As a result, S. R. Earle, of Starr, S. C., was awarded the class A trophy, and Carl Achtenhagen, of Charleston, W. Va., was given the class B award.

May 30 Set as Date For Harlem Regatta

New York, April 20 (A.P.).—The New York Rowing Association will hold its annual spring regatta on the Harlem on Memorial Day, May 30, as usual this year and hopes to make it a bigger event than ever.

In ratifying the date last night, members of the regatta committee said they hope to draw a large entry of oarsmen who will compete in the American Henley at Philadelphia, May 27. Oarsmen from other cities who row at Philadelphia will be invited to enter the New York events and the program has been made elastic to permit adjustment to suit the entries.

Ad Schacht, Trainer, Signed by White Sox

Chicago, April 20 (A.P.).—The physical well being of the Chicago White Sox hereafter will be entrusted to Ad Schacht, former trainer for the Seattle club of the Pacific Coast League. The new trainer was signed today. Schacht is noted for his ability to keep pitchers' arms in trim.

William Buckner, veteran Negro trainer, who has massaged aching muscles of generations of White Sox, will be retired.

Bad Weather Hampers Oarsmen

M. I. T. Coach Makes Notable Shift for Navy Tomorrow.

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 20.—Rough weather again hampered oarsmen of Massachusetts Institute of Technology and the Naval Academy in preparation for the four-race regatta on the Severn River Saturday afternoon, brushes between eights of jayvee, freshmen, junior varsity and varsity, to be rowed in the order named.

A northeast rain and windstorm that had raged for 48 hours continued unabated until this afternoon and when the precipitation ceased the winds continued so strong that it was out of the question for the rival crews to venture into the river proper because of the heavy and choppy sea. So activities were confined to the short stretch of College Creek with three bridges as additional interference. The water there also was quite rough and the several crews devoted their time chiefly to practicing racing starts. Conditions have been a keen disappointment especially to Bill Haines, coach of the visiting oarsmen, as his charges had been prevented from engaging in much outdoor work before coming here because of stormy conditions up North.

Whitmore to Set Varsity Pace.

Coach Haines made one notable shift among his pupils. He has been so impressed with the work of Whitmore, No. 4 oar in the jayvee boat, that he has given him the call to set the pace for the varsity group, and Cook will occupy the No. 4 seat. Bixby shifted to that position in the jayvees.

Coach Buck Walsh has not found it necessary to make any changes in his crews compared to the way they rowed against Pennsylvania last Saturday. He was advised today, however, that Tom Baldwin, former bow oar of the varsity, has overcome scholastic difficulties and again is available for service, and it is not unlikely he will be returned to his former position.

Nine Will Meet Virginia.

The Navy baseball team will leave for Charlottesville tomorrow to meet University of Virginia on Saturday in the only game to be played away from home. Athletes of the Washington area will furnish the opposition to the Middies in most of the other local contests Saturday.

Aside from the crew races, the outstanding events will be lacrosse and field and track with old rivals of the University of Maryland and the varsity tennis team will meet Davidson College of North Carolina. The Navy Plebes will meet Eastern High School of Washington, on the diamond, and Episcopal High School, of Alexandria, at tennis.

Walsh and Wood To Judge Boxing

Events Tomorrow Night at Central "Y" to Hold Much Interest.

Senator David I. Walsh, of Massachusetts, will be one of the judges at the boxing meet and exhibition to be staged by the Y. M. C. A. and the Squared Circle Club of George Washington University tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at the Central "Y."

Waddy Wood, prominent architect, will be the other judge. The referees are James A. Sullivan and Jimmy Linee.

The matches will be run off under intercollegiate rules. Coaching the "Y" athletes is Bill Stanley, son of a former Kentucky congressman.

One of the feature bouts listed is the 135-pound clash between Frank Taylor, member of the 1924 Olympic boxing team, and Doc Blue, former University of Florida athlete. Another match of interest is the 175-pound scrap between Zuzu Stewart, Colonial football star, and Curtis Varha, of the "Y." Stewart will essay the role of "iron man," since he will engage in another fight that night.

George Washington yesterday announced the line-up for five classes as follows:

Bantamweights—A. Johnson vs. Joe Friedman; lightweights—Allen Stewart vs. Bill Donaldson; middleweights—Hal Temin vs. Frank W. Hornibrook; light heavyweights—Zuzu Stewart vs. Gus Bashein; heavyweights—Gilbert Cann vs. Walter Slaird.

G. W. Golfers Meet Temple's Team Today

George Washington University's golfers will open their campaign today in Philadelphia, meeting the divot diggers of Temple University. Capt. Bill Coleman, Jim Sutter, Craig McKee and Earl Kniebly will form the Colonial team.

Rain yesterday forced cancellation of the George Washington-Lafayette tennis match, the first home match scheduled for the Colonial racqueters.

SMITH VS. INDRISANO.

Boston, April 20 (U.P.).—Boston Garden has signed Jimmy Smith, Philadelphia middleweight, to meet Johnny Indrisano, of Boston, in a feature ten-round bout there May 5, it was announced tonight.

Both men have recent victories over Lou Brouillard, former world champion.

G. U. Nine Off Today for North

Will Meet Temple in First of Series of Four Games.

A SQUAD of 14 Georgetown University baseball players hop aboard the choo choo this morning, headed for Philadelphia and the first of three games that will detain them in Northern territory over the week-end. Coach Clayton Sheedy will be in charge of the team.

Temple University will be host to the Blue and Gray diamonders this afternoon in the Quaker City. Immediately after the fray Georgetown departs for New York, where it is scheduled to play New York University tomorrow and St. John's, of Brooklyn, Sunday. A return game with Temple is to be played in Washington Monday.

Lindquist Due To Hurl.

If Sheedy abides by plans he formulated last night, Lefty Lindquist will toe the slab against the Owls today. Bill Carpenter, considered the steadiest hurler on the team, is slated to twirl against the Violet tomorrow and George Neslie will serve them up in the St. John's game.

Carpenter lost only two games last season, bowing to the potent attacks of Navy and Holy Cross. Lindquist, after getting off to a slow start, finished the season in good style and is expected to improve this year. Neslie pitched the Freshmen team to a winning campaign last season.

The remainder of the team will be as follows: Hutchinson, second base; Carolan, first base; Saverini, catcher; Viskovitch, right field; Hargaden, shortstop; Capt. Bill Rapp, third base; O'Rourke, left field; Mitchell, centerfield.

FEDERAL CHESS TOURNEY.

Pairings for the fourth round of the Federal Chess Tourney, which will start Monday at the Federal Clubhouse, 1515 Sixteenth street northwest, follow:

Advanced class—H. M. Tate vs. E. M. Knapp; James Byler vs. Bye. Intermediate class—J. Roberts vs. D. S. Burch, A. E. McClure vs. Hopkins, H. G. Ferguson vs. bye.

Hall and Sutter Advance As Davis Cup Chiefs Watch

Both Take 3-Set Matches From Wood and Bell; Tom Mangan Loses in Doubles in North-South Tournament.

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., April 20 (A.P.).—J. Gilbert Hall, of South Orange, N. J., and Clifford Sutter, of New Orleans, advanced to the semifinal round of the men's singles division of the thirteenth annual Mason and Dixon tennis tournament today. The other semifinalists, Frank Shields, of New York, and Gregory Mangin, of Newark, N. J., reached the round before the finals yesterday.

Hall had few uneasy moments as he swept aside blond Sidney Wood, of New York, 6—1, 0—6, 6—3, but Sutter, winner of the North and South title at Pinehurst last week, had to wage a two-hour battle to overcome the fighting Texan, Berkeley Bell, and win by scores of 2—6, 6—3, 12—11.

The semifinals of women's singles were the first contests of the day, with Mrs. John Van Ryn and Baroness Maud Levi advancing to the final brackets. Mrs. Van Ryn defeated Mrs. Philip B. Hawk, 6—1, 6—1, and the baroness won from Florence Leboutillier, 6—1, 7—5.

Frank Shields and Lester Stoefen, one of the seeded doubles teams, advanced to the third round of that play with a 6—2, 6—0 victory over Craig Biddle and Richard O. Covington.

Messrs. Prentice, Davis and Dixon, of the Davis Cup committee, were here to watch the play of George M. Lott, jr., John Van Ryn and Cliff Sutter, recently named with Wilmer Allison as the Davis Cup Team to meet Mexico in a first-round match. The three will leave for Mexico City Monday, to be joined by Allison, who is not competing here, en route. Allison will captain the team.

J. Gilbert Hall, of Orange, N. J., defeated Sidney B. Wood, jr., former Wimbledon champion, 6—1, 0—6, 6—3, in a quarter final match. This is Wood's first tournament of the year and he was obviously off his best form.

Lott and Van Ryn, nominated as the Davis Cup doubles team, easily defeated Elmer Griffin and Tom Mangan, of Washington, in a second-round contest in doubles, 6—2, 6—2.

Women Again Delay Memorial Tournament

A second postponement of the annual Phyllys Keeler Miller Memorial championships scheduled for today at Washington Golf and Country Club was announced last night by Mrs. Douglas Tschiffely, chairman of the District of Columbia Women's Golf Association committee. The course is too soggy for playing.

The tournament will be held next Tuesday at the same course, with the same pairings and starting times to prevail.

Mrs. Tschiffely announced that those who have not entered and wish to do so should communicate with her at Adams 9042.

Monday morning at Indian Spring the first team matches between the ten clubs in the District will take place. Chevy Chase won the opening matches early in April at Kenwood.

CELTICS DESIRE GAME.

Weight-Lifting Star In Exhibition Here

Al Manger, of Baltimore, holder of the national amateur weight-lifting championship eight out of the last ten years, will stage an exhibition Saturday night, April 29, in the spacious gymnasium of the Washington Weight Lifting and Athletic Club, located in the rear of 1731 K street northwest, as a feature of the contest between Central Y. M. C. A. and Panthers Club.

The "Y"-Panthers Club contest is believed to be the first weight-lifting event ever staged in Washington.

Chocolate and Watson Sign for Garden Bout

New York, April 20 (U.P.).—Kid Chocolate, of Cuba, and Seaman Watson, of England, today signed articles for a 15-round bout in which the former will defend his New York featherweight title. The bout will be held at Madison Square Garden, May 12.

Md. Lacrosse Ten Hopes to Beat Navy

Chances for Victory Tomorrow Not Very Bright.

ALTHOUGH two positions were lopped off lacrosse teams by the rules committee this year, cutting them from twelve to ten players, the University of Maryland will have only five of last season's regulars in the starting line-up against Navy tomorrow at Annapolis.

Norwood Sothoron, second defense; Gordon Pugh, center; Bill Wood, second attack; George Hockensmith, first attack, and Parker Faber, in home, are all that remains of the formidable 1932 machine. Though the loss of two men is bemoaned by the Old Liners, it should be encouraging to know that there will be only five 1932 subs, instead of seven, in the line-up.

Leonard Rombro, first defense, will be the lone sophomore to start against the Middies. The rest of the positions will be filled by reserves from last season's combination. Completing the line-up are Carl Pfau, goal; Johnny Mitchell or Sam Silber, cover point; Bob Snyder, point, and Rufus Vincent, out home.

Maryland will give away a considerable weight advantage to its opponent. Gordon Pugh, 152 pounds, is the lightest player on the club, and Rufus Vincent, 178, the heaviest. The average weight of the team is 163 pounds. Navy has a rangy and husky team.

Maryland has won three straight games from the Admirals, winning by scores of 5-1, 9-1 and 4-2, but hopes for stretching the chain another link tomorrow are decidedly slim. Coach Jack Faber gives his charges an even chance for victory. Faber saw Navy rout Lehigh last Saturday and was greatly impressed by its physical strength and smooth attack.

The game will start at 3 o'clock.

MILLER VS. GONZALES.

Wilmington, Calif., April 20 (A.P.). Freddie Miller, Cincinnati, N. B. A. featherweight champion of the world, will defend his title in a ten-round bout here next Wednesday night with John Gonzales, Long Beach Mexican, it was announced today. Gonzales is not expected to give Miller much trouble.

MT. PLEASANT PLAY GROUP AGAIN SCORES

"The Gypsy Trail," With Verna Volz as Individual Star Is Ably Presented.

Continuing the good work which elicited high praise in the recently closed play tournament, the Mount Pleasant Players presented Robert Housum's three-act play "The Gypsy Trail," in Fishburn Hall of the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church last evening.

Verna Volz headlined the show, with Percy Russell, jr., playing opposite her.

"The Gypsy Trail" is a comedy-drama built around the lure of the open road in contrast to the inhibitions of convention. In fact, Author Housum has embodied some of the same philosophy used in "Holiday."

Frank Raymond (Richard Dunck-lee) is an Ohio business man who lives with his middle-aged sister (Marion Rose), his daughter (Miss Volz), and young son (Lawrence Swank). Daughter Frances is perennially on the verge of marrying the quite unromantic Edward Andrews (Herbert Cook) when in comes a love-able and romantic adventurer (Mr. Russell), and the whole course of human affairs in changed. But it works out in the end quite all right.

Others in the supporting company are Chandler Baldwin, as the stiff butler; Helena Cook, as Andrews' grandmother, and Ethel Jane Pidgeon, as the old nurse. The play was directed by Dr. L. W. Currier.

The Mount Pleasant Players have done a highly commendable job with this play, extracting from the Housum script all the inherent comedy without any lessening of the philosophical or dramatic values.

The instrumental entr'actes were played by Constance Russell and Marion Mansfield, pianists, and Richard Tuve, violinist, with the off-stage solos being sung by Harriett Mitchell and Mr. Cook. W. A. WHITNEY.

Mt. Vernon Ladies Plan for Meeting

Annual Spring Council to Convene First Time in New Building.

(Associated Press.)

Plans are being made for the annual spring council of the Mount Vernon Ladies Association, which will convene at Mount Vernon on May 10, to continue until May 19.

An usually large attendance is expected. Mrs. Alice Richards, of Maine, regent, will preside.

During council the ladies will occupy the recently completed building which is a duplicate, as to exterior, of the restored slave quarters directly opposite the new building.

The usual annual pilgrimage to Pohick Church, which was Washington's place of worship during much of the time of his residence at Mount Vernon, will be made by the regents on May 14.

Language Beauty Described to Club

Dr. Christopher Addresses Lido Organization on Italian Tongue.

The Lido Civic Club, which is urging upon District school officials the adoption of the Italian language as an optional course in the high school curricula here, last night heard Dr. Joseph Christopher, professor of romance languages at Catholic University, discuss the beauties of the Italian language.

Meeting in the Mayflower Hotel, the group also heard a lecture by Dr. Domini Caino, of the Georgetown University Foreign Service School. The club is composed of prominent Washingtonians of Italian descent.

A resolution was adopted by the club protesting against the cutting of estimtes for the expenses of the District school system. Dr. Ralphael Manganaro, well-known physician, is president of the club.

Printers Fight Exception To Black 30-Hour Bill

A resolution opposing the Tydings amendment of the Black 30-hour-week bill, exempting newspapers and periodicals from provisions of the measure, was adopted yesterday by the board of governors of the International Allied Printing Trades Association, meeting at the Willard Hotel.

The resolution "deplored" the action of the Senate in exempting the printing industry from the 30-hour-week, 6-hour day legislation. The board will send representatives to testify at hearings on the bill opening Monday before the House Labor Committee.

Briton Claims Projectile Will Penetrate Armor Plate.

Sheffield, England, April 20 (A.P.).—Sir Robert Hadfields, a famous steel expert and managing director of the steel firm, Hadfields, Ltd., announced today that his firm had invented a new armor-piercing shell which he claimed to be the best in the world.

Sir Robert declared that the shell had successfully undergone the most severe tests the British government had ever demanded and other tests which previous types of projectiles could not possibly meet.

The new shell, he added, is capable of piercing ship armor at long range with disastrous effect.

CATHOLIC TEACHERS CONCLUDE SESSION

National Group Points to $12,000,000 Saving by Parochial Schools.

The Rev. James A. Byrnes, diocesan superintendent of schools at St. Paul, Minn., was elected chairman of the superintendents' section of the National Catholic Educational Association at the conclusion of the semi-annual meeting of the association yesterday at Catholic University.

The Rev. John J. Fallon, diocesan superintendent of schools at Belleville, Ill., was elected secretary.

State and municipal school systems are saved approximately $12,000,000 a year by Catholic school systems, the Very Rev. Mgr. F. J. Macelwane, diocesan superintendent of schools at Toledo, Ohio, told the association. However, he criticized the lack of attention given to backward children. Rapid strides have been made in recent years in the development of highly efficient teaching staffs, he said.

Father Macelwane paid a tribute to Catholic University, declaring that it has accomplished a great deal in the training of teachers for Catholic schools. Thirty dioceses were represented at the convention.

RICH in Biblical history, but poor in its own right, the River Jordan offers a strange contrast with other noted rivers of the world. Across it Joshua led the Children of Israel into the Promised Land; in its waters Christ was baptized by John the Baptist. Today thousands of Christians annually make pilgrimages to its banks and bathe in its waters. Yet the river itself, judged by the standards of other water courses of the world, is unimportant.

One of its great sources is the Nahr Banias, which emerges from a cave. The Jordan flows 200 miles southward, mostly through a wilderness. Its shallow waters teem with whirlpools and have never been navigable. No important towns are located on the Jordan, and it has no boats, bridges or piers of importance. Most of its way the Jordan flows below the level of the sea, and at its mouth at the Dead Sea it is about a quarter of a mile below sea level.

One of the strangest golf matches ever played followed the challenge of Jess Stuttle, Kansas City pro, to team up with Mrs. O. S. Hill and beat any other team in Missouri in 1929. Henry Decker and William Wotherspoon accepted the challenge and, as an additional handicap, wore heavy fur coats and handcuffs. They won, with Decker scoring 39 for nine holes and Wotherspoon 41.

Colors give added realism to strange things and happenings illustrated by John Hix on a full page in The Sunday Post.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

REORGANIZING THE HOME FINANCES.

HUSBAND—Well, Jennie, we've got to save money. I suppose you know I fired the cook this morning.

Wife—I just heard about it.

Husband—We've just got to cut expenses to the bone. What was she getting?

Wife—Thirty dollars a month.

Husband—Well, there's $30 saved. By the way, did I tell you about those alterations I'm making on the house?

Wife—No, dear.

Husband—I've just let the contract for building a big combination kitchen and bakeshop. It will be a tremendous improvement from a psychological standpoint.

Wife—The chauffeur was in a little while ago. He had his things all packed and said good-by.

Husband—Yes. I had to let him go too in the general economy scheme. Incidentally, dear, did the man from the auto salesroom call up?

Wife—No, why?

Husband—I'm buying two new cars. One of them is a big twelve-passenger bus.

Wife (very puzzled)—But what for?

Husband—Only by buying things can we improve the tone of business and get money into circulation.

Wife—But if we can't afford to keep a chauffeur, how can we buy a lot of new automobiles?

Husband—It's very simple. We borrow the money.

Wife—But doesn't that put us in——

Husband—Don't interrupt me, dear. Where's the gardener?

Wife—Out in the garden, I suppose.

Husband—I'm discharging him, too. He doesn't get much money, but it's only by cutting out the little things that we can put through any major saving.

Wife—I hate to see him go, but if he must he must. He took splendid care of the garden.

Husband—That's all right. See these blue prints?

Wife—What are they?

Husband—Plans for a new $25,000 hothouse with oil burners and everything. I'm also buying a motorized lawn mower and some of the very latest garden implements.

Wife (quite ga-ga)—But how on earth can we——

Husband—Trust everything to me. It won't take any money now. I'm working it through a transfer of a loan which my uncle is getting from your grandfather. Your grandfather thinks it is for your Aunt Minnie. It's really a perfect financing proposition. And by the way——

Wife—What is it now?

Husband—You've got to let baby's nurse go. I'm having a children's hospital built on the premises. It will cost only about $250,000.

Wife—But the money——

Husband—It won't cost me a cent. I'm arranging to get a note from your wealthy father.

Wife—On what security?

Husband—On my release of all his money which he would leave you in his will if he had any money.

Wife (very weakly)—I'll take plain chocolate!

6 FIREMEN INJURED AS TRUCKS COLLIDE DASHING TO BLAZE

4 Near Death From Crash Which Splintered Equipment at Intersection.

Six firemen were injured, four seriously, late yesterday when two pieces of fire apparatus collided in a spectacular manner at Fifteenth and C streets southeast, and were strewn in a mass of wreckage in front of Geller's Meat Market on the corner.

Two-year-old Marvin Geller also narrowly escaped possible death beneath the wreckage when the equipment was thrown over the curbing. He had just retrieved his ball from the street and was standing against the wall of his mother's market when the heavy hook and ladder truck finally came to a stop in the mud a few feet away.

The injured firemen are Capt. Eugene J. Trainor, 45, 520 E street northeast, No. 7 truck, broken left arm, crushed ribs and bruises; Capt. William L. McMahon, 49, 1302 Trinidad avenue northeast, No. 8 engine, possible skull fracture, lacerations to scalp, and injured left wrist; Private David Patrick Grady, 38, 705 Sixteenth street northeast, No. 8 engine, lacerations to head, possible concussion of the brain and injury to left ear; Private Frank M. Dyer, 43, 819 C street southeast, driver of No. 7 truck, dislocation of back; Private William V. James, 27, 3103 Alabama avenue southeast, No. 7 truck, fracture of left forearm, wrist and left thumb; Private Daniel J. Plass, 36, 323 E street southeast, No. 8 engine, possible internal injuries and shock.

Racing to Trash Fire.

The apparatus was racing to a trash fire at 315 Fifteenth street southeast.

The crash occurred when the hook and ladder truck from Company No. 7, located at Eighth and E streets southeast, was turning into Fifteenth street from C street.

Coming into full view of the intersecting street, which is closely hemmed in by residences, firemen on the hose wagon from Engine Co. No. 8, on North Carolina avenue, near Sixth street southeast, saw the truck was approaching at a high speed on C street.

Seeing the impending crash, the firemen on the hose wagon signaled to the truck not to turn into Fifteenth street, but to continue straight ahead on C street.

Equipment Is Scattered.

Private Dyer, driver of the truck, had already started to make the turn, when he caught the signal. He attempted to swerve the huge ladder carrier back onto its course and clear the line of approach for the hose wagon. But it was too late. The screaming engine had darted in front of the truck, and they collided practically head-on, with a mighty crash. Both pieces of equipment were thrown over the curbing, smashing a lamp post and fire hydrant, and finally coming to a stop in the soft dirt, mired to their hubcaps.

Capt. Trainor, on the front seat of the truck, and Capt. McMahon, on the engine, were hurled to the street, and the other members of the crews were either thrown heavily to the pavement or caught in the wreckage. Capt. McMahon and Private Plass were rushed to Providence Hospital, while the others were taken to Casualty Hospital.

Private W. B. Allen, driver of the hose wagon, and W. P. Wittington, W. J. Carroll, and C. M. Claggett on the truck, miraculously escaped injury.

Investigation Is Started.

An investigation into the cause of the crash was started last night by Third Battalion Chief T. B. Stanton, who stated that a report would be made to the investigating board of the Fire Department.

"As I see it," said Chief Stanton, "it was just one of those unavoidable things that will happen. The streets at this point are very narrow and a full view is obstructed by residences."

No. 8 Engine, he also explained, had no way of knowing what apparatus would accompany it to the fire as the alarm was a "local." Strict precaution is taken at all times against the unnoticed approach of vehicles at intersections, he said.

20-CENT REALTY TAX CUT LIKELY FOR D. C.

Horizontal Slash Improbable in Assessments, Is View of Richards.

There will be no horizontal reduction in realty tax assessments as proposed by the Federation of Citizens Associations so long as Tax Assessor William P. Richards is in authority, but there will, in all probability, be a cut in the local tax rate from $1.70 to $1.50 in accordance with suggestions made on Capitol Hill.

A tax rate reduction will be more equitable, in the opinion of Mr. Richards, than a general slash in assessments. The tax assessor is making reductions in assessments in scattered sections where values have dropped because of changes in environment and he wishes to be left free to continue such reductions.

A survey being made by the tax assessor shows, however, that assessments are still well below sales prices in most of the residential areas despite the shrinkage in valuations. In some sections assessments are as low as 75 per cent of sales prices and almost all are under 90 per cent.

Business property sales prices, though, are nearer assessments, the latter running 98 per cent in area already surveyed. As a consequence, Mr. Richards said, there will be reductions made in the assessments of this class of property.

Assessments for the next fiscal year already have been cut about $12,000,000, but this anticipated loss in revenue has been almost entirely offset by building additions.

Mr. Richards expects that the drop in valuation of real property may be greater in Washington this year than last because the depression was slower in reaching the District.

Alumni of Catholic U. Finish Memorial Plans

Alumni of Catholic University completed arrangements for a memorial service for their late members at a luncheon yesterday at the Madrillon. Five senators and twelve representatives will be among those attending the service, which will be held Sunday at Catholic University. Senators Augustin Lonergan, David I. Walsh and Louis Murphy will speak.

William F. Dietz, president of the Washington Alumni Chapter, presided at the meeting.

Jewelry Up

Effect of Gold Embargo Is Being Felt Here in Silver Prices.

Effect of the gold embargo on the jewelry business in Washington became noticeable yesterday when the value of silver began to mount.

The quoted price of bar bullion had increased from 27 to 35 cents; a further increase is expected. The majority of jewelers said that they had not received orders from factories to change prices, but were expecting instructions momentarily.

The introductory offer of a new design of sterling silver tableware, advertised at low prices for this month by a leading local jeweler, was withdrawn by a Baltimore manufacturer.

Increase in the price of silver articles was pointed to as an instance of one object of the gold embargo—to increase the value of commodities.

ENTZES TO APPEAR IN JUVENILE COURT

Vaccination Test Case Slated Next Week After School Holidays Are Over.

Defeated in their first assault upon the District's vaccination regulations as it pertains to public school pupils, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Entz, father and mother of two minor children who have been barred from the Thomson School because of their failure to be vaccinated, will be haled into Juvenile Court next week if their children have not by that time presented medical certificates attesting their vaccination.

Assistant Corporation Counsel T. Gillespie Walsh yesterday made known that he planned to await the ending of the current Easter holidays before he took any action. He intimated that he would not do anything before Monday or Tuesday of next week, so that the children will have two school days within which to accept the compulsory regulation.

The Entz children were barred from school when they failed to exhibit certificates showing vaccination. The parents then attempted to get a court order admitting the children, but Justice Jesse C. Adkins held that the children had not been vaccinated because iodine was spread over their vaccinations within a few minutes after a physician had performed the operation.

The suit was dismissed for that reason, though it had been planned as a test case for the compulsory vaccination law.

Beer Dealers Get 22 More Licenses

One Permit Revoked on Ground Holder Failed to Stick to Facts.

The District Beverage Permits Board held its second meeting this week and approved 22 more temporary licenses. The board recommended the revocation of one license on the ground that the licensee had committed perjury in filling out his application blank by stating that he never had been convicted of a crime.

This is the third revocation recommended to the Commissioners by the board, the other two being for violations of the regulations set up in conformance with the District beer act.

Applications for certificates of approval are reaching the Commissioners daily from out-of-town brewers.

"Be Careful!"

SHOEMAKER LIKELY TO HOLD IMMUNITY

Congress Member Is Urged by Colleagues Not to Press Court Issue.

Representative Shoemaker, (Farmer-Laborite), Minnesota, is likely to stand on his congressional immunity and not go to Police Court this morning to explain why he blacked Theodore H. Cohen's eye, he told The Post last night.

"I'm not thinking of myself," said the robust former convict, who Tuesday night stopped a party in Neighbor Cohen's apartment with his fist.

"I'd go in a minute, and I think I could beat the case. But several members of Congress have come to me. They say they don't want a precedent established that would interfere with immunity as congressmen. So I probably will not go."

Mr. Shoemaker made this statement after Cohen and his friends conferred with the Minnesota representative yesterday at the Capitol. He said an out-of-court settlement was discussed, but he would not hear of it.

Shoemaker's Statement.

Earlier yesterday District Attorney Rover had announced Shoemaker would waive his immunity and go to trial. Everything was lovely until the representative indicated he would not accept service of a warrant. Then Cohen and four of his friends called upon Shoemaker at the Capitol.

Declaring he wished to correct a "false impression," the representative issued the following statement:

"Having been sick and under the care of the congressional physician during the past months, laboring under this condition I had been compelled on numerous occasions to be subjected to the uncalled for noise of a group of unrulies conducting night parties. Having upon several occasions requested of these people to be considerate, I was abused and all semblance of decency was overstepped by these unrulies. I asked the management several times to call a patrol wagon and they refused to connect me with the police department.

Denies Race Prejudice.

"I then went personally to the apartment with the hotel clerk who opened the door, and I asked them to be gentlemen. I was again insulted and I informed them that unless they stopped the noise I should insist upon them leaving the apartment in a patrol wagon, whereupon one of them retorted, 'Are you another Hitler?' My reply was: 'No, but it's fellows like you who disgrace your own race that gives Hitler the arguments he uses.'

"At this juncture a former prize fighter in the group ordered me out and made a rush at me, so as a matter of self-protection I struck in self-defense.

"I wish further to state that I hold no enmity toward any race of people, and as one who has suffered persecution my heart goes out to the Jewish people, and I do not wish the impression to stand that this was a racial matter in any respect."

Man Knocked on Head; Loses $3 to Robbers

John Brown, of 9420 Tenth street northwest, was assaulted and robbed of about $3 last night in the rear of bowling alleys at Fourteenth and Riggs streets by two colored men.

Brown told police that he was parking his car on a lot when the two thugs approached him. One held a gun while the other went through his pockets. After taking the money the colored man with the gun struck Brown over the head and then both dashed off into the night.

D. C. House Group To Confer Today

Tax, Rent and Securities Probe Rules to Be Promulgated.

The House District Committee is expected to meet at 11 a. m. today to map the course of the tax, rent and securities investigation to be made by its special subcommittee, headed by Representative Vincent L. Palmisano (Democrat), Maryland.

A resolution empowering the subcommittee to compel attendance of witnesses probably will be framed and reported out for House action.

Representative Loring Black, jr. (Democrat), New York, said hearings on the Public Utilities Commission bill to merge the Washington Gas Light Co. with the Georgetown Gas Light Co. probably will be held Tuesday.

SUSPECT IS CHARGED FOR SHOOTING DAVIS IN SIDEWALK AFFRAY

Man Locked Up in Homicide Tells Police Slaying Was Accident.

George P. Harding, 23-year-old intimate of Harry ("Doc") Davis, slain Washington betting commissioner, was charged with murder last night in connection with his reputed gambler-employer's fatal shooting early yesterday.

The swarthy youth, with Bennie Olewack, 23, surrendered to police yesterday afternoon after a consultation with Harry F. Whelan, attorney. Olewack, who drove Harding away from the scene of the shooting, was also technically charged with murder, but Inspector P. S. W. Burke, chief of detectives, declared the action was only to insure Olewack's presence as a material witness.

Detective Sergt. John C. Dalglish, investigating the killing of Davis, who is a brother of Police Inspector Ogden T. Davis, said three witnesses to the shooting declared that Harding pointed the gun at Davis and fired, although the latter was acting as peacemaker in a sidewalk scuffle.

Claims It Was Accidental.

Harding, in a statement to homicide squad detectives, declared the shooting accidental. He was corroborated by Olewack. The dark-complexioned alleged murderer, whose pretty 21-year-old wife also was questioned yesterday, said he bought the gun for $5 from a stranger just a few minutes before the shooting. The weapon has not yet been recovered by police.

The shooting took place in front of 933 Ninth street northwest, police said. It came after Harding had become involved in an altercation with several other men. The trouble started when Harding is said to have made a remark about some friends of one of the other men. This man objected and suggested Harding address the remark to the persons referred to.

At this point, detectives said, a fist fight began, but friends of both men pinioned their arms behind them. Davis walked forward in a placating manner toward Harding, it was said. It was then that the fatal shot was fired.

Tried to Keep It Secret.

Davis died at Sibley Hospital early yesterday afternoon, after a blood transfusion. He was not taken to the hospital for about an hour after the shooting. Friends had attempted to get private physicians to treat him in order to keep the shooting secret.

Olewack and Harding left the scene immediately after the shooting, police said. Throughout the night and until they surrendered the pair was sought by a picked squad of detectives. The wife of Olewack also was questioned during the day at the same time Mrs. Harding was interrogated.

Both women said that it all seemed "like a bad dream to them." The comely wife of Harding embraced her husband repeatedly before he was led out of headquarters, to be placed in a cell at the Tenth Precinct pending a coroner's inquest, which Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald set tentatively for tomorrow morning.

Former Sandlot Star.

Davis' body was at an undertaking establishment last night. His wife, who was the only person to whom he made a statement about the shooting before dying, was understood to be prostrated with grief. The wounded man told his wife that the shooting was an accident. No funeral plans had been made last night.

The slain man was a well known and familiar figure in Washington sporting life. As a young man he was a popular sandlot baseball player, performing at first base with the famous old Aloysius Club team.

Old-timers last night recalled Davis' participation in sandlot baseball. He played in a famous game between the Aloysius and St. Stephen's clubs, which ended in a near-riot without deciding the city's championship, in 1907.

Business Men Indorse National President Day

Nation-wide celebration of President's Day, April 30, was indorsed at a meeting yesterday of the Federation of Business Men's Associations at the Anne Clarendon Club.

Following a speech on "National Representation for the District of Columbia," by Jesse C. Suter, vice chairman of the citizens' joint committee on national representation, the association passed a resolution calling for District representation in Congress. The dinner meeting was concluded by an address on District affairs by Gen. Pelham D. Glassford. Arthur Clarendon Smith, president of the federation, presided.

CHANGES EXPECTED IN D. C. ESTIMATES

Senate Subcommittee May Modify Items Curtailed by Budget Bureau.

Liberally disposed toward the more urgent pleas of District citizens, the Senate District Appropriations Subcommittee is expected to make some modifications today in the drastically curtailed District estimates recommended by the Budget Bureau and approved, with some changes, by the House.

Chairman Elmer Thomas and members of his subcommittee will meet at 10 a. m. to go over all items in the bill and make their recommendations to the Senate.

Indications were that a moderate increase in the Federal lump sum contribution, above the $5,700,000 recommended by the House will be forthcoming, together with more liberal school, streets, library and health appropriations.

The subcommittee probably will authorize immediate construction of Calvert street bridge over Rock Creek, and may make some provision for P street bridge over the same valley, in line with recommendations of the Commissioners.

Chairman Thomas said he is sympathetic with the Commissioners' request to transfer individual appropriations within some departments. Some discussion may develop in the subcommittee over the House proposal to continue the 20 cent cab zone system, and the restriction on pay increases under civil service reallocations.

200 Await Official New Forest Quota

Many Applicants Ready to Begin Training at Fort Soon.

As soon as official word is received that Washington has been assigned an additional quota of 500 men to the forestry army, the emergency relief service here will begin sending forward men from the list of 200 applicants, it was announced last night.

The men will be sent to Fort Washington only as word is received from the military authorities that a place has been made for them. This will make it possible to investigate each case carefully, it was explained.

P. U. C. ORDERS DATA OF PHONE COMPANY ABOUT PAPER LOSS

Depreciation Figures Sought Pending I. C. C. Ruling Upon Petition.

The Public Utilities Commission yesterday moved to exercise what authority it has over depreciation rates of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., pending action by the Interstate Commerce Commission on a petition submitted about a week ago by the local commission and nine State public service commissions.

Acting under authority of the District public utility act and with the permission of the I. C. C., the District commission instructed the telephone company to furnish certain data on its depreciation charges and depreciable property and stated that a hearing date will be scheduled at the end of ten days. The company has until August 1 to provide the data.

While the District commission has asked the I. C. C. to relinquish control over the intrastate business of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., the Federal commission has not yet acted. Moreover, the recent hearing was not permitted to cover directly the question of jurisdiction over depreciation charges, over which the I. C. C. claims exclusive control.

All the State commissions, including the District agency, are permitted to review the depreciation charges of the telephone companies in their respective jurisdictions and to make recommendations thereafter to the I. C. C., which proposes to fix preliminary telephone depreciation charges about the middle of August and then to hold hearings before making the final rates effective January 1, 1934.

The local telephone company, though it denies that the District commission has jurisdiction over its depreciation charges, will probably adhere to yesterday's order on account of the instructions of the I. C. C. The company challenged the local agency's authority in a rate case now pending in the District Supreme Court.

New York Interstate Treaty Plan Approved

The Public Utilities Commission yesterday gave its indorsement to an interstate treaty plan worked out by the New York State commission for the control of utility rates over which no single State now exercises control. At present there is no regulation of gas and electric charges where the power originates in one State and is utilized in another.

While the commission is inclined to believe that such a policy might be applied advantageously to the local situation, the establishment of treaties between the District and Maryland and Virginia could be effected only with specific authority from and the approval of Congress.

The plan has reached the stage of treaty making in the New York area, but approval must be obtained from Congress before the control becomes constitutional.

The Washington Gas Light Co. and the Potomac Electric Power Co. both would be affected under such an arrangement between the District and adjacent States. The gas company buys natural gas from Pennsylvania and West Virginia, and the power company has made connections with the Susquehanna River power plants. The District commission has no jurisdiction over these charges.

Likewise the Washington gas companies furnish gas to the Rosslyn Gas Co. and neither the District commission nor the Virginia Public Service Commission governs directly the charge made for this service.

Typothetae Draws 100 To Session Here Today

With more than 100 leaders in the printing industry from various parts of the United States and Canada expected to attend, the two-day midyear meeting of the United Typothetae of America will open today at the Carleton Hotel.

Senator Arthur Capper, of Kansas, a member of the U. T. A., will address the gathering at 2:10 p. m. today on "The Current Situation." He will be followed by Henry P. Fowler, assistant manager of the research department of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

S. B. Walsh Indorsed For City's Architect

S. B. Walsh has been indorsed for the position of municipal architect at a meeting of the Dahlgren Terrace Citizens Association. Copies of the resolution were ordered sent to the chairman of the House and Senate District committees, the president of the Board of District Commissioners and the Federation of Citizens Associations.

Mr. Walsh has been acting municipal architect since the recent death of Albert L. Harris.

Mrs. Roosevelt will present the prize for the title, "best dog in the show" on Saturday night.

Double Blossoms Open by Sunday

Cherry Buds Show Color, Forecasting Brilliant Week-End Display.

Providing there is no unusual change in the weather, the double-blossom Japanese cherry trees in East Potomac Park will be on full display Sunday, Albert Clyden-Burton, assistant chief of the park division of the Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks, predicted yesterday.

The single-blossom variety on the rim of the Tidal Basin have practically shed their bloom. However, the double-blossom trees are showing color and some of the blooms are already out.

Another interesting display of floral finery will make its appearance during the week-end when the crab apple trees blossom in Anacostia Park, Mr. Clyde-Burton said.
